

DUCK TRACKS

By WALLY HUNTER
Assistant Sports Editor

Lou Stafford, Glen Spivey, Dom Provost and Rod Taylor with Jim Dunahoo as No. 5 man and alternate have been named as the men to represent Oregon at the Northern Division golf tournament. From here it looks as though the Webfoots have a sure-fire combination there. The Duck golfers have coasted through a highly - successful season and should be favored to run off with the big honors at Moscow this Saturday. In matches thus far this season Coach Sid Milligan's lads have racked up 133½ points to their opponents' 46½, according to Bill Stratton who is aiding Athletic News Director Art Litchman in keeping statistics on Webfoot athletes. No best-ball scores were totaled because of the difficulty arising from the fact that pairings were different in each match.

LOU STAFFORD

Lou Stafford has been the big gun in the Duck ranks as No. 1 man all season. He has a total of 17½ points to his credit so far. Only man to leave Stafford behind was an old rival from Portland, Jim Marlowe. Larrupin Lou is, however, undefeated in conference competition. . . . There is some doubt as to what effect the Idaho course will have on the ND swingers. It's a nine-hole affair and according to reports will never win any notice as being a top-flight layout. That, however, is hearsay and the course might be all right.

Casanova Invites the Boys . . . and They Come

Quoting Royal Brougham in the Seattle P.I., . . . spring football games won't disclose many top secrets, but grid followers are wondering at the frankness of Santa Clara's Coach Leonard Casanova, who invited every coach in California to attend his final training game . . . maybe the coach did it only as a friendly gesture but if so, he must have been surprised when Bert La Brucherie, Phil Sorboe, and Dixie Howell all showed up."

Quoting Royal Brougham in the Seattle P.I., ". . . spring lege Evergreen we find this choice bit of prose. ". . . down OSC way Prof. Ellison, a dyed-in-the-wool baseball fan, has this to say about why his school is known as the Beavers: "The Beaver is one of the of the smartest and most industrious animals alive—not like a dumb Duck . . ." No comment—that gem speaks for itself.

Webfoot track fans may not realize it, but Colonel Bill Hayward's lithe George Rasmussen is one of the greatest potential stars ever to hang his gear in an Oregon track room. In the Oregon State meet last Saturday the Bend freshman topped 14 feet 2 inches in the pole vault, which is 1 inch better than the Northern Division record set in 1939 by another Hayward athlete, George Varoff. Though the 14-foot-2-inch mark was tops for the division until Saturday, Varoff still holds the Hayward field record with a leap of 14 feet 7 inches.

West Coast Relay Marks Good

At the Fresno West Coast Relays last Saturday, which Southern California won with a husky total of 55 5-6 points, some really fine marks were chalked up. Not only were they better-than-average, they were good enough to top anything that has ever been done in the Northern Division.

For example: In the 120-yard high hurdles a lad named Dixon from UCLA skimmed the timber in 14.3 seconds. The record in this part of the country is 14.4 seconds. That mark was posted in 1929 by Steve Anderson of Washington. In the 100-yard dash the SC mercury man, Mel Patton, tripped away ND record held jointly by Carson Shoemake of Oregon and Lee Orr of Washington State, and the University of Oregon record held by Paul Starr and the aforementioned Shoemake.

Willy Steele Tops 25 Feet

The broad-jump was taken by Willy Steele of San Diego State college with a jump of 25 feet 10¼ inches. Is that good? Well, Jesse Owens holds the world's record in that event. He set it at 26 feet 8¼ inches in 1935 at Ann Arbor, Mich. Northern Division record in that event is 24 feet 2 5-8 inches. It was set in 1938 by Jim Panton of Washington. Another interesting angle on that was the fact that Steele's final three jumps were all over 25 feet. Which proves, if nothing else, that he is a consistent performer. UCLA's Don Barksdale was also entered in that event and his mark was 24 feet 5½ inches.

Theta Chi Bludgeons Phisis; Delts Chop Taus; Finals Next

Sluggers Dominate Both Semi-Final Tilts

By JIM WALLACE

Theta Chi and Delta Tau Delta clash on the intramural diamond Friday at 4 p. m. for the campus intramural softball title.

Theta Chi clobbered Phi Kappa Psi, 26 to 4, and the Delts tripped Alpha Tau Omega, 7 to 2, in a semi-final games yesterday.

Theta Chi Scores First

Theta Chi started fast, scoring in the bottom of the first when Billy Hutchinson doubled and dashed home on an outfield fly. The Hilltoppers added three more in the second. Bill Harber slammed Phi Psi pitcher Jim Bocchi's slow teaser into the tall grass for a homerun, chasing two in ahead of him.

The winners poured nine across in the fifth on a walk, Tom Collie's roundtripper, Keith Bard's triple, doubles by Ed Vannett and Gene Hebrard, and a Phi Psi miscue. Eight Theta Chi hits in the sixth racked up 11 more runs and ended the day's scoring for both teams.

The Phi Psis scored twice in the second, once each in the fourth and fifth for their four markers. In the second Russ Rohwer got an Annie Oakley, came across on Bocchi's single, and Bocchi followed on an infield error. In the fourth Bob Reed homered, and in the fifth Rohwer was errored home after knocking for three bases.

ATOs Lead Early

Alpha Tau Omega grabbed a first inning lead, but faltered to lose. In that frame ATO Rolland Gable scored on George Van Pelt's single. Delt Bob Kerhli, however, evened the count in the second with a homer.

The Delts nosed one ahead in the third, tallied once again in the fourth, and chased three more across in the fifth to end their share of the scoring. Zeb Czaikoski homered with Ed Sanford on in the third; George Reddin tripled Jim Dunlap across in the fourth; Czaikoski, Kerhli, and Dunlap tallied in the fifth.

The losing ATO squad scored its other run in the third when Ed Stoinoff made it home after reaching first on an error.

Both teams tightened their defenses after the fifth inning, and not one man managed to pass second base.

Rebecs Nudge AGs for Title

By DONNA KAY FAIR

Rebec, with an eight-run outburst in the second frame, captured the coeds intramural softball title 8-0 from Alpha Gamma Delta at Gerlinger yesterday.

Except for the second inning splurge, the game was a pitcher's battle with neither team being able to dent the plate in the regulation five-stanza contest.

Rebec, winners of League I, earned the way into the finals by trouncing Gamma hall, while the Alpha Gams, League III titlists, downed Highland house for the right to enter the finals.
