

Features Slated For Old Oregon

This month's Old Oregon, alumni publication to be mailed Monday, is the last issue edited by Harry Glickman, senior in journalism. Bert Moore, also a senior in journalism, has been named his successor.

According to Glickman, one of the October features is an illustrated story of Oregon graduates at the Denver Post with Palmer Hoyt, graduate of 1923. Paul Deutschmann, former city editor of the Register-Guard wrote the article.

News of graduating classes centers this month on the post-college life of 1947 graduates, reports the retiring editor.

Stories of Australian aborigines are told by Ernest G. Moll, professor of English. Also included in this issue is a letter by Ernest Haycox to University of Oregon alumni concerning a student union building.

Glickman said that a unique series of campus scenes done in pencil has been prepared by Una McCann Wilkinson to form covers for the alumni magazine, beginning with the October publication.

Gridiron Giants

(Continued from page one) left half and Betty (Hapless) Arnold, who throws a wicked pass, is in line for the right half-back slot. Dana Lind will hold down the plunging spot.

Miss Carr has been selected to pilot the Pi Phi squad.

Potential All-Americans

Substitutions for Pi Phi include such gridiron notables as Bev Thorn, Connie Jackson, Dorothy Collier, Carol Vowels, Elaine Loftus, Moreen Field, and Pat Lakin.

Heading the Kappa Roster is Pat Robbins, who has been elected captain. She is a veteran of numerous scrimmages at Willamette park.

The Kappa line-up: Georgianne Balaam (a fine pass receiver), Eva Moore (who saw a football game once), Shirley Potter (said to be well grounded in fundamentals), Pat and Barbara Robbins (who may be called upon to run the flanks), Emily

West (notoriously rough on defense), Jane Hull (very deceptive and almost a cinch for the left halfback spot), and Joan Fitzmaurice (who is dangerous in the open).

The contest will have all the color and spirit of traditional Oregon football. Both teams have recruited rally squads. Water boys, Mimi Moores for the Kappas, and Bill Gladsby for the Pi Phis, promise to instill spirits in their teams each time they tote the heavy aluminum containers onto the gridiron. The outcome of the clash is unpredictable, but plenty of thrills are guaranteed the spectators.
