DuShane To Arrive Tomorrow

New Personnel Director To Acquaint Himself With New Position

Donald M. DuShane of Lawrence college, Appleton, Wisconsin, newly appointed director of student personnel services for the University, is expected to arrive on the campus late tomorrow afternoon. He will remain one week.

DuShane will acquaint himself with the duties of his new office and meet with various faculty and student leaders during his brief stay.

A "coffee hour" honoring the new executive will be given from 4 to 5:15 p.m. Tuesday in Alumni hall by Heads of Houses. Heads of men's and women's living organizations and campus service groups are invited to attend.

Campus clothes will be in order. Beth Basler is in charge of the affair.

The new director will control the administrative duties of the offices of the dean of men and the dean of women will be responsible for coordinating all other student personnel services and agencies. He will be responsible directly to the president's office.

DuShane will assume permanent direction of this new office when his appointment becomes effective May 1, 1948.

He has played a major role in developing an outstanding fraternity program at Lawrence college. This program is widely recognized as a contribution to educational ideals.

In his position with the University, DuShane will work with all campus organizations in coordinating their activities for the betterment of the school in general.

Activities Dance Slated Tonight

Joe Ingram and his six-piece band will play tonight at the educational activities dance in Gerlinger annex from 9 to 12. Admission is free to Oregon students at this all-campus affair. Campus clothes are in order.

Intermission entertainment will be provided by Kwama, sophomore women's honorary, and Skull and Dagger, sophomore men's honorary. The entertainment is under the supervision of Bull Duhaime and Marge Harrison.

Ingram and his band features "modernistic trends in danceable music." It is composed of University students including Bob Hayes, trombone; Gene Zarones, tenor and soprano saxophone; Hal Hardin, string bass and vocals; Arnold Martin, piano; Wayne Harrin, drums; and Ingram, cornet.

The group has been playing together for the past three years, but have been organized under the name of Joe Ingram since last fall.

Campus Police Seize Intruder Believed Seeking Illegal Entry

By EVELYN NILL

A 20-year old student from Vanport college was picked up by campus police about 8 a. m. yesterday while he was attempting what was believed to be an entry to the business department of Emerald hall. He was released about 11 a. m., presumably from lack of charges.

The youth, who had been accepted for entrance into the University next term, was first heard moving underneath the Emerald hall floor by the custodian, who called a watchman and Capt. John P. Kalkhoven of the campus police.

Hole Found in Floor

The three checked an opening in the hall foundation, to find the student crouched behind a floor support, it was said. When questioned by Capt. Kalkhoven and Eugene police detectives, the youth reportedly said he was an employee of a Portland telephone company and had been sent to check wiring in the building. Later he told officers he was studying conduits beneath the building as part of a study of physics, campus police said.

A hole found bored in the floor about one foot from the business office vault was said to correspond to a brace and bit found in the young man's black convertible Ford coupe. A key-hole saw was also in the car.

The vault contained student records and miscellaneous material, but little money, Registrar C. E. Avery said.

Presence Unexplained

Described as about 6 feet, 1½ inches tall, and well-built, the blond youth told police he had left his Portland home at 3 a. m. yesterday morning. His name was discovered on an identification bracelet he was wearing and police checked to find the man's Portland address, according to Kalkhoven. He first gave a fictitious name of Jack Roberts.

Indications were that the youth may have planned sawing a hole next to the vault big enough to allow his entrance.

Spring Sign-up Continues Slow

Thirty-eight students, including 33 veterans, completed registration for spring term yesterday, bringing to 115 the number of students completely enrolled as the two-week pre-registration period advanced. Material for registration has been secured by over 3,000 students.

A good part of the registration material, which has been available at Emerald hall since Monday morning, still lays in the registrar's office awaiting enrollees, Registrar C. E. Avery reported. The stand-still in advance registration is the result of a request by the liberal arts college that registering for classes in that division be held off until next week.

In an effort to speed the advance procedure, material may be picked up at the office throughout next week, Avery said. The registrar's office, he declared, is endeavoring to cooperate in every way to speed pre-registration.

Earlier instructions made tomorrow noon the last date for securing advance registration material.

Orides Hold Potluck

A potluck will be held by Orides Monday at 5:30 p.m. Those going are asked to sign the list at the YWCA.

Outstanding Musician

MARGARET HOLM

English Senior Picked For Trip

Margaret Holm, senior in English, will attend the national convention of Mu Phi Epsilon, women's music honorary, at Cleveland, Ohio, this June. Selected by the national office for outstanding music ability, she will be one of two delegates representing the Pacific coast province.

Mary Margaret Dundore, sophomore in music, who was recently elected president of Oregon's Nu chapter for next year, was chosen regular business delegate for the convention at a recent meeting.

Miss Holm, a music minor, gave a senior recital at the music school last December. She is solo clarinetist in the University concert band and first clarinetist in the University symphony orchestra. An active member in the Oregon chapter, she holds the office of treasurer this year.

Lucretia Prentiss, sophomore in music, is Miss Holm's alternate.

The alternate of Miss Dundore is Althadel Johns, junior in music.

The convention is held biennially.

Odeon Magazine Seeks Contributions

Essays and other works on religion, philosophy, history and law are being solicited for Odeon magazine. Students should give manuscripts to the secretary in the journalism school or to Leland Huff, editor of the magazine, at 1340 Mill street.

Original musical compositions for the Odeon program should be given to James Smurthwaite, Sederstrom hall.

Portland Mothers To Sponsor Tea

The Portland unit of the Oregon Independent Mothers' club will sponsor an informal tea March 4 at the home of Mrs. A. F. Sersenus, 2920 N.E. Forty-Third street, Portland.

The mothers will make plans for Mothers' Weekend, to be held spring term, and discuss the dormitory and co-op situation on the campus.

University Division Unchanged

Limited to Undergrad Work; Action Taken In Special Meeting

The state board of higher education voted yesterday to change the Oregon State college division of business and industry to a school of business and technology. The new school will be headed by a dean.

It was declared that as a full school rather than a division, it will offer courses in auditing, finance, and in industrial traffic management. Students majoring in the new school will be required to take 36 hours in another field, such as agriculture, engineering, or geology.

Dr. Charles D. Byrne, board secretary, said the new school at Corvallis will not duplicate the school of business administration at the University of Oregon. The school will be limited, the board announced, to work in the undergraduate field. All graduate work will be confined to the University of Oregon.

The change was voted at a special meeting of the board in Portland yesterday, upon recommendation of its curriculum committee. It was declared that the purpose was to further the program of combined business and technological training which was instituted at Oregon State college in 1943.

Library Offers Folk Recordings

Music from the Oregon sheep country has been recorded and stowed away in the library for the benefit of homesick eastern Oregonians—and those interested in folk music of the state.

The authentic recordings were obtained by Martin Schmitt, University library-curator of special collections, and Bob Merrell of the audio-visual department. The two men packed up their disc-cutting equipment and went to Condon, where C. Asher Montague and his Sheep Shearers provide the music and calls for square dances every Friday night.

Dances are held in Montague's home. The townspeople crowd in at 9 p.m., and then starts the music of one of the few old-style fiddle groups left in the state. Guest of honor at the dance attended by Merrell and Schmitt was 77-year-old Galen Faulkner of Goldendale, Wash. Schmitt and Merrell recorded his original song, "Little Still on the Hill."

The records will become part of the local music and folk songs in the Oregon collection.

'Dream' Tryouts Listed

Final tryouts for "Midsummer Night's Dream" are scheduled for 4 p.m. today in the drama studio. There are no restrictions as to who may read.

The Shakespearean comedy will be staged April 24 in McArthur court.

'Y' Festival Entertainment
