Driving Guards

Stan Williamson and Al Popick, starting guards on John Warren's hoop five, will carry their share of Oregon's offensive load tonight against OSC, when the two squads square off in the Men's gym at Corvallis.

Rumors, Seattle Times Report Howie Odell Headed for UW

SEATTLE, Jan. 15—(UP)—The University of Washington's board of regents met in closed session with Athletic Director Harvey Cassill here today to discuss the hiring of a new head football coach, but recessed without reaching a decision until tomorrow morning.

A University spokesman said he expected the board's decision to be announced at that time.

Meanwhile, local rumor and the Seattle Times reported the choice for Ralph (Pest) Welch's successor would be Howard (Howie) Odell, head coach at Yale for six years. The Times reported Odell on his way to Seattle to accept the appointment.

Ducks Slate Short Drills For Agg Tilt

By DON FAIR

With the traditional Civil War basketball opener against Oregon State looming up tomorrow night, the Oregon cagers held a short shooting practice yesterday.

Webfoot coach John Warren revealed that again today, the Oregon cage squad will hold only a light workout, during which the candidates will sharpen up their shooting eyes for the Aggie encounter.

Instead of taking the usual 12-man traveling team to Corvallis for the game, Warren is taking his entire squad on the Beaver trip. However, because of the 3200 limited seating capacity in the Oregon State court, these will probably comprise the only Oregon boosters to witness the skirmish.

Beavers on Top

The Webfoots are knotted for second place in the league race with Washington and Idaho, each having one victory and one defeat. The Beavers, coached by veteran Slats Gill, now rest atop the Northern Division heap with three wins in four starts.

Recording all of their victories on the stiff Inland Empire invasion, Oregon State features a steady set-em-up style of play. Lacking much-needed height under the backboards, the Beavers have made up in part for this deficiency with their accurate shooting.

Carey High-Scorer

Forward Norm Carey, ranked the fastest man on the Aggie squad, paces his team in scoring with 44 points in the quartet of games. He hit his peak in the final Idaho game, when he tallied 18 markers.

Dan Torrey, ex-Grant high flash, is second in scoring for the Beavers, at 33 points, along with Cliff Crandall, floor sparkplug and top offensive and defensive ace in the Gillmen aggregation.

Petersen-Out

According to publicity released from the Oregon State campus, Alex Petersen, veteran performer whom the Aggies were counting upon heavily at center this year, is definitely out of the contest. Petersen has been sidelined recently with an attack of tonsillitis, but reports state that he will be back in action near the end of January.

In his absence, Ken Storey has been operating at the important pivot post. However, Storey has been able to score only 13 points in the four league contests.

Frosh Tackle Bevos In 'Little' Civil War

By GLENN GILLESPIE

Hot on the trail of a fourth win for the record books, Oregon's flashy quintet of freshmen hoopsters will exhibit their prowess with a basketball tonight at 7:30 in McArthur court, when they take on the OSC Rooks from Corvallis in the first of four "junior Civil war" battles scheduled between the two squads.

Frosh Coach Carl Heldt held a light scrimmage session yesterday afternoon, finishing drills for the Aggie contest.

Heldt's charges will have the advantage of more actual game experience, since the Baby Beavers, mentored by Paul Valenti, have only one game under their belts this season, that being a 50-31 win over the Willamette university frosh squad.

Ducklings Take Three

In their previous games, the Lemon and Green yearlings, decisioned Benson high of Portland 49-32, and walloped The Dalles and Washington high of Portland 77-32 and 50-38 respectively. They have racked up an average of 58.6 points per contest, while holding their opponents to 34 per game.

Duckling standouts so far have been Jack Keller and Don Peterson at the guard posts and Will Urban and Bob Taggesell in the forward line. Keller and Peterson both handle the ball nicely and pour in their share of counters. Keller handles himself much like Bob Lavey, varsity speed-burner. Urban and Taggesell have the backboard situation sewed up, and have been well up in the scoring column. Ernie Wilde, ex-Eugene all-stater and fifth member of the first string, teams with Urban at forward.

Subs Bolster Starters

Capable reserves, including Brad Fullerton, Leroy Coleman, Rod Slade, and Dick Mase, bolster Oregon's starting five, and Heldt substitutes freely.

Valenti is expected to counter with a line-up consisting of George Crandall and Wally Johnson at forwards, Bob Denney at center, and Don Fulgham and Bill Harper at guards. Crandall, brother of Cliff, and Harper, a fast, hard-driving guard, have demonstrated the best scoring potentialities. Crandall canned 13 against Willamette and Harper collected 10.

First-line Rook reserves include Dave Poling, Tom Mason, and Gene Tanselli at guards, Lloyd Woody at center, and Clarence Larsen, Jerry Thorn, and Jack Coley at forwards.

Squad Tall

Denney, at 6 feet 5 inches, is the tallest man on a squad which averages a neat 6 feet and 1 inch.

Jack Hoxie and Glenn Kinney, expected to be star performers, were lost to the Beavers through scholastic ineligibility. The Frosh felt a similar loss when Mel Krause, a stand-out in practice, was declared ineligible to play because of grades.
