

International Festival Offers Guest Variety

By JUNE FITZGIBBON

Student speakers for the discussion period at the YWCA today have varying backgrounds. Keeping with the international theme, the students represent the opinions of their countries. The panel will be "Advantages and Disadvantages of American and Foreign Education, Both Formal and Social." Joan O'Neill, sophomore in art and discussion chairman, will be moderator.

Captain Hsu Kai Yu, graduate student in journalism, is from China and attended the University of Peking. He came to the United States in 1945 on detached service to the Chinese air corps, and then as aide to two different generals working in Washington, D. C., and toured Europe. Captain Hsu chose the University through the recommendation of friends. He said he especially likes the green country and the absence of bustle after the Southwest and the University of California.

Peter Linde, graduate student in chemistry, has lived in Oregon since 1939. He was born in Germany and raised in Denmark; he came to the United States and moved immediately to Oregon.

Linde has been attending the University since fall term and wants to teach after receiving his master and doctor's degree. He went to Lincoln high school in Portland and attended Reed college before starting his graduate work here.

Fely Corcuera, graduate student in finance and banking, is another member of the panel. She is from Manila, and attended the University of Philippines. She is new to the University this term.

Herbert Weiss, freshman in liberal arts; came to the United States a year ago. Weiss is Austrian, has lived in Sudan and was educated in Egypt. He hopes to travel when he finishes school and to be connected with international economics or politics.

Carlos Martinez, sophomore in business administration, came to the United States from the Philippines through the finances of a Eugene family. He has attended the University since spring term. He would like to be able to travel after he finishes his education.

Amy Lous Ware, junior in education, is the last member of the panel. She has taught in China for four years and has also lived in Japan since the war and during the time of the peace settlement.

WORLD HEADLINES

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 27—Henry A. Wallace said today that if he had been president a year ago the Communist coup in Czechoslovakia might have been averted.

He described the Czech situation as a "fatality of U.S.-Russian tension" and added "all real Americans regret it."

Wallace, making his first direct appeal to Minnesota farmers and laborers in his third-party bid for the presidency, said at a news conference that if he had been president on March 22, 1947—the date the "Truman doctrine" was born—he would have worked for peace with Russia.

"Under those circumstances," he said, "the unfortunate Czechoslovakian situation might have been averted."

asked U. S. district court to declare unconstitutional the political expenditures ban of the Taft-Hartley labor law.

Walter Reuther, UAW president, filed suit seeking a declaratory judgment that the Taft-Hartley ban against political activity by unions is unconstitutional. He asked an injunction against its enforcement by the attorney general "because of the censorship imposed by its prohibitions on free speech, press, assembly and petition by unions in connection with federal elections."

AWS President Lists Workers

AWS President Barbara Johns yesterday announced committees for the AWS Preview Weekend.

Helen Hicks, Barbara Williams, Geneva Davis, Nancy Bedingfield, and Mary Stadelman will take charge of housing. Co-chairmen of the annual Nickel Hop will be Joan O'Neill and Sally Mueller. Marie Lombard and Mildred Chetty will head the ticket committee.

Dorothy Boles, Ruth Eades, Bep McCourrey, and Renee Cowell will direct ticket sales. Nancy Peterson, Marge Wickendon, Billie Jean Riethmiller, and Laura Olson will have charge of registration.

The fun fest will be handled by Joanne Frydenlund, Beth Basler, and Pat King. Janet Beigal, Jeanine Macaulay, and Donna Kletzing will be in charge of radio, poster, and Emerald publicity, respectively.

The annual AWS sponsored event is to begin with registration on the evening of April 23. Women's living organizations will house the high school guests, who will be elected by their schools to attend the preview weekend.
