

Faculty Hears Discipline Committee Revisions

By VINITA HOWARD

Recommendations to revise the present student discipline committee have been presented to members of the faculty senate by ASUO executive council, according to Stan Williamson, ASUO president.

The recommendations ask that the discipline committee, now composed of seven faculty members and three student members, be supplanted by a board of seven upper-division undergraduates advised by one faculty member.

The recommendations were made, the council said, because the next logical step for the University to take in matters of disciplining would be an all-student board. "Such a committee would, in the University society, be in the same tradition as the juries of citizens that judge their fellows in the courts of the United States," according to the council.

Under the suggested revisions, the board would be composed of student members appointed by the ASUO executive council. The members would be chosen from petitions turned in by students.

In order to qualify for the board petitioners would be required to have a recommendation from their adviser, have completed five terms of work at the University and have a cumulative GPA of 2.75, which must be maintained. Before anyone could qualify for the board a three-fourths approving vote from the executive council would be necessary.

The board could be dissolved by a majority vote of the faculty senate in event the board did not perform in a satisfactory manner, according to the recommendations. Members of the board would also be subject to recall from their positions if the executive council deemed it necessary.

Petitioners for the board would be required to turn petitions in during the fifth week of spring term and there would be three, in odd-numbered years, and four, in even-numbered years, sophomores chosen in order to provide the board with experienced students.

Other stipulations of the revisions would be that no more than one member of the discipline committee could be at the same time a member of the executive council, and, that member would not be allowed to vote on any council action affecting his membership on the board.

The faculty member, who would not vote, would be an auditor for any person who desired more consideration of his case. The faculty member would also have the right to take the appealed case before the faculty senate for its decision. Action taken by the senate in such appealed cases would do one of three things. The senate could either approve the committee's actions, change the verdict in the case or dissolve the board.

The senate has not yet acted upon the recommendations.

Isaac Stern Master Fiddler To Play April 18

Isaac Stern, 27-year-old violinist who is regarded as "one of the world's master fiddle players," will perform in Eugene next week. His concert, scheduled for April 18, is sponsored by the Eugene Civic Music association. It will be open to members and students.

Recently returned from an Australian visit, the concert artist is currently on his sixth national tour under the direction of Impresario S. Hurok. Alexander Zakin is his accompanist.

He plans to perform this season with Serge Koussevitzky, the Boston Symphony, and 10 other major orchestras.

In 1937, Stern made his New York debut. Afterwards the New York Herald Tribune wrote, "He should become an artist of exceptional consequence."

Seven years later after he played in Carnegie hall, the same newspaper called him "one of the world's master fiddle players."

A resident of San Francisco since he was a year old, Stern is exclusively a product of American environment and training. At six, he began studying the piano. Two years later he switched to the violin and made his first public appearance in three years.

He received instruction in San Francisco from Naoum Blinder and in New York from Louis Persinger.

Stern is the sixth concert artist brought to Eugene this season by the Civic Music association. He plans to play in 84 other cities on this tour.

Banned Themes, Free-for-all, Snow White Left in "Glee" Trail

A free-for-all ten miles out of Eugene, a theme banned by University authorities, and Snow White with her seven dwarfs—those were yearling parties within the past decade or two.

Prices have jumped from a quarter in 1936 to $1.80 in 1945. Clothes have moved from ankle length to short silk skirts. Names have varied from Freshmen Acquaintance party to Frosh Frivolities to the present Glee.

Freshman Glee it was in 1910, the opener of the all-campus dances. Informal because first-year students were not allowed to wear dress suits, the dance opened a new gymnasium on the campus.

High Schoolers Guests at Hop

Plans are underway for the AWS preview weekend Nickel Hop on Friday, April 23, co-chairman Joan O'Neill and Sally Mueller said Tuesday. High school girls will be the guests of the different women's living organizations that weekend.

The Hop will be conducted as previously, with the men visiting the women's organizations between 9 p.m. and midnight. A nickel will be collected every 15 minutes, and the house collecting the most money and the men's organization visiting the most houses will each be awarded a prize. All prizes will be given on a percentage basis, Marjorie Petersen, award chairman, said.

Refreshments will be served at each women's house.

All the high school girls will wear name tags and the men are encouraged to meet as many of the guests as possible, the chairman said.

"One of the biggest dances of the college year," in 1912, it was decorated with evergreens and sorority and fraternity crests. Hendershott's orchestra opened the evening with an 8:15 grand march.

In 1914 it moved to the Gamma Phi Beta house where "husky freshmen received the uninvited guests."

Emerald headlines in November, 1931, read, "yearlings staged largest general walkout in years." They moved off the campus to a dance-hall ten miles out on McKenzie highway. After two hours of dancing, about 120 Oregon upperclassmen tried to finish the party with fists and paddles.

Although outnumbered, these older brothers cut light switches, punched tires, and locked the runaway freshmen out of their houses.

Valentines Party

Five years later, yearlings settled down to a conventional Valentine's party, Frosh Frivolities. Tapping by Skhl and Dagger.
