

WORLD HEADLINES

SEATTLE, Nov. 25—All but three of the 15 crew members aboard the army freighter Clarksdale Victory were believed to have drowned when the ship rammied into the southwest beach of Hippa island and broke in two last night.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25—The nation's top movie executives agreed today that they will "not knowingly" employ a communist or anyone else who advocates the overthrow of the United States government by force or unconstitutional means.

LAKE SUCCESS, Nov. 25—A former United States chamber of commerce economist says Russia has a secret gold hoard which it might use to fight the Marshall plan. Charles Prince, in an article in the December issue of United Nations World, said that the "secret weapon" by 1967 probably will "equal or surpass" the fabulous U. S. reserve buried at Fort Knox.

Returning Delegates Tell of Canadian Fear

Divergence of opinion was evident in discussing "Can the East-West Split be Reconciled?" at the Northwest Regional conference of International Relations clubs at the University of British Columbia in Vancouver, November 21, and 22.

Two main opinions were expressed in determining the causes for the clash between Russia and the United States. One emphasized the great difference between the two cultures; the other emphasized the rift between the political institutions of communism and democracy.

Federation Wanted

The value of NUESCO was unanimously recognized. The conference delegates passed resolutions recommending exchange of a great mass of students between the East and West. This it was felt, would create better understanding and tolerance between the two areas.

The group also resolved to do all they could to encourage their governments, Great Britain and the United States, to set up a world federation.

Canadians Active

The Oregon students on their return reported a feeling of apprehension, if not resentment toward the U. S. by a few members of the Canadian conference. The existence of many active political parties on the University of British Columbia campus shows that the students take an intense interest in politics, they said.

There was a noticeable lack of consensus among the delegates discussing the problems of the three round table sessions. These sessions covered the clash in the United Nations, Europe and Asia.

Malik Precursor

Dr. C. P. Schleicher, adviser for the International Relations club of Oregon accompanied the four student delegates, who wrote papers and contributed to the discussion. The delegates and subjects covered were Jean Hayes, China; Phyllis McMahon, American and Russian relations in Korea; Glen Morgan, the atomic bomb commission. John Malik was the discussion leader for the round table on "Greece and the Balkans," while Bob Miller was general observer.

Americans Uninformed

Dr. Peter H. Odegard, president of Reed college, was guest speaker of the conference. He spoke on "Fact and Fiction in Diplomacy—a Plea for Light."

He pointed out that, although this country has the greatest number of magazines, newspapers, and radios, than any, the American public is pitifully uninformed about national and international affairs.

The students' time was not devoted wholly to study and discussion while at Vancouver. The University of British Columbia as hosts entertained their guests with luncheons, a banquet and a dance.

The Scotch Highlanders gave an exhibition of bag-pipe playing and marching, attired in the traditional Scotch plaid kilts, which was especially enjoyed by the students from the U. S.

Varied Delegates

Mrs. L. S. Parker, secretary in charge of the International Relations clubs which is sponsored by the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, presided at the general assembly. Farragut college, Idaho, was named host for next year's conference. There were representatives from Hawaii, Montana, Idaho, Washington and Oregon colleges. Canadian students came from British Columbia, Alberta, and Manitoba. There was a total visiting delegation of 130 student members and 15 faculty members, representing 25 colleges.

Air Commander To Speak to Group

Members of the Eugene Air Reserve association will hear Col. Clifford Patton, commander of the 746th bombardment group at a banquet meeting in the Assembly room of the Eugene hotel, Dec. 2 at 6:30 p.m.

Patton will review activities of the Air Reserve in this area. Also on the program will be an officer from McChord field, Washington.

No one on the Old Oregon staff can milk a cow.
