Candidates For Queen On Agenda

Judges to Select Ten; Students to Choose Queen on Wednesday

Ten finalists for queen of Junior Weekend will be selected by a board of four judges at 7 p. m. Thursday.

Judges as announced yesterday by Beth Basler, chairman of queen selection, are Sue Fernimen, queen of the 1947 Junior Weekend; Hank Kinsell, general chairman of the weekend; Bill Russell, Eugene businessman and University alumnus; and Lyle Nelson, University director of information.

Candidates are asked to wear spring dresses and heels.

Miss Basler said that the students will select the Junior Weekend court from the ten finalists. Voting will take place April 21 at the Co-op. Each student will vote for five candidates.

Ballots will be counted by an anonymous group of Eugene business men, who will not reveal the name of the winning candidate until the night of the coronation, May 7. The members of the court will be announced as soon as the ballots are counted.

The 1948 Junior Weekend queen will be crowned immediately preceding the All-Campus Sing on Friday night of Junior Weekend. She will officially open the festivities and rule over the entire weekend.

Candidates were announced in yesterday's Emerald.

Matrix Features Mystery Writer

Helen Ross, featured speaker at the 1948 Matrix Table to be given Friday at the Eugene hotel, is currently filling the position of head of the creative writing department at the University of Washington. She is taking the place of Dr. George Savage, while Dr. Savage is on sabbatical leave.

Mrs. Ross is the author of three mystery stories published during the last two years, and is working on a fourth book now. She spoke last summer at the creative writers' meeting held annually at Seattle under the sponsorship of the University of Washington.

The home of the featured speaker is also the home of Theta Sigma Phi, women's national professional journalism fraternity, which annually sponsors Matrix Table. The first chapter of the fraternity was founded at the University of Washington 39 years ago this month.

Outstanding women in the journalism school will be tapped for membership in Theta Sigma Phi during the formal banquet. The outstanding freshmen and sophomore women in journalism will be introduced as well as the outstanding senior women from Eugene and University high schools.

A musical program will be presented during the evening.

Lucille Saunders McDonald, Sunday section editor and reporter for the Seattle Times, will accompany Mrs. Ross to Eugene.

'Dream' Man

PAUL BENDER

Actor Realizes Hopes in Play

By PAT KING

Paul Bender has been wanting to play the role of Bottom ever since he played the cornet with the Washington high school orchestra in Portland at a performance of Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

"That was a long time ago," said Paul, "and when I got the part for the University production I finally had my ambition realized."

The play will be presented by the University theater April 24 in one performance only at McArthur court under the direction of Horace W. Robinson. Completing the cast will be the University Symphony orchestra playing Mendelssohn's full score and a company of dancers.

Bottom represents the complete egoist and as such insists on overruling all objections and completely running the show in which he and the other rustics are practicing as entertainers for the wedding celebration of Theseus (Dick Rayburn) and Hippolyta Diane Barnhart). The other rustics playing with Paul are Quince, Elton Allen; Flute, George Watkins; Snout, Dick Ward; Smug, Dick Monnie; and Starvling, Paul Wexler.

Marriage Series Begin on Thursday

Students interested in attending the "Majoring in Marriage" lecture series must register today and Thursday, Joan O'Neil, co-chairman, emphasized yesterday.

Registration is being conducted at the YWCA and YMCA between 10 and 5 p.m. under Wes Nicholson, registration chairman. The registration deadline is set for Thursday, the date of the first lecture. There is no charge, but those who register are expected to attend all of the four sessions. The meetings will last for one hour beginning at 7 and ending promptly at 8 p.m.

Dr. Donald Wells, professor in philosophy and religion at Oregon State college, will speak at the first meeting. Dr. Wells teaches a marriage and the family course and has done a great deal of research in the field.

'Corpus Delecti' Walton To Rule Over Weekend

By EDMUND LADENDORFF

With all the stateliness that accompanies one of great dignity, with fanfares and flourishes and much bowing and scraping, the newly elected law school weekend "queen" met reporters for the first time yesterday afternoon.

Queen Gorgeous Legs Corpus Delecti Walton, better known to her intimate friends as Dud, radiantly clad in her brown slacks and baggy shirt, was the picture of beauty as she stood there, her beautiful Custer's Last Stand hair falling about her drooping shoulders. Her full, rosy lips were nothing but entrancing—especially with the mustache waving in the cool spring breeze.

The "queen," whose hair is a cross between daffodil yellow and battleship gray, is 5 feet 10 inches tall, and her 165 pounds are evenly distributed in the region of her waist line. Some of the vital statistics are, bust 21 inches, waist, 37 inches, hips, large.

Queen Walton, who hails from Coquille, Oregon, is 27 years old, married, and has two children. Her majesty has a formidable military record. She flew with the Navy and was in the first battle of Dirty Water gulch where she received the

Movie Scheduled For Chapman Hall

Audio-visual movies scheduled for tonight in 207 Chapman are "Topper" and a Charlie Chaplin short. First showing will be at 7 p. m. and the second showing will begin at 9:30 p. m.

Oregana Payments Due

Students who have placed orders for Oreganas must pay for them by Thursday or the orders will be cancelled, Olga Yevtich, business manager of the yearbook, said yesterday.

Payments may be made at the Oregana office in McArthur court.

The Oregana will be distributed to students by Junior Weekend, according to Editor Ross Yates.

Dr. Leeper Plans Writing, Study

By EVELYN NILL

A year of writing, study, and discussion on what has been done in psychology is being planned by Dr. Robert Leeper, associated professor of psychology, who has been awarded a $3,000 John Simons Guggenheim fellowship for post-doctorate work.

Dr. Leeper will leave Eugene in June, going first to the University of Colorado at Boulder, where he will teach at the first summer session, and to the University of Minnesota, for the second summer session. He will begin study in the fall at the University of Chicago and continue to Duke university for more work in psychology.

The two principle reasons for his receiving the fellowship, Leeper believes, are two recently published

Green Hornet badge for good scouting.

Her Royal Highness will be surrounded by a court of princesses and flower girls who will do credit to the beauty and grace which will surround the occasion. Neil Brown, who has hair and a good set of lungs, according to members of the law school who have heard him speak, will be one of the princesses. Jack Wagstaff, as beautiful as a rose, but wilting a little, will be on hand with his vanishing-like-the-Indians hair to honor the court as the other princess.

William Cramer and Edward Niningen, who claim more hair and less wrinkles than the others, will take over as flower girls.

The royal coronation will take place on Saturday afternoon, May 1, and will be followed by a parade and a ball game with the school of business administration.

Spring Lectures Start Thursday

Former dean of the College of the University of Chicago and now director of the university libraries at Stanford university, Dr. Clarence H. Faust, will open the spring term University lecture series with the subject, "The Controversy Over General Education." Dr. Faust will lecture Thursday at 8 p.m. in room 207, Chapman hall.

Dr. Faust was dean of the College of the University of Chicago when its curriculum was radically changed. The college is a junior college, including the last two years of high school and the first two years of college. The college is devoted entirely to general education. The program that was instituted under Dr. Faust is one of the most experimental programs in the country and it has had a wide influence throughout the nation.

An ordained minister, Dr. Faust received his M.A. and Ph.D. from the University of Chicago. He has also taught English at the University of Chicago and the University of Arkansas. He is a leading authority in the field of American literature, particularly the history of ideas in the 18th and early 19th centuries.

Discipline Revision Proposed

UO Heads Request Re-draft of Plans, States Dean Hollis

Recommendations to revise the present student discipline committee, as put forth by the ASUO executive council, will need more discussion and re-drafting before the faculty senate takes further action on them, according to a letter received from the senate by ASUO president, Stan Williamson.

The letter, written by Dean Orlando J. Hollis, chairman of the senate, stated that the group had discussed the recommendations at their last meeting and had decided that at present such revisions of the discipline committee would create many problems and would, in general, not be wise.

Hollis added that the senate had requested him to inform the executive council of its action with a request that revised plans be discussed with the student discipline committee and President Harry K. Newburn for the purpose of re-drafting them. The re-drafted version of the recommendations could then be sent back to the senate for its action, the letter continued.

Major change in the executive council's proposed revision of the discipline committee was that the present discipline group, composed of seven faculty members and three student members, would be replaced by an all-student board of seven members with one faculty advisor.

The faculty senate is made up of the dean from each professional school, the liberal arts school and the graduate school. In addition, eight representatives are chosen from the liberal arts faculty and two from each professional school.

Petitions Open For Student Editor Job

Any pigger willing to get on the inside track and learn first hand the names and addresses of next year's University students may apply by petition to Dick Williams, educational activities manager, for the job of student directory editor.

Williams, with his office in Mac court is also accepting petitions for business manager of the piggers' guide. Petitions for both positions must be filed by noon, Saturday.

serves as the text for third-term psychology classes.

He is also the author of a number of other articles completed while at the University, including one entitled, "We Cannot Win the Peace Unless," which he wrote in support of government-fostered social-science research.

Ways in which individuals handle life's situations and the basic means of such situations held by the individual will be the subject of the doctor's coming book. He plans to stress the emotional factors in psychology as "crucial matters of personality." Such "subtle" emotions are too often minimized by psychologists, he declared.

Besides completing the book, Dr. Leeper said he is especially looking forward to further study on
