Rally Plans Call for Girls To Escort

Backlund Urges Pre-Game Turnout To Downtown Rally

This is Sadie Hawkins rally day! Tonight at 6:45, women's houses will pick up the men with whom they have been paired and gather for the pre-game serpentine on Alder between 12th and 13th.

Organization pairings were listed on page eight of yesterday's Emerald.

Yell King Johnny Backlund has requested a large turnout tonight, since the game tomorrow with the University of Idaho is Oregon's first conference game at home, and the last till the Homecoming game with OSC. "This is our last chance till Homecoming to exhibit our spirit," Backlund said.

The serpentine will leave the forming point as soon as all organizations arrive, proceeding to downtown Eugene for a 20-minute program of songs and yells. The procession will follow the same route as before, with the University band in the lead.

Backlund also urged that every living organization on the campus have at least one large banner ready by tonight. Men are to wear rooter's lids and women are to carry pom-poms.

Westminster Plans Hallowe'en Party

A Hallowe'en program, ghost stories, dancing and refreshments are included in the activities planned for the Westminster House Halloween party Friday from 8 to 12 p. m. All University students and their friends are invited to attend.

A University Mourns (An Editorial)

Earl Snell, who had been governor of this state for five years, is dead. Nothing the Emerald can say will help.

Nonetheless the Emerald does wish to extend the sympathies of the University student body to the families of Governor Snell, Secretary of State Robert S. Farrell, Jr., and Senate President Marshall Cornett.

Our sincere good wishes go to Governor John H. Hall, along with the hope that he will continue in the manner so long associated with Governor Snell.

BULLETIN

SALEM, Ore.—(UP)—A state funeral will be held at 1:30 p. m. Monday in the Oregon house of representatives for Governor Earl Snell, Secretary of State Robert S. Farrell, Jr., and Senate President Marshall E. Cornett, the governor's office announced last night.

WSSF Drive to Open Monday; Goal Set at Dollar Per Webfoot

The World Student Service Fund drive scheduled to begin on the campus Monday will aim to acquaint students with the needs of their contemporaries throughout the world, Chairman Mart Pond said Thursday as he disclosed that the Webfoot contributions would throw a $100 pass Asia-ward at the University of Rangoon, Burma.

By stipulating the destination of funds collected Pond believes that everyone will be more aware of the urgency of the drive. Scholarships of $150 will be granted Burmese students as well as the $1000 grant to the library which was dynamited and burned by the Japanese.

Gamma Alpha Chi Taps 13 Women

Gamma Alpha Chi, national women's advertising society, tapped 13 women on the campus during the dinner hour this week.

Tapped were Susann Grether, Cheryl Hill, Betty Bushman, Mary Liz Hendrickson, Janet Beigal, Dorothy Wightman, Mary Hibbitt, Billie Jean Riethmiller, Marilyn Turner, Joan Mimnaugh, Marjorie Foster, Sally Waller, and Jackie Wachhorst.

The requirement for membership in the society, announced Maryanne Hanson, president, is active participation and interest in the advertising field.

Competition is being eliminated this year in the hope that contributors will consider the need, and support the drive on its own merits, Pond said. A dollar per student is the goal with green buttons being presented as receipts.

WSSF is a relief organization of American school and college students and professors for assistance to students and professors in the universities of war-devastated countries. Relief is administered through the offices of World Student Relief in Geneva and Shanghai.

The fund has been commended by the United Nations for its excellent work in colleges and universities throughout the world. Enlarged operations of WSSF is considered an essential part of UNESCO's world-wide reconstruction and rehabilitation campaign.

Position Not to Liking Of State's New Chief

SALEM, Ore.—(UP)—John H. Hall, dark-haired, 48-year-old Portland attorney, was sworn in as governor of Oregon before a grieving assemblage yesterday eight hours after Governor Earl Snell and his immediate successor, Marshall Cornett, were found dead in the wreckage of a vacation plane.

Former Governor Jay Bowerman administered the oath to the new chief executive at 3:05 p. m. before a crowd of 80 in the governor's chambers.

"I am carrying on a job not to my liking," Hall said after the brief ceremony. At Hall's side during the inauguration was his attractive blonde wife, Alice.

Funeral Next Week
It was announced that the funeral of Snell, Cornett, Secretary of State Robert S. Farrell, Jr., and Pilot Cliff Hogue, who were killed together when their plane crashed near Dog Lake, Ore., six miles north of the California border between Klamath Falls and Lakeview, will not be held until after Monday.

Cornett, president of the state senate, normally would have succeeded Snell to the governorship. But with Cornett's simultaneous death with Snell, Hall, the third in line as speaker of the house of representatives, becomes chief executive.

Fifty forest rangers and other volunteer searchers fanned out over a wide area of the Dog Lake country Wednesday night and early yesterday to reach the wreckage of the governor's plane in a remote mountainous area at 7:35 a. m.

Hunting Guns Bent

Three bodies were inside the smashed cabin, with hunting guns bent and twisted about them. The plane, with its airspeed indicator set at 135 mph, had slithered through mud for 75 feet, sheared off several small trees, and pancaked with tremendous impact against a group of hillside saplings.

All the occupants were severely injured. Snell suffered apparent multiple fractures of the head and face. Farrell was hurled outside the plane.

Searchers bore the bodies out of the wilderness on stretchers—some of them hurriedly slung together with boughs and coats. Grieving friends awaiting at the Klamath Falls-Lakeview highway positively identified the bodies, and from there the bodies were moved in ambulances to a Klamath Falls mortuary.

When word was flashed to the capital by Sheriff Henry A. Cassidy that the bodies had been identified, flags were lowered to half staff throughout Salem and at Oregon State college. Work virtually came to a standstill in state offices.

The secretary of state's office was closed when notification of Farrell's death was received. That office is not authorized to function until a new secretary is appointed by Hall.

Onthank Returns After Trip North

Karl W. Onthank, dean of personnel administration, said Thursday that there are many job openings for those who will graduate in December, and that those who will want placement should register with him.

The dean also announced that there are numerous calls from businesses that operate training programs for prospective employees. Anyone interested who will graduate before June, should register early.

June graduates were also advised that they should make arrangements before that time, particularly those interested in jobs involving special training.

Graduate Students to Cooperate With Atomic Energy Scientists

Close cooperation between the University of Oregon graduate school and the newly established graduate school of nuclear engineering at the Hanford atomic energy project in Richland, Washington, was urged in a resolution passed by the state board of higher education in its meeting Monday.

The facilities available at the Hanford project for work in nuclear engineering will make the graduate school one of the most unusual and outstanding in the nation, Dr. Eldon Johnson, dean of the graduate school, said. The plan of General Electric Company which operates the Richland plant for the government, is to recruit persons of university and college level for actual work on the atomic energy project. Those persons employed will be given an opportunity to take courses and seminars under outstanding teachers. Courses and seminars taken may count toward a graduate degree.

Plans Two-Fold

The plan of the school is two-fold, to give the project better workers and also to afford college and university graduates an opportunity to study and do work in nuclear engineering, Johnson said.
