Homecoming Head Selected

Mo Thomas To Direct Festivities

Morven C. "Mo" Thomas, junior in business administration, was named chairman of Homecoming last night by the executive council of the ASUO.

Thomas has served on the Red Cross council, and in Red Cross promotion, on the March of Dimes drive, on Kickoff weekend promotion, and as program chairman for the 1946 Homecoming rally. He is a member of Alpha Tau Omega.

His petition was selected by the executive council from a stack of about 50.

The council also went on record as thanking John Stehn and the band for their "fine cooperation with the rally squad."

This year's Homecoming, November 21 and 22, will feature a football game with Oregon State. Other traditional events at the annual weekend are dances, rallies, and a frosh bonfire.

Benny Di Benedetto, who was graduated from the school of architecture and allied arts in June, was chairman of the 1946 Homecoming celebration.

Highlights of the weekend included the premature burning of the bonfire, selection of Dawn Carson as Homecoming Hostess, and revival of the flaming "O" on Skinner's Butte. Jack Teagarden and his orchestra played for the dance, the first large-scale one of the year.

The council that will attend the coast meeting is composed of members who are actively servicing the youth of the state. Representatives are from the law enforcement agencies such as the state, county, and city police, the federal bureau of investigation, district attorneys, and judges.

Henrich, Page Take Series For Yankees

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (UP)—The New York Yankees won the world series today when two of their old pros, Fireman Joe Page and big Tommy Henrich, came through in the clutch and finally flattened the battling Brooklyn Dodgers, 5 to 2, in the seventh and deciding game.

In the climactic game of the bitterly fought, fantastic series which saw the embattled underdogs from Flatbush come up off the floor time and time again, Big Tommy slashed a fourth inning single with the bases loaded that provided the ultimate margin of victory.

And Page, with $75,000 riding every pitch, went to the hill in relief in the fifth before a roaring crowd of 71,548 baseball fanatics and shut the desperate Dodgers out all the rest of the way.

Baccaloni Opens Concert Series

Salvatore Baccaloni, basso buffo, will be the guest star for the opening of the annual concert series this Saturday at McArthur court.

The civic music association plan, headed by G. E. Gaylord, which is responsible for bringing the series to the campus is a nonprofit organization. "These programs are attended by the largest audience in the United States and therefore, Eugene's civic music plan is considered the ideal example of what can be done to improve group audiences," Gaylord revealed.

There is no admission cost for students and those holding ASUO cards. The doors open at 7:30 and the concert starts at 8:15 with Kwamas doing the ushering.

Professors Express Opinions On Sales Tax Controversy

By BARBARA HEYWOOD

Oregon voters, including University students of voting age will go to the polls today to decide the fate of the sales tax bill. It provides for imposing a three percent tax on gross receipts from all retail sales, with the exception of food, motor fuel, newspapers, and certain other commodities.

As the bill has excited some controversy, an Emerald representative visited two professors of economics who represent opposite sides of the issue. Dr. Calvin Crumbaker, professor of economics, favors the tax chiefly because it will remove a burden from property owners "who already pay more than their property is worth in taxes."

Great Inconvenience
Dr. P.W. Ellis, associate professor of economics, argues that enough revenue is raised from the income tax, and the sales tax imposes great inconvenience on the business man.

Dr. Crumbaker agreed that the income tax meets present requirements, and has raised an "embarrassing surplus." This surplus of about $20,000,000 was raised through income tax and cannot be used except by the legislature placing it in the general fund which they have not done, he said. "Nevertheless," said Crumbaker, "experience justifies the belief that this surplus will rapidly disappear when adversity comes.

Then all state levies will avalanche upon property holders. All commitments now made, and to be made, will run property taxes to fantastic heights."

Spread Load

"The sales tax," he continued, "with all its faults will help spread the load when the storm strikes. It is the only proposal now before the people which will not unduly increase the burdens on the present taxpayers when the 'bust' comes."

Crumbaker said he did not maintain the sales tax is good from an "ideological standpoint."

"Oregon does not have a tax which, from a scientific standpoint can be called good in its present form," the professor said. "Oregon is justified in using the sales tax on the theory sometimes advanced that a good tax system may be built from bad taxes, if

Combined Campaign Cancelled

Dimes, Red Cross National Charters Prevent Accepting

The Campus United Fund drive, postponed from its original opening date September 29, has been cancelled because of the inability to participate on the part of the Red Cross and the March of Dimes organizations. It was decided that it would be impractical to stage a drive for the only remaining organization, WSSF.

Prohibitory clauses in the national charters of the two organizations prevent them from accepting funds raised through a single drive of this kind. No exceptions can be made for college campuses.

Organized by ASUO President Stan Williamson and his committee, the drive aimed to combine the annual Red Cross, March of Dimes, and World Student Service Fund drives into one to relieve students from frequent contributions.

Reasons Presented

The committee presented the following reasons to the Eugene representatives of these organizations, (1) students are not financially able to give to three individual drives, but would probably be able to participate in one drive, where with extreme effort more students could be contacted and in that way spread the burden to a greater number of students, (2) it would be a service to the students to get rid of the recurrent demands for donations and less painful to them in the long run, (3) students were growing tired of so many drives, and (4) the amount received by each group would stand every chance of exceeding that which the individual organization could collect.

WSSF Agrees

The WSSF agreed to accept funds apportioned from the one drive but the Red Cross and March of Dimes representatives could not participate because of their national charters.

Primary reason behind their refusal is that each organization wants to present its educational program to the students, and feels their purpose would be thwarted by the one drive.

It was suggested that the money be collected in one drive as scheduled but that at the proper time these organizations would be allowed to bring their educational campaigns on the campus without attempting collections. This idea was also refused.

Ban Considered

The drive committee met again
