Veterans Need OK To Change Schools

Veterans going to school under the provisions of the GI bill cannot transfer to another institution without prior approval from veterans administration and still expect VA to pay tuition and subsistence, Richard Mengler, training officer in this area said yesterday.

Veterans who plan transfers and still wish to receive educational benefits of the GI bill must contact their VA regional office or VA training officer to obtain approval for the change and to insure their continuance on the subsistence rolls.

Mengler emphasized that in most cases there is no objection to veterans changing schools. In order to prevent delays in payment of subsistence allowances and to eliminate unnecessary paper work, VA must be notified in advance of any contemplated change.

the Marshall plan and also said that it would fit in with a sound economic and agricultural system. He said that the Marshall plan would work better in Greece and Turkey than the Truman plan, which he termed a negative policy.

In the question period that followed Stassen's main address he came out in favor of universal military training with the proviso that the best course would be for the opposition to think in terms of what more moderate program could be worked out. "We must act and not stay in a position of drift," he said.

Governor Stassen also spoke in favor of a thorough inspection of the atom bomb resources before giving out its secrets. He also favored a $3,500,000 across-the-board income tax reduction to come from the $7,000,000 government surplus. $3,500,000 would also be applied toward payment of the war debt.

Governor Stassen called for an exposure of all communistic activities, which he stated were on the wane all over the world and asked for full respect for civil rights and constitutional liberties.

A jitterbug is not an insect. It's a human being acting like one.

"I'll be up there soon!"

UP WHERE the ceiling's unlimited and the horizon's as wide as the world! Up where there's freedom and adventure—and a man can dare to do what no man's done before!

You're on your way up there when you join the Aviation Cadets. After a year's pilot training, it's silver wings for you—and a commission as Second Lieutenant in the U. S. Air Force Reserve.

You are eligible if you're single, between 20 and 26½, and have completed at least half the requirements for a degree from an accredited college or university (or can pass an equivalent qualifying examination).

You'll fly the very best planes during your 12 months of pilot training. Then, after graduation, you'll pilot jet fighters and bombers. And you'll get a starting salary of $336 a month. During your three years on active duty you'll be given a chance to win a commission in the Regular Air Force.

This is a priceless opportunity for alert young men with the urge to carve their future in American aviation. Ask for details at your U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force Recruiting Station. Or, write to Headquarters, U. S. Air Force, Attention: Aviation Cadet Section, Washington 25, D. C.
