

Board Reviews Tuition Increase

The state board of higher education will consider the students' request for a ten-term, $5 tuition increase at its meeting Monday. The money will be used to build and equip the Erb Memorial student union building.

Through living organizations, 2619 students voiced their opinions on the raise. Of the 1378 men voting, 71 per cent voted in the affirmative. Sixty-four per cent of the 1241 women voting approved. These figures were incorrectly reported in Thursday's Emerald.

Council Says OSC President Supporting Fascist Textbook

President Strand of Oregon State college is the victim of a plan to discredit him in this state, according to a story in the OSC Daily Barometer.

The story began in August when Strand received a letter from Merwin Hart, president of the National Economic council in New York. Hart condemned Tarshis' "Elements of Economics," a new text at Oregon State, as Fascist propoganda, a book reputedly containing many lies.

Strand replied that although he knew little of the text in question except for the standing of its author, a professor at Stanford, he knew Merwin Hart and company by reputation and that their "... condemnation of a boo kis about the best boost it could have... a greater insult to education has never come to my attention."

He explained that he was well acquainted with charges made by John R. Carlson, contemporary critic, in his book "The Plotters" which indicates Hart's connection with subversive activities.

Hart countered in a letter chastizing the President for defending a book he had yet to read. He claimed he had received a judgement against Carlson for statements made in "The Plotters." "Your letter is so interesting... I am taking the trouble to send a copy of the correspondence to each member of State Board of Higher Education," Hart said.

"Elements of Economics," published in the late spring of 1947 is in the library of the economics departement of the University of Oregon but is not now used in classes. In addition to Oergon State, the text is at present in use in about 14 other colleges in the country.

WORLD HEADLINES

By United Press

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 23.—The Flintridge mansion where Beulah Louise Overell dreamed of honeymooning with George (Bud) Golum was sold at auction today for $56,000. Nineteen-year-old Edwin Estes, San Marino, Calif., who made the winning bid said he was buying the palatial home on behalf of his father, Nieuport Estes, an investment broker.

HONOLULU, Oct. 23. Representatives Roy Clippinger of Illinois and Earl Wilson of Indiana, both republicans who voted in favor of Hawaiian statehood, said today they had changed their minds after first-hand observations and will urge the senate to defeat the bill. Wilson said he belived previous congressional groups had been "selfishly led and carefully steered" into a false picture of Hawaii's qualifications for statehood.

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 23. Two Americans—a husband-wife team—and an Argentine scientist tonight were named as winners of the 1947 Nobel prize in physiology and medicine.

The American, Prof. Carl F. Cori, and his wife, Dr. Gerty T. Cori, of St. Louis, Mo., will share half of the $48,580 cash prize, with the other half going to Dr. Bernardo A. Houssay, of Buenos Aires.

The three were honored for their research in determining the utilization of sugar by the body.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Oct. 23. A state of emergency has been declared in the copper mines and nitrate fields of northern Chile where communists are planning to carry out their plans to disrupt national production by means of strikes, it was announced officially today.
