

DUCK TRACKS

By WALLY HUNTER
Sports Editor

Down at Palo Alto the average fan is well aware of the sad grid record thus far compiled by Stanford and is figuring the Indians stand their best chance of winning a conference game this weekend. And that belief in itself is an indication of how Oregon stock soared after the USF victory and how low Oregon State is rated after the Southern Cal debacle. Left on the Cardinal schedule are Oregon State, Southern Cal, Oregon and California.

PEST WELCH

As things stand now the Marchie Swartz outfit doesn't stand to take anything but lumps from here on in, but the Bevos are expected to be the easiest of them all. Following the Southern Cal crackdown on the Orangemen Lon Stiner's crew dropped immeasurably in the opinion of California grid followers, and that is something that hasn't happened in many a long year. Oregon on the other hand is figured as quite a ball club after they heavy-handed the Dons, and that too is something that hasn't happened for many a year.

Oregon-USF—"A top-drawer surprise"

That Webfoot victory is still hurting the operators in the Bay area and many a good line of type has been devoted to discussions pro and con as to what happened to the unbeatables from USF. Bud Spencer sports editor of the San Francisco News had this to say about it Tuesday. . . . I still think USF's defeat can be written down as the top drawer surprise of the football season to date, even more so than Columbia's win over Army. . . . That is a pretty fair indication that the local boys figured the Ed McKeever gang was a red-hot outfit. They couldn't have underestimated the Ducks too much after the fine exhibition they put on in losing to UCLA.

Both University of Washington and Southern Cal are booming the 15-year jinx the Huskies hold over the Trojans as being important in their Saturday encounter. Jeff Cravath is a wee bit mournful over prospects of overcoming the jinx and though Pest Welch is not counting on the hex working this season, Husky publicity is operating overtime on that angle. The fact still remains that anyone wanting to bet on Washington should take the advice of one United Press sports writer. His advice was, ". . . if you bet on the Huskies and the 15-year jinx—then you'd also better ask for 20 points. . . ."

Extra Shoes—Different Cleats

Numerous football fans have been wondering why a dozen or more extra pairs of football shoes are always carefully placed on the sidelines near the Oregon bench on game days. The explanation is simple enough. When the field is wet or is lable to be supy Coach Jim Aiken is taking no chances on his athletes being caught short with the wrong type of cleat for the field. The extra shoes are all equipped with mud cleats and are available for any player not satisfied with cleats chosen at the beginning of the game.

Incidentally, the condition of the field is something that Aiken has thus far this season taken into consideration at every turn. For example, before the Washington game he was out on the field hours ahead of time in football shoes himself running, cutting and stopping in order to know the exact condition of the turf. By actually testing the field himself he figures to better advise his ball club as to the length of cleat that would be preferable for conditions that day.

A New East-West Game

Plans for a new and additional East-West game sponsored by the American Legion were recently revealed in Football News. If ideas mature the game would be played at the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum on December 20. Not invited to send players would be members of the PCC and the Western conference, and any other schools already pledged to participate in established bowl games. On the Coast this would leave only University of San Francisco, St. Mary's, San Jose, Loyola, and Santa Clara to send representatives.

John's Record is Good

Not counting the period during the war when he took over as varsity Coach John Warren has a really impressive win-loss basketball record. In a seven year period at Astoria high school "Honest" John's lads rambled through a 340 game schedule and lost only 36. Figuring percentages that isn't so bad. Also of note were state high school court championships in 1930-32-34-35. Four titles in seven years is a fair average. His frosh teams here at Oregon won 108 games out of 130 chances.

IM Volleyball Results

By BOB REINHART

The second week of intramural volleyball action came to a close yesterday afternoon as six pennant-conscious outfits battled past their opponents by healthy margins and took one more step toward the finals and the blue ribbon in their respective leagues.

Sigma Chi Trips Sigma

Sigma Chi notched its second consecutive triumph in as many outings as it took two straight over an outmanned gang of hustlers from Sigma hall. In the first contest the Hallman jumped into an early three point advantage as they displayed a terrific setup game. However the Sigs had things to their own liking in the final phase as they took the game 15-7. Still hot from the first tilt, the Sigma Chis took up in the second game where they left off in the first and tallied a 15-2 winning margin.

Westminster Wins

In the closest game of the afternoon an inspired team from Westminster house knocked off Sherry Ross two straight and to nab their first victory of the season. Matching point for point, both squads flashed an excellent spiking game which time after time put them back into the ball game. It was only after they had broken a 14-14 deadlock that Westminster gained her first win 16-14. In the second game the proceedings were not so tight. Westminster rallied in the opening phases and was not headed from that time on in grabbing an easy 15-9 victory.

SAM Tops SAE

Sigma Alpha Mu jumped back into the winners circle yesterday as they toppled SAE in two straight games by scoring twin 15-8 victories. The Sammies were never headed as they battled their way into an early 6-1 lead on the strength of a powerful setup and spiking game. SAE rallied late in each tilt, but to no avail.

Yeoman Drops TKEs

In the final upper division action the Yeoman made it two straight over the TKEs as they turned the trick 15-7 and 15-11. The first game was never in doubt as the "Y"men won handily after building up an early advantage. In the second game, the issue was not settled until the final moments as the TKEs seemingly found their key to victory, and rallied to within one point of the leaders.

ATO, DU Triumph

In the "B" division, both the ATOs and DUs notched easy triumphs as they found little opposition in Lambda Chi Alpha and the Chi Psis. ATO turned the trick against Lambda Chi Alpha as they scored 15-5 and 15-3 victories over the later. In the second lower division tilt of the afternoon, the DUs dumped the Chi Psis 15-13 and 15-2. The initial outing was in doubt until the final whistle as first one team would jump into command, and then the other. Victory finally came to the DUs after they came from behind in the closing seconds.

Chess Club Party Tonight at 'Y'

The University chess club will hold a Hallowe'en party tonight from 8 to 11 p. m. at the YMCA. Chess club officers extended a cordial invitation to all members and their friends to attend the event.

Apple Sale to Continue

The Gamma Alpha Chi apple sale will continue today at the regular booths, Joan Mimnaugh, chairman announced Thursday. Plans originally scheduled the sale to end Thursday.

Eight Fem Teams Remain Unbeaten in V-Ball Play

MONDAY GAMES

Alpha Delta Pi vs. Alpha Chi Omega

Ann Judson vs. Gamma Hall
Highland vs. Kappa Alpha Theta
By Coralie Thomson

Sigma Kappa and Alpha Delta Gamma remained among the eight unbeaten volleyball teams after the final whistle had blown in Gerlinger Thursday night.

The Gamma Phis were the victims in a close and thrilling ball game which found Sigma Kappa on the long end of a 22-20 score. Francis Robson for the SKs and the Gamma Phi's Barbara Wheat shared scoring honors with six each.

The lifeless Theta team managed to score 10 points while allowing the Alpha Gams 44. Joan Thorson scored 15 points for the Alpha Gams.

In a game played completely under the non-rotation system the Alpha Chis bested the Pi Phis 21-15. Joan Carr put across eight good serves for the Pi Phis while Jane Grace was high point for AXO with five.
