

Essay Contest Announced

A first prize of $1,000, with thirteen additional awards amounting to $2,000, will be distributed to college students by the Tamiment Social and Economic Institute, for the best 5,000 to 6,000 word essay on "An American Program for World Peace in the Present Crisis."

This is the second annual contest of this type. Manuscripts must be submitted by April 23.

The contest is open to all undergraduate students in recognized colleges and universities in the United States. A contestant may submit only one essay and entry blanks will be sent on request.

The manuscripts which must be original, unpublished works, will not be accepted unless they are typewritten, double spaced on one side of the paper only.

Manuscripts should be sent to Tamiment Institute Contest, 7 East Fifteenth st., New York 3, New York.

According to Louis Waldran, chairman of the institute's essay committee, the purpose of the award is to "stimulate college students to constructive thought on matters of social and economic importance. College students must realize the necessity of having a point of view, and of making that point of view a vital force as alert members of the public."

More than 335,000 children between 5 and 19 years of age in the United States are so handicapped that they need special education, according to the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults.

Duck Guard Named

Crandall, was the only player to represent the Beavers on either the first or second teams, despite the fact that OSC apparently had its second straight championship sewed up.

Vince Hanson, Washington State's sharpshooting forward, and guard Stan Williamson of Oregon filled the other berths.

Nichols and Williamson were repeaters from last year, and Hanson from 1945.

Williamson was the only man on the first team who was unranked among the scoring leaders, but despite his small size he was brilliant in driving the Webfoot offense and one of the best ball-hawks in the conference. He is 5 feet, 7 inches tall and weighs 139 pounds.
