Memorial Concert Scheduled

Presentation Tonight To Honor Former Librarian and Wife

An instrumental ensemble, the University singers, and soloists will honor Mr. and Mrs. Matthew H. Douglass in a memorial concert tonight at 8:15 in the music school auditorium.

Douglass, former University librarian, left $10,000 in his will for the purchase of scores, records and books on music. He left his own music collection to the library, also.

Instructors and students of the school of music will pay tribute to the benefactor with music by Bach, Haydn, Mozart and Walter Piston.

Faculty is Nucleus

Forming the nucleus of the instrumental ensemble will be the faculty string quartet composed of Mary Kapp Allton, George Boughton, Edmund Cykler and Milton Dieterich. Besides the University Singers, directed by Donald W. Allton, 14 students and 8 faculty members will participate.

The music collection of Douglass is housed in the library's Douglass room, used for instructional and recreational purposes. It contains tables for individual hearing of records.

One of the latest additions to the collection is a set of Bach's complete works now being published.

Student instrumentalist in the concert are Janet Shafer and Ellen Liebe, violins; Eric Cooper and Margaret Perkins, violas; Jeanne Carlson and Loren Bush, oboes; John C. Wellborn and Barbara Wick, horns; Jeannette Grant, oboe and English horn; Keith Cockburn, cello; Dorothea Schaer, double-bass; Albert Marshall, flute; Jean Hudspeth, bassoon; and Virgene Roffe, organ. Other faculty performers are Arnold Elston, Hermann Gelhausen and John Stehn.

Scratches Due In Queen Race

Junior Weekend queen finalists will be chosen tonight at 7 p.m. in Alumni hall of Gerlinger, according to Beth Basler, queen selection chairman.

Judges will be Sue Fernimen, last year's queen, Hank Kinsell, general chairman of the Weekend, Bill Russell, Eugene businessman and University alumnus, Lyle Nelson, University director of information, and Mrs. Harry K. Newburn.

Students will vote April 21 to choose the queen and her court from the finalists selected tonight. Ballots on the final voting will be counted by a group of Eugene businessmen. They will not reveal the name of the winning candidate until May 7, when she will be crowned just before the All-Campus Sing.

Candidates are asked to wear spring dresses and heels tonight at the judging.

Theta Sig Sends Invitations

Outstanding Women to Receive Laurels at Matrix Table Banquet

Claire Lewis, junior in music, and Wayne Sherwood, senior in music, and music, will provide musical entertainment for Theta Sigma Phi's Matrix Table Friday evening. Their program will be composed of semi-classical songs. Sherwood will play the piano accompaniment.

Maryann Thielen, president of Theta chapter of Theta Sigma Phi, urged yesterday that all junior and senior women in journalism who wish to attend the formal banquet sign up at journalism school office immediately.

All other invitations which were sent out may be answered by phone or mail to the journalism school. Price of the dinner is $3 per plate.

Matrix Table will begin at 6 p.m. in the Persian room and east dining room of the Eugene hotel. This year's banquet will celebrate Matrix Milestones, the 39th anniversary of the founding of Theta Sigma Phi at the University of Washington.

Matrix Table is an annual event at each of the Theta Sigma Phi chapters throughout the United States. The Table honors outstanding women students and professional workers in journalism.

The outstanding freshman and sophomore women in journalism will be announced in tomorrow's Emerald and will be introduced at the banquet. The outstanding senior women from Eugene and University high schools will also be introduced.

Sophomore, junior, and senior women who have been outstanding in journalistic scholarship and service at the University will be tapped for membership in Theta Sigma Phi.

Women in journalism throughout Oregon annually meet in Eugene for the annual banquet. This year they will hear the noted mystery story writer, Helen Ross, give the main address. Mrs. Ross, who will arrive from Seattle Friday, has not yet announced the subject of her speech.

Violinist Isaac Stern Lets 250-Year-old Fiddle Sing for Itself; Says He Just Stays Out of Way

A 250-year-old Guarnerius violin receives much of the credit for Isaac Stern's success. He explains, "with this fiddle, it's simple. I just keep out of the way of the music and let the instrument sing for itself."

The young musician and his violin will perform in McArthur court Sunday afternoon, sponsored by the Eugene Civic music association.

With this violin, the Russian-born artist is currently on his sixth national tour under direction of impresario S. Hurok.

Stern's Guarnerius was well publicized after he acquired it last season. Following a recent concert on the west coast, Danny Kaye, film comedian, came backstage to congratulate Stern.

"And your violin!" Kaye exclaimed. "That tone melts an audience like a black lace garter on Gypsy Rose Lee's leg!"

Last year he set a record number of performances by a major artist in one year. Closing a tour in Australia and New Zealand, he played his 125 concerts in ten months.

Dr. Faust Will Speak On General Education

Ex-Chicago University Dean Emphasizes Diversified Education as a College Must

Dr. Clarence H. Faust, director of the University libraries, Stanford University, will speak tonight at 8 p. m. in room 207 Chapman Hall on the subject "The Controversy Over General Education." Dr. Faust is a leading authority on the subject of his lecture, general education.

A former Dean of the College of the University of Chicago, a junior college including the last two years of high school and the first two years of college, Dr. Faust was dean from 1942 to 1945 during which time its curriculum was radically overhauled.

The College, which is devoted entirely to general education, now has one of the most important experimental programs now in operation. This program has had a wide influence throughout the country. Dr. Faust has also participated in many surveys and conferences on general education, and has studied the curricula of many institutions in all parts of the country. He will confer with the committee on curricular revision in the College of Liberal Arts during his campus visit.

Past Record Revealed

Dr. Faust completed his undergraduate work at Drake University, and North Central College in Naperville, Illinois. He received his B.D. from the Evangelical Theological Seminary and then went on to receive his M.A. and Ph.D. from the University of Chicago. Before being elevated to the office of Dean of the College, and Dean of the graduate library school at the University of Chicago, Dr. Faust was professor of English at the University of Arkansas and the University of Chicago.

A co-author of the book, "Jonathan Edwards", Dr. Faust is a well known scholar in the field of American literature, particularly the history of ideas in the 18th and early 19th centuries. Tonight's lecture is open to all students and faculty members.

Intramural Tennis Postponed by Rain

Girls' tennis intramurals have been postponed until April 19, Miss Mary Bowman, instructor in physical education, announced Wednesday. Practices have had to be postponed because of the rain.

Entry blanks for tennis must be turned in to Miss Bowman at the women's physical education office in Gerlinger hall today.

Marriage Major Series to Open At YW Tonight

Dr. Donald Arthur Wells, assistant professor of philosophy and religion at Oregon State college, will begin the "Majoring in Marriage" lecture series tonight at 7 p.m. at the YWCA. The meeting will end promptly at 8.

The professor will speak on "Anticipating Marriage." He conducts a large "marriage and the family" course on the Corvallis campus and has done a great deal of research in the field.

Dr. Wells earned his bachelor or arts degree at Hamline in 1940; bachelor of sacred theology at the Boston university school of theology in 1943; and was awarded his doctor's degree at Boston university in 1946. Since then, he has been at Oregon State college where he is an extremely popular speaker.

The registration deadline for the YW-YMCA sponsored four lecture series had been set for this afternoon, but Co-chairman Joan O'Neil said that registration cards will be issued before the meeting to accommodate students who could not register earlier. The lectures are free.

She emphasized that the meetings are not being conducted specifically for married students or for those who are contemplating marriage in the near future, but rather for anyone who is interested in attending. The roster indicates that a fairly representative group has registered.

Dr. R. R. Huestis, professor of zoology, will discuss "Marriage and the Facts of Life" at the April 22 meeting.

Rex and Barbara Gunn will speak on "Money Matters and Marriage," at the third session. University students, the Gunn's recently netted $750 by selling an article to the Saturday Evening Post on their personal experiences at the University.

The culmination of the series will be a panel discussion entitled "Marriage Isn't What It Used To Be." Participants will be Dr. Wesley G. Nicholson, pastor of the First Congregational church; Dr. J. V. Berreman, associate professor; and Mrs. Ruth Nelson, instructor of home economics.

LaVerne Huff, co-chairman, and Miss O'Neil are being assisted by Al Bartholomew, arrangements; Sally Moore, speakers; Wes Nicholson, registration; Martha Piper, posters; Carol Becker, flying speeches; and Helen Sherman, publicity.
