

Willis Caldwell To Show Films At Westminster

Willis Caldwell, will show colored motion pictures of his attempt to scale Mt. Huascarán in the Peruvian Andes at the Sunday Westminster forum.

Westminster President Clell Conrad has invited all students and faculty members to attend the one-hour program beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Willis Caldwell was in a party of four which set out to climb the highest peak in Peru, the 22,180 foot Mt. Huascarán, late in 1940. The men were blocked near the top by a 300 foot ice cliff.

Caldwell took several thousand feet of motion picture film during the expedition.

Two members of the party, including Caldwell, remained in Peru after the Huascarán ascent, to descend in a balsa raft the little-known Marañón, true source of the Amazon river. They barely escaped with their lives in this attempt when the raft crashed into submerged rocks.

Caldwell and his companion found themselves without supplies deep in the most desolate and unknown regions of Peru, and will
