

Ducks Rained Out at Pullman

UO, WSC Slate Twin Bill Today

The Oregon baseball team, in the midst of a six-game league barnstorming tour, had its scheduled contest with Washington State at Pullman rained out yesterday.

The Cougars and Webfoots currently battling for the top rung in the Northern Division, will meet in a doubleheader this afternoon, weather permitting.

Division Standings

	W	L	Pct.
Washington State	3	1	.750
OREGON	5	2	.714
Washington	4	3	.571
Oregon State	1	1	.500
Idaho	0	6	.000

Today's games: Oregon at Washington State (2).

Ward Rockey and Arnie Torgerson against the Ducks today. Rockey's most recent victory was a 9-0 two-hitter against Idaho. In this contest, he fanned 11 Vandal batsmen, and held them hitless the last six innings.

For Oregon it will be one of four hurlers scheduled for starting roles—Whitey Lokan, DeWayne Johnson, Homer Brobst, or Dick DeBernardi. The Webfoots captured the first two games on their Northern invasion against Idaho, and actually lead Washington State by one-half game, although trailing in percentage points, as the Cougars have played fewer games.

Brunswick Places Cougars

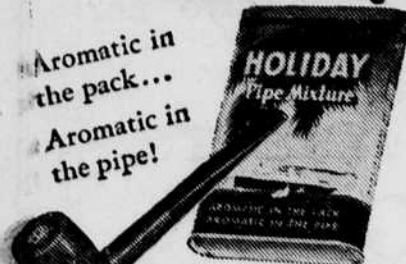

The Pullman nine is a hard-hitting crew led by the booming bat of first baseman Gordy Brunswick who sports a .706 average with 12 hits in 17 at bats. Tom Marier, third sacker, and center-fielder Bob McGuire are clubbing at .460 and .333 clips respectively.

For the Ducks, Don Kirsch will start his revamped lineup of Dick Bartle at first, Captain Walt Kirsch at second, Al Cohen at short, and Johnny Kovenz at the hot corner. Reliable Bill Burgher will handle the catching chores.

In the outer pasture for Oregon will be Don Dibble, Hal Zurcher, and Pat Wohlers. The switch of Kovenz back to third, and moving Dibble to a permanent starting role gives the Webfoots added swatting strength.

Vanport Wins Doubleheader From Frosh

By SAM FIDMAN

Vanport college's snappy baseball team burned the candle at both ends Saturday afternoon at lower Howe field as they made a clean sweep of their double headed with the University of Oregon Frosh, knocking off the Ducklings, 2-1 and 9-6.

In the first game, Oregon headman Barney Koch fed the Portlanders two chucks, Bob Palmer starting and Lyle Rogers finishing off the sixth and seventh innings. Each team collected seven hits, and each team likewise went errorless, but Vanport shoved over one tally in the first frame after two were out, and added the winning run in the third.

Fullerton's Bat Murderous

The lone Duckling counter was chalked up in the fourth stanza, with shortstop Mel Krause lashing out a clean single behind second base, and going on to score on another one-bagger by Catcher Ken Bennett, who lined his blow into left field.

Third baseman Bob Bonebrake and Keystoner Peewee Welch each bagged two singles in three times at the plate, and Brad Fullerton started off a terrific day behind the willow stick by picking up a one base hit in his only appearance in the batter's box. He went on to pick up four more safeties in the night.

St. Mary's Loses Van Heuit to Pros

MORGA, Calif.—(UP)—Bill Van Heuit, ace St. Mary's college all-around athlete, has signed a professional baseball contract and will resign from school today, college officials announced today.

Van Heuit would not disclose what team he had signed with. He was slated to succeed Herman Wedemeyer at left half on the football team this fall; and was playing center field on the Gaels' baseball team, succeeding Wedemeyer at that post also.

Provost Tops Medalists; Stafford Defeats Rival

By KEN JOHNSON

Coach Sid Milligan's Oregon golf team partly salved its wounds received in the Husky encounter Friday by defeating the Portland university linksters 12½ to 5½ Saturday in a non-conference match Saturday. The match was played at the Eugene Country club and was an individual contest.

Dom Provost again provided the spark for Oregon, banging out a four-under-par 68 to cop medalist's honors for the fourth time in five matches. Added to Provost's 72-hole total from previous matches, the sub-par round makes him 11 under par.

An interesting feature of the day was the match between Lou Stafford of Oregon and Tom Marlow of the Pilots. Marlow was the only man to beat Stafford last year in collegiate play and the close battle between the old link rivals Saturday lived up to expectations. Although Stafford beat his opponent 2-1, the one stroke separating Stafford's 70 and Marlow's 71 tells the closeness of the match.

Al Crosbie, formerly first man for the Ducks and now playing fourth, was the only other Oregon golfer to shoot par 72. Other scores were surprisingly high, Rod Taylor's 78 being most unexpected. Taylor didn't have the finesse that is usual to him and lost all three of his points.

SCORES:

Oregon	Score	Pts.	vs.	Pts.	Score	Portland
Stafford	(70)	2	vs.	1	(71)	Marlow
Provost	(68)	3	vs.	0	(75)	Millich
Taylor	(78)	0	vs.	3	(74)	Goetze
Crosbie	(72)	2½	vs.	½	(79)	Cooney
Fischer	(77)	2½	vs.	½	(79)	Smith
Prince	(77)	2½	vs.	½	(80)	Lockhead
Totals	(442)	2½	vs.	5½	(458)

Grid Team to Practice Today In Spite of Weather Conditions

Coach Jim Aiken called off Monday's spring football practice yesterday noon, and although the weather cleared up in the afternoon, was stuck with his decision, as all of his gridders disappeared at the first mention of "no practice."

But the head mentor intends to use every one of the allotted 30 practice sessions, so the gridders will work today, rain or shine, and on through the spring until the grand climax May 22.

16 Workouts Held

Sixteen workouts have been held this spring and, although top team positions are nearly settled the coaching staff is going to continue to drill the newcomers and transfers, to determine the ones with the greatest possibilities. This week's practice will consist of plenty of scrimmaging, with new men carrying a big share of the duties.

The intrasquad game, postponed again last Friday after several previous changes of date, appears now to be questionable. Still on slate is the major, game-condition fray ending the spring session, to be played on Hayward field.

Netters Begin Preparations For Beavers

By JOHN BARTON

Oregon State's Beaver netmen are the next objective of Coach Kerm Smith's tennis squad.

Smith said yesterday that his team has two full weeks to practice for the OSC match, to be played here. The match is scheduled for Saturday, May 15.

Practice Match Off

A practice match with the Irvington Tennis club of Portland, slated for sometime late this week, has been indefinitely canceled, Smith reported.

Number three man Bob Corgan, out of Saturday's match against Idaho because of an injury, will probably be in shape for the Beaver sets, Corgan stated last night. He pulled an abdominal muscle in a practice session last week when he delivered a hard serve. The muscle was strained two weeks ago in Seattle during the Huskie matches but did not go completely out until last week.

Corgan Ready for Playoffs

Corgan said that he hopes to be ready for OSC on the 15, and if not then, he will definitely be set for the Northern division playoffs on May 21 in Pullman, Washington.

Coach Smith stated that he will hold a position tournament sometime this week. Some changes in the lineup are expected to result. Looking up is Saal Lesser, current number two man.

On the books, Oregon State has a chance of slightly beating the Ducks in the coming match. When the Beavers beat out Idaho 7-0, they took all sets, Saturday, Oregon dropped three sets to the Vandals. Smith related that his men are gunning for a revenge win after the licking they took from the Beavers early in the season.
