

Students to Give Palestine Issue Piano Recital Tonight at 8 p.m.

A recital featuring two-piano arrangements will be presented by nine students of George Hopkins, professor of music, at 8 p.m. tonight in the music school auditorium.

Compositions arranged for two-piano presentation are Milhaud's "Le Bal Martiniquais" with the movements Chanson Creole and Beguine, which will be played by John Lusk and Millard Kinney; Infante's "Ritmo," to be performed by Jeanette Holloway and Claire Lee Ogle; and Milhaud's "Scaramouche," including the movements Vif, Modere, and Tempo di Samba. Helen Hudson and Helen McFetridge will be at the piano for this number.

Joanne Twedt will play a concerto by Copeland with the Andante Sostenuto and Allegro Assai movements, and Madelon Adler will play the Allegro Molto Moderato movement of Grieg's concerto. Hopkins will assist on a second piano with an arrangement of the orchestral accompaniment for the concerto movements.

The recital is open to the public.

Club to Continue Talks

Newman club will continue last week's discussion of "Problem's in Psychology" at 6:45 tonight in the YMCA. Rev. V. J. Jensen, S. J., will again be speaker. There will be refreshments after the meeting.

The oldest white man's settlement still inhabited in North America is Annapolis Royal, Nova Scotia.

Is Panel Topic

The panel members of the University meeting of the air, will present their arguments in answer to the vital international question, "Is partition the answer to the Palestine problem?" at 7:30 tonight in room 3 Fenton.

The International Relations club is producing the event, and has arranged through the facilities of KORE for an on the spot transcription to be made which will be broadcast at a later date.

Both Sides Presented

The affirmative stand will be taken by Dr. Paul Means, head of the religion department, and Glen Morgan, junior in political science. The negative side will be discussed by R. W. Smith, assistant professor of history, and Ivan Makinster, graduate student in political science.

A question and answer period will follow the speeches in which members of the audience may address the individual speakers. This period will be recorded for a broadcast also, as it is done over the well known national radio program, "Town meeting of the air."

Public Is Invited

"All students, faculty and townspeople of the community are invited to attend and take part in the program," Bob Allen, president of the International Relations club, said. He explained that none of the club's activities are restricted to political science majors, but are open to anyone who is interested in studying the vital international problems which college students, as potential citizens and leaders of the world tomorrow, must recognize today.
