Group to Hear Chaplain Speak

Mr. Melvin Friesen will speak on "The Message of the Bible" at the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship weekly Tuesday night meeting held in John Straub dining hall at 7.

Mr. Friesen, present IVCF staff member for central California, took his degree from UCLA, later doing graduate work at USC. During the war he served as an army chaplain in the Philippines. His interest in student activities has led him into full time student work. Currently, he is conducting a tour of IVCF chapters throughout Oregon.

IVCF is an interdenominational organization designed to meet the need of University students. Its program encourages daily prayer, Bible study, and Christian fellowship.

High School Group Elects New Officers

Elected as state officers of the Oregon state high school International Relations leagues for the coming year were Fred Meikle, Jefferson in Portland, president; Ann Killingsworth, Jacksonville, vice-president; and Jean Bidden, Commerce in Portland, secretary-treasurer.

The first annual conference of the league was held on this campus over last weekend, where a new constitution was adopted and plans were started for extending the league to other schools before the conference next year.

Side Patter

Pi Kappa Phi Mel Knorr. Pi Phi Joan Bush and the Hicks twins pulled a mock "Cookie Shine" on Sue Simmons and ATO Warren Smith, only to find out an hour later that Sue really was wearing a sparkler!

Much excitement at the Alfa Fie house with a series of pin plantings to start off the spring term. Maggie Wells now has Cliff Mallicoat's Phi Kappa Sigma pin, Phyl Potter and SAM Norm Rubens are pinned, Janis Jordan now has Jim Popp's SAE pin, Ann McGeorge and Theta Chi Merve Hanscomb, and Mary Ann Hansen wearing the DU pin of Lou Headlund. Alfa Fie Joyce Strickland is now wearing the Notre Dame ring of Jim Healy, who is on the campus, and unless traditions have changed, that means an engagement.

Gamma Phi Mary Hibbitt showed off her pretty ring from Theta Chi Bob Hilbers at a fire-side after closing hours the other night, and Gamma Phi Ann Phetteplace had a tea at her home in Eugene Saturday telling of her engagement to Theta Chi Jim Lucky, also from Eugene. ADPi Barbara Marsh is now engaged to Gary Wood, and SAE Jerry Bell passed the cigars announcing his engagement to Jean Christensen. Alpha Chi Maxine Jamison, who is not on the campus this term, sent down the word that she is now wearing a few jewels from Phi Delt Ken Hayes.

Tri Delt Jeanette Williams and Theta Chi Bob Bryant, both grads of last year, have set their wedding date, and Sigma Kappa Marg

Colt was married in Portland recently to Oregon Stater Dean Ryman. Former ADPi Prexy Dorothy Rasmussen has announced her engagement to Bill Palmer and ADPi Norma Gross and Jack Wiley formerly an SAE on the campus were married in Sacramento. Carol Nickerson was a bridesmaid and will be married in June herself to Rea Cummeford of Honolulu.

Tri Delt Carol Bartel is now pinned to ASC Sigma Chi Bill Shore and DG Phyl Morgan is again wearing Jerry O'Leary's Beta pin. Gamma Phi Elaine Sherwood is wearing the Theta Chi pin of Herb Nill who was tapped for Skull and Dagger. Pi Phi Ginny Nash has announced her engagement in Portland to Phi Delt Bob Stanbury.

Phi Delt Don Farnum climaxed a high school romance by dropping his sword and shield on Theta Janet Rilea. AOPi Mary Keller has Jim Boyd's Phi Delt pin, and likewise for Susan Campbell cutie Jackie Austen and Bob Lavey.

A steady combo nowadays is Kappa Jean Scott and ATO Pete Miller, and DG Bette McCurry, new WAA prexy, has been in circulation at the libe with Beta transfer John Noggle. FeeGee Gordie Wilson has been much interested of late in DG Martha Piper, and ChiO Jackie Dilly and Ned Ames have been together. Chi O Sally Terrill dating Phi Psi Mike Callahan, who was tapped for Skull and Dagger at the Frosh Glee.

ATO "Mo" Thomas spent Friday night at the libe, and Saturday evening trying to find out from Alecia Orcutt what's on the second floor of the ChiO house. Possibly Mo was trying to find out about the dead fish Densie Howard ran into the other night. The ChiO characters also got a bang out of the sleeping porch escapade which caused Meridith Sterns to yell out, "It's bacterial warfare . . . Run!"

Enuf of this luff making. To the Side for a cup between courses in the History of Amazon flats, how many pints in a quart, and Drew Pearson's predictions:

lished in 1942 by the Stanford University Press as a Hoover library publication, and won for the Oregon professor-historian the annual prize of the Pacific Coast branch of the American Historical association.

But while the earlier book was the "monograph" sort of thing with copious footnotes, the new volume is aimed at the college-level reader with a knowledge of European affairs, and contains no footnotes.

By the time he left for state department service, Dr. Wright had already established himself on the University campus as an excellent lecturer with the happy faculty of mixing sprightly anecdote with sound history—a reputation he has strengthened considerably since returning to the campus in January, 1947. Today as before the war students crowd into his classes until they are declared "full" because the classrooms in which they are held are full.

According to Paul Birdsall, a widely-known historian of France who served in the embassy with Dr. Wright, the Oregon professor commanded the same esteem in Paris he had earned on the University campus. In his introduction to Dr. Wright's book Birdsall says he was regarded as "an oracle" by the senior embassy staff members in Paris.

Birdsall relates that U. S. Ambassador Jefferson Caffrey frequently spoke of the Eugene professor as one of the handful of young men in the embassy with the "poise and judgment over and above intelligence which were required to navigate the uncharted waters of post-war French politics."

"The Doc" as he is known affectionately, unofficially, and behind his back, by hundreds of University students, came to the University of Oregon in 1939. He teaches classes in European history.
