

300 Ducklings Attend YWCA 'Coketail' Party

Members of the YWCA sophomore commission cabinet and the newly-organized group of Duckling counselors were hostesses to approximately 300 new women students at a "coketail" party Sunday evening. The party was held simultaneously at both the YWCA and YMCA bungalows.

Bjorg Hansen, "Y" president, greeted the new coeds and introduced the program. Mary Grubbs, student director at the Congregational church, led group singing, which was followed by a skit depicting the adventures of a "duckling" and her counselor. Participating in the skit were Donna Master-son, Diane Mecham, Anita Hager, Mary Stadelman, and Lou Weston.

The party was given as part of the Duckling counseling project which is sponsored by the sophomore commission under the leadership of Zata Sinclair, president of the group. Other officers and committee chairmen are Lucretia Prentiss, vice-president; Frances Baldwin, secretary; Dorothy Orr, membership chairman; Mary Stadelman, social chairman; Lou Weston, publicity chairman; Joy Miller, "Winnietta" editor; Garrie Bradley, associate editor; Carol Becker flying speech; and Marge Wickenden, posters.

"Vocational Guidance" will be the project theme for the commission this year and will feature informal talks by successful business women in various fields. All members of the sophomore commission will meet for a picnic supper next week to lay more specific plans for the programs.

Guild Members To Meet Tonight

Theater guild members will discuss their plans for the coming year at 7:30 p.m. in Guild hall in Johnson. All students interested in drama are invited to attend and meet the staff.

Immediately following the meeting, tryouts will be held for the first University theater production of the year. Although the name has not yet been announced the play will be given October 24, 25, 29, 30 and Nov. 1.

Variety of Noted Musical Artists Scheduled for McArthur Court

Many widely acclaimed artists are on the tentative program for the 1947-48 concert series sponsored by the Eugene Civic Music association. Having just completed a successful membership drive, the association has signed contracts with eight arts attractions scheduled to appear in McArthur court throughout the year.

Starting off the series sometime in October will be Salvatore Baccaloni, basso buffo. Following him later in the month will be Helen Traubel, Wagnerian soprano.

Pianist Slated

November's entertainment will be the Ballet Variante starring Mia Slavenska, ballerina, and a company of six to eight dancers. Alexander Uninsky, pianist, completes the 1947 concerts after his performance in Eugene in early December.

Scheduled for a Sunday afternoon concert sometime in January is the young Hungarian tenor Miklos Gafni. His life story is now being filmed in Hollywood.

Metropolitan contralto Winifred Heidt will sing for a Eugene audience in February and Isaac Stern, violinist, will be on the program in April.

Concluding the series next spring will be a concert by the Philadelphia Symphony orchestra, Eugene Ormandy conducting.

One of Finest

G. E. Gaylord, president of the music association, believes that this group of artists is one of the finest alignments of talent that the association has ever presented.

Students will be admitted to the series free of charge on presentation of their registration cards.

Applicants Rife; Jobs Scarce

Permanent part-time jobs in almost any category are wanted by the largest number of student applicants at the employment office, Mrs. Lucille G. Parsons, director of the University of Oregon branch of the Oregon State Employment Service, disclosed yesterday.

With the beginning of fall term, a rush of job applications has been received at the employment bureau, with the total applications topping last year's total at this time. The campus total has remained about the same.

Mrs. Parsons stated that baby sitters are needed and any girl may apply. If under certain circumstances they are unable to accept a job when phoned, they will be taken off the list, Mrs. Parsons said.

Men are needed for yard jobs paying from 75 cents to $1, stated Mrs. Parsons. Any offers from employers are also welcomed at the employment office.

Wood to Attend Meeting

Dr. Hugh B. Wood, professor of education, left Monday for Chicago, where he will attend a meeting of the yearbook committee of the National Education association.

Dr. Wood, one of the editors of the yearbook, expects to return to the campus October 3. His trip will include a stop in Astoria to address a session of the teachers' work conference.

The AWS cabinet and council will hold a meeting at 4 p.m. today in the dean of women's office in Emerald hall, Barbara Johns, president, has announced. Miss Johns asks all who possibly can to attend.

Listening Room Is Completed

The Matthew Hale Douglass record listening room completed last week at the library is now ready for use, Dr. R.C. Swank, librarian, said yesterday.

Located on the third floor of the library building, the room is equipped with 12 phonographs complete with headphone attachments. The facilities will be available to students, faculty, and townspeople.

An adjacent room, equipped with a Capehart record machine, will accommodate 12 to 15 people for group listening.

The room is now open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily, with Saturday and evening hours to be arranged later. It was made possible through the $10,801 grant from estate of the late Matthew Hale Douglass.

Basketball Meeting Called For Tuesday

A meeting of men interested in varsity basketball has been called by Howard Hobson, basketball coach. The meeting will be at 4 p.m. today in the reserve section of McArthur court balcony. All men intending to turn out for the team are asked to be there at that time. Hobson will review plans for the season at that time.

All freshmen planning to turn out for the frosh basketball team are asked to meet with Hobson at 3 p.m. today in the reserve section of McArthur court balcony.

Oregana Execs Will Interview Job Applicants

Editor Ross Yates, Managing Editor Trudi Chernis, and associate editors, Laura Olson and Warren Miller, will be in the Oregana offices in McArthur court Wednesday and Thursday afternoons to interview applicants for 1948 Oregana positions.

"Previous experience on publications is desirable but not entirely necessary," Yates said yesterday. The greatest number of students are needed for jobs during winter term and the editors are primarily interested now in making upper staff appointments.

Specifically, editorial assistants are needed for the school, activity, and housing sections of the book. Positions are also open for executive secretary, women's sports editor, and editorial assistant in charge of publications.
