'Civil War' Reopens At 2

This Trio to Lead Webfoots in Finale

Leading the revenge hunting University of Oregon Ducks in their "civil war" battle with OSC today will be the above trio which comprises three-fourths of Coach Jim Aiken's starting backfield combination. Co-captains for today they are, left to right, Bob Koch, Jake Leicht, and Jim Newquist.

Ducks Favored to Cop First Traditional Battle Since 20-0 Win in 1940

By FRED TAYLOR

A grimly determined band of Oregon gridmen, primed to end seven fruitless years of intrastate battling, tackle the Oregon State Beavers today in the annual "Civil War" struggle on Hayward field. Kickoff time is 2 p.m.

A homecoming crowd of 20,000 will be on hand to see the favored Webfoots attempt to end Beaver dominance. Not since 1940 has an Oregon eleven scored a victory over their cross-valley rivals, but the Ducks are being given a seven point margin by dopesters to break into the win column today.

Cold Weather Predicted

Hopes for a victory were given an additional boost by the weatherman, who predicted continued clear, cold weather for today's tilt. This means Oregon will have full use of both the ground offensive and the potent aerial attack, and the firm footing of Hayward field promises plenty of fast-moving action.

Seven Webfoot gridders will be donning the lemon and green for the last time when they face the Staters in the traditional fray. A trio of the seniors, Jake Leicht, Jim Newquist, and Bob Koch, ace backfield stars, have been named honorary captains for their final appearance.

From the line will depart four stalwarts. Wingman Larry Stoven, Pete Torchia, and Wayne Bartholemy, and guard John Kauffman are all slated to see action today in their last game.

Win Streak on Block

The Ducks are putting a five game winning streak, the longest victory string since 1933, on the block today. Boasting a season's record of six triumphs against three defeats, two to non-conference opposition, the Eugene eleven still has an outside chance to finish in a tie for first place in the coast conference. If UCLA beats USC today, and Oregon wins, the three squads will be tied with identical league records of five victories and only one defeat.

Oregon State's hot-and-cold Beavers enter the game with a record of four and four. The Beavers have had a mediocre season, after having been tabbed one of the top teams on the coast early in the year.

A short ceremony in honor of Colonel Bill Hayward, retired veteran Oregon track coach, will be held preceding the kickoff. Today's game has been dedicated to Colonel Hayward, although it is not certain that he will be well enough to attend.

Weight Edge to State

The Staters have the advantage of superior weight over the Oregon club. The Duck forward wall is outweighed, 212 pounds to 208 pounds for the host eleven. Oregon State Backfield men are also bulkier, weighing 191 per man to an average 186 for the Webfoots.

Oregon is in top physical condition for the battle. Every man on the squad is ready to go, and even Bill Abbey, who retired from action over a month ago to nurse a head injury, is expected to play.

Hayward Day Proclaimed; Dance Climaxes Festivities

Remaining 300 Dance Tickets To Sell at Door

Only 300 tickets remain for the big Homecoming dance in McArthur court tonight, according to Robin Arkley, chairman of the dance. These, he said, will be sold at the doors which open at 9 p.m.

Paid-up alumni, Arkley announced, will be admitted to the dance free.

Music for the affair will be furnished by Curt Sykes and his 13-piece orchestra.

Curt Sykes

Sykes is currently playing an engagement at the Trianon ball-room in Seattle. Featured vocalist of the band is Bob Raymond.

According to advance notice, Sykes and his orchestra play a modern style of music interspersed with sweet and swing.

Decorations for the dance are under the direction of Chuck and Bob Corgan. They revealed yesterday that the court would be decked with murals of life at the University for the many Homecoming alumni expected to attend.

Short Silks

Dress for the dance will be short silks for the women and business suits for the men, according to Nila Desinger, campus social chairman. Flowers, she said, will not be in order.

Members of the dance committee include Shirley Potter, Jordis Benke, Norm Morrison, Dick Haws, Marjorie Rambo, Nancy Chamberlain.

Lack of Cooperation Blamed for Fiasco

Blame for the cancellation of last night's annual Homecoming bonfire was placed squarely on the shoulders of all men's living organizations by Perry Holleman, chairman of the bonfire committee.

According to Holleman, presidents of all houses were contacted early this week and had agreed to furnish enough freshmen to assemble the fire yesterday. Only a small sprinkling of men appeared—not enough to build the fire before its scheduled lighting at 7:15.

The chairman said that both he and Mo Thomas, Homecoming chairman, attempted by phone yesterday to secure the needed aid, but to no avail.

Winners Told At Assembly

The old rally-rally spirit was there—cheers, streamers and all—at the "Dux Apoppin" assembly last night in Mac court at which trophies for homecoming events were awarded.

Noise parade winners are Kappa Kappa Gamma and Delta Upsilon, who worked jointly, rustled up an air raid siren, a steamship whistle and two cannons for the event.

The Russell trophy cup was awarded to Ann Judson house for their sign comprising a revolving book with a yellow O.

Sigma Phi Epsilon, who claimed the Byrom Kneeland cup for their sign, which was staggered from roof to ground, had the Oregon duck first with his suitcase and a parachute (Return) then in bed dreaming of his feats against the Beaver (Recall), and thirdly capturing the Beaver in a butterfly net (Recapture).

'Bill' May Not See Functions In His Honor

President Harry K. Newburn yesterday proclaimed today as official "Bill Hayward Day" on the Oregon campus in honor of Colonel Bill Hayward, retired track coach who, according to latest reports, is critically ill and may not be able to attend the festivities in his honor.

Friends, former Order of the "O" men, trackmen, and special guests have been invited to attend a fish fry today in Hayward's honor at Gerlinger hall beginning at 11:45 a.m. Don Dole, chairman of the event, estimated Friday that more than 500 persons will be assembled for the special occasion. Notable guests at the speakers' table will be L. H. Gregory, sports editor of the Oregonian.

More Notables

George Bertz, sports editor, the Journal; Dick Strite, sports editor, Eugene Register-Guard; Grant "Doc" Swan, track coach, Oregon State; John Warren, Webfoot basketball and baseball coach; Bill Beifus, track captain 1947; Ralph Hill, national mile champion 1930; and many other title holders who worked under Hayward during his 44 years of service at the University.

Pre-game ceremonies at the Oregon State-Oregon football game this afternoon will wind out the celebration in honor of Hayward.

Gifts, special awards, and tributes by the University of Oregon band will be presented following the Order of "O" march onto Hayward field. Telegrams, personal messages, and letters have been coming in by the hundreds from all over the country, according to Al Pietschman, general chairman of the Bill Hayward committee.
