WORLD HEADLINES

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Nov. 4—Round-the-world fliers Clifford Evans and George Truman landed their tiny cub planes on snow-covered Elmendorf field near here at 3:45 p.m. (PST) today and were given an enthusiastic greeting by a crowd of more than 2,000 people.

After the two planes had taxied down the mile-long runway, the crowd closed in around them while Lt. Gen. Nathan F. Twining, commander of Alaska army customs, congratulated the pair on the successful 1,700 mile trip up the storm-ridden Aleutian island chain and the mountain-dotted Alaska peninsula.

The fliers were in good health, but appeared tired and homesick. "When we turned back to Naknek yesterday we blamed the weather," Evans said smiling, "but that wasn't the real reason. After we took off we got a message that there was mail there for us, so we went back. We've only received six letters on the trip.

Tonight the entire city of Anchorage will turn out in a reception for the pair with a public appearance, a radio broadcast and a party in a local night club on the program.

GLASGOW, Scotland, Nov. 4—Labor candidates suffered unexpected losses today in partial returns from Scotland's municipal elections, similar to those in England and Wales in which labor lost heavily. With approximately one-third of the returns in labor candidates had suffered a net loss of 15 seats on town councils.

CHICAGO, Nov. 4—Meatless Tuesdays have caused a slight decline in meat prices and the whole food conservation program is "rolling along nicely," Chairman Charles Luckman of the citizens' food committee said today.

"It is encouraging that prices for meat have dropped, even though the decline is not nearly enough," he told a news conference. "It means that public demand has declined as result of the voluntary meatless Tuesdays."

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 4—Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder said tonight that prosperity is here to stay "for at least five years" but unless the rise in the cost of living is halted it will "lead to grave circumstances." No matter what action congress takes on the president's recommendations at the coming special session, Snyder said, "we can go a long way toward meeting these problems if we constantly press for increased production."

Nov. 4—A Democratic candidate leading Tuesday in the governor's race in Kentucky, which has been under Republican rule for four years, in Mississippi Rep. John E. Rankin was taking a severe drubbing in his effort to replace the late Sen. Theodore G. Bilbo in the U. S. senate.

Earle C. Clements, a Democratic representative in congress, built up a 4-to-3 lead for the Kentucky governorship over Eldon Dummit, the Republican state attorney general, with one-fourth of the precinct counted.

World Split Between Need, Greed--Adamic

By WALLACE BERNING

The world today is squarely split between the forces of need and greed, Louis Adamic said in an address in McArthur court last night. These two words are the gist of history, and all else, UNO, Marshall Plan, Truman Doctrine, and Communist Manifesto are just fuss and fury unless this fact is understood, according to the noted author.

He feels that America today is ruled by a clique which has aligned itself with the forces of greed, and through propaganda has won the soul of the American people. "These American lords of ours use the press and radio which they control to maintain the dominance of their kind over the world masses."

Educator to Talk On Lack of Food

Mrs. Woodhouse To Speak to Group

Mrs. Chase Going Woodhouse, executive director of the women's division of the Democratic national committee, is addressing an open meeting of the YWCA public affairs committee on "Food or Famine" at 4 in Gerlinger hall today.

"As an ex-congresswoman and an educator, Mrs. Woodhouse writes and speaks authoritatively on subjects of vital interest to women," according to Janet Beigel, public affairs chairman.

Was in Congress

Mrs. Woodhouse was elected to the 79th congress by the second district of Connecticut, in which state she had also served as secretary of state in 1941 and 1942. She has been president of the Connecticut Federation of Democratic Women's clubs since 1940 and formerly was chairman of the New London Democratic Town committee.

During her term in congress, Mrs. Woodhouse was secretary of an informal congressional committee for the protection of the consumer. She is vice-chairman of the national association of consumers and managing director of the institute of women's professional relations.

Mrs. Woodhouse has taught economics at Connecticut college, Smith college, teachers' college of Columbia university, the University of Texas and the University of Iowa.

Super Crisis
Revolutions and similar seemingly local incidents have been going on since history began, Adamic said, but these crises have now culminated in a super crisis. "This should not be a surprise, however," he said, "because each revolution was part of a pattern causing or influencing the next one till the whole mess has converged into one contest with a capital C."

Leaders like Truman, Vandenberg, Byrnes, and Baruch on the American scene and Churchill, Chiang, and De Gaulle on the international scene have aligned themselves with the Hearsts, the McCormicks, the Dulles and the world cartels to develop a counter-revolutionary movement to oppress peoples abroad and to gain control of us so that they will have us in their power when the next de-

Marshall Plan Tabbed Unworkable

By BOB FRAZIER

Peasant party leaders in the Eastern European states are being driven out or liquidated "as a natural reaction to the Truman doctrine and the Marshall plan," in the opinion of Louis Adamic, who met reporters before his McArthur court address.

The nations on the Russian periphery are "taking no chances with potential fifth columnists," and are eliminating Peasant leaders, who are, or who might become "tools of Great Britain and the U.S."

The noted author and lecturer said he felt the Marshall plan (which is "not a plan but merely a suggestion") would not work because any help the United States sends will be "too little, too late, and to the wrong people."

The tenseness between the United States and the Soviet Union is the fault of the United States, he told reporters. "We started the 'Cold War,' when our president invited Mr. Churchill to make his 'warlike speech' at Fulton, Mo. The Cold War was declared in the Truman Doctrine."

No war, he insisted, would do Russia any good—hot or cold. Moreover the Russian leaders are "ready for compromise." Now, he said, it is "up to American business" to approach the Soviet Union on a friendly basis. If the United States tries to

Behind the 'Man'

HORACE W. ROBINSON

Director of "The Man Who Came to Dinner," University Theatre production currently breaking all box office records.

Theater Adds 'Man' Matinee On Saturday

Breaking all box office records, "The Man Who Came to Dinner," has been scheduled for additional matinee at 2:30 Saturday afternoon. This makes a total of nine performances, the most ever played by any one production in the University theater.

Repeat performances for the coming Friday and Saturday nights were added to the original six performances to accommodate the heavy demand at the box office. Seats for these two nights have been sold out and continued requests have made necessary an extra matinee Saturday afternoon. Only seats for the matinee remain.

Cliff James as Sheridan Whiteside with Marie DiLoreto and Diane Barnhart lead the cast in a bubbling satire on our ways of life.

Box office in Johnson hall will remain open throughout the week for the matinee show from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. and from 1 to 5 p.m., according to Mrs. Marge Ramey, business manager.

Film Shows Ravaging Of Europe

WSSF Offers 'Seeds of Destiny' To Campus Tonight

By HELEN SHERMAN

The showing of "Seeds of Destiny," UNESCO's educational film of war-wrought devastation in Europe and Asia, with the educational activities films at Chapman hall tonight has top billing on WSSF drive activities today, according to Chairman Marty Pond. The film will be shown at 7:30 and 9 p.m.

Pond has been informed that motion picture distributors in the U.S. have not released the picture United States have not yet released the picture for the consumption of general theatergoers because of the possibility that some of the scenes of human suffering might create a negative effect on the audience.

However, results of the preview showing of the film to campus house representatives last Thursday indicated that the general feeling was that this film should be shown to all university students.

Presentation of Ben Jorgensen, former Danish underground worker who was on the campus at the first of the week; Captain Hsu Kai-yu, reserve officer in the Chinese army; and the film are some of the educational means used by the committee for presenting the drive to the campus. A WSSF-sponsored program will be broadcast on station KUGN tomorrow at 9:15 p.m.

Members of Phi Theta Upsilon and Druids, junior honoraries, are speaking at campus living organizations during the week. Booths have been set up by Kwamas in the Co-op and the library so that those not reached in the living organizations can contribute at a convenient location.

Marguerite Johns and Oliver Larson, fund treasurers, reported "gratifying results" for the first two days of the drive. Several living organizations had chalked up 100 per cent contribution records. The treasurers emphasized that funds should be turned in at the campus branch of the YWCA daily, between 4 and 5:15 p.m.
