A Glance at the World

Russia Asked To Revise Treaty

WASHINGTON, April 9—(UP)

—The United States, Britain and France asked Russia to negotiate an "early" revision of the Italian peace treaty for the purpose of restoring Trieste to Italy.

It was the second time the three western powers dropped the embarrassing Trieste question in Moscow's lap, and their maneuver was aimed at making Russia show her hand before the Italian election April 18.

The Soviet union so far has ignored the proposal made first by the three powers on March 20. A Russian commitment favoring the return of Trieste to Italian sovereignty would be a blow at Marshal Tito's Communist Yugoslav government which claims the territory. A contrary recommendation would have widespread anti-Communist repercussions in Italy, on the eve of the election.

The new proposal was made in similar but not identical notes delivered to the Soviet embassies in Washington, London and Paris. The American note reminded Moscow of the March 20 memorandum and suggested politely that representatives of the four powers meet in Paris early next month to reconsider the Trieste section of the Italian peace treaty.

"The U. S. government feels that in the interest of terminating the present unsettled situation in the free territory of Trieste and restoring peace and stability in the area, early action by the interested powers is required," the note said.

The note went on to point out that Italy already has replied "favorably" to the three-power proposal.

Under the Italian peace treaty, the United States, Britain and Yugoslavia each has the right to keep 5,000 troops in Trieste until a governor appointed by the United Nations decides they no longer are needed. The governor has not yet been appointed.

Committee Requests Congress To Retard Communist Activity

WASHINGTON, April 9—(UP)—The house unAmerican activities committee today urged congress to pass drastic legislation to curb activities of the communist party.

The committee asked that legislation to curb the party provide for criminal prosecution of officers of the Communist party should they violate it.

The proposal was included in a sweeping legislative program outlined by the committee to curb what it called the "American bridgehead of the Red Army." The committee also took a slap at the justice department, accusing it of "coddling" American communists.

"The Communist party of the United States, without question, constitutes a clear and present danger to our national security," the committee said in a report.

No specific legislation was submitted. The committee said such a bill would be recommended next week.

Rep. Richard M. Nixon, R., Cal., who headed the subcommittee which drafted the program, said the proposed program would hit hardest at the Communists through an amendment to the so-called Smith act.

The amendment would make illegal the "knowing and wilful ad-

Civil War Demanded By Colombian Uprisers

BOGOTA, Colombia, April 9—

(UP)—A mob clamoring for civil war broke into the national capitol where the ninth Pan American conference was meeting today. It had just lynched an unidentified assassin who shot and critically wounded Jorge Eliecer Gaitan, leader of the opposition liberal party.

Gaitan, idol of the working classes, was shot three times as he emerged from his office to go to lunch. The news spread like wildfire. Soon crowds of his followers were at the scene, some wept openly. Others dipped handkerchiefs in a pool of his blood on the sidewalk. As the assassin was being taken off by three policemen the mob seized him and kicked him to death. His battered body was dragged for seven blocks and left, naked, before the door of the presidential palace.

Soon thousands of demonstrators were surging around the capitol, on the city's main square. Other thousands were at the palace, in the next block.

Before the police could bar the doors, some 50 men raced through the corridors of the capitol shouting, "Down with Laurano Gomez" and demanding civil war. Gomez is head of the Colombian delegation to the conference and a leader of the conservative party. Conference attendants finally locked the doors and kept out others of the mob. At 8:20 p.m. E.S.T., seven hours after the revolt started, President Mariano Ospina Perez issued a communique over a government radio station stating that loyal army forces were dominating the situation.

But official dispatches at about the same time from the U. S. embassy to the state department here reported "this mob remains in control."

Reports from American news correspondents barricaded in hotels in the center of the city said raging mobs of rebels were burning, killing and looting, and that their left wing leaders were in the presidential palace demanding Ospina Perez' resignation.

Diplomatic sources here said the revolution had very definite communistic and anti-United States implication. They said it still was uncertain whether communists had started the revolt or were merely exploiting it for their own ends, but that they were playing an important role.

The American press reports said downtown Bogota, where most of the government buildings are located, was a mass of burning ruins that "looked like London during one of the big wartime fire blitzes."

Damage was placed high in the millions.

They said at least nine government buildings were burned and that the capitol, where the ninth Pan-American conference is being held, had been sacked.

The entire U.S. delegation to the conference, including Secretary of State George C. Marshall and Secretary of Commerce W. Averell Harriman, were officially reported safe at a late hour tonight.
