Ducks Still Down With Dysentery

By DON FAIR

Tonight's the night! Oregon's wrecking-crew basketball quint tackles the title-minded Oregon State cagers at 8 p.m. in McArthur court, with the whole Northern Division picture hanging on the

Division Standings

	W	L	Pct.
Oregon State	10	5	.667
Washington	9	6	.600
Washington State	9	7	.563
OREGON	7	8	.462
Idaho	3	12	.200

outcome of the sudden-death struggle. A preliminary contest at 6:15 features the Frosh against Klamath Falls.

This fourth and final Civil War hoop warfare of the season is a sellout, and no general admission tickets will be sold at the gates.

Washington, by virtue of their triumph over Idaho last night, must beat the Vandals again tonight. If this happens, and the Webfoots upset the Aggie pennant dreams, the league race will be thrown into a two-way tie between the Huskies and Oregon State, both with 10 wins and 6 defeats.

Cagers Still Sick

What chances the Ducks had at stopping the Beavers received a severe jolt, when several key members of the Lemon-and-Green quint fell victim to the dysentery bug. Because of this, Oregon coach John Warren could give no definite starting lineup, depending upon who is on his feet when game time rolls around.

Yesterday two Webfoot maple performers, Roger Wiley and Dick Wilkins, were released from the infirmary. Bob Lavey is still down, and his status, along with Wilkins', all hinges on how the two men recuperate within the next 12 hours.

Providing Wilkins is ready to open tonight, the Oregon lineup will look something like this—Wilkins and Bob Amacher, forwards; Wiley, center; and Stan Williamson and Al Popick, guards.

Last Game for Seniors

Tonight will also mark the last appearance on the McArthur hardwood for Reedy Berg, Popick, Williamson, and Wilkins. All are three-year lettermen except Popick, who has two Yellow O's to his credit.

Going into the Mason-Dixon clash, the Oregon five has a two-one edge in this year's rivalry. The Ducks captured the initial bout 42-41 at Corvallis, and added a 58-54 verdict over the Orangemen, before losing to Slats Gill's gang, 50-45.

The Aggies have been holding intensive drills this week in preparation for the game, with the Gillmen relying on a starting quint of Cliff Crandall and Alex Peterson, forwards; Len Rinearson, center; and Dick Ballantyne and Norm Carey, guards.

Boasting the best shooting percentage in the nation, the Aggies are a bunch of ball-hawking, yet plenty fast cagers. From the free throw lanes, the Beavers also have a highly respectable average. To counter this, the Webfoots will have to turn in a strictly blue-chip contest to nab the verdict.

Reliable Reedy

Reedy Berg should see plenty of action tonight in the last Civil-War battle between the Beavers and the Ducks. Berg will claim his fourth and last varsity "O" this year.

Point Plugger

Dick Wilkins, holder of the Northern Division all-time scoring crown, will be out to beat the Beaver in his last game tonight. Wilkins is also a 4-year letterman in the hoop sport.

Defensive Demon

Al Popick is ticketed for the other guard post tonight against the Orange. A three year veteran, Popick will also see his last collegiate action this evening. He is a big cog in the Oregon defensive game.
