

Picnic Planners Ready 'Forest'

In Storybook Wonderland it never rains! And especially so in the Enchanted Forest. At least this is what the Junior Weekend picnic planners hope.

It is a known fact at the University of Oregon that it has not rained on Junior Weekend for the past 57 years, "and we are confident it won't this year," said Trudi Chernis, chairman of the all-campus picnic Saturday afternoon.

"We are still definitely going to have the picnic, unless something short of a tornado changes our plans," Miss Chernis said Tuesday.

Barring all chances of the usual rain, the Enchanted Forest will be seen on the old campus at 12:15 p.m. Saturday for the all-campus picnic for students and mothers. The queen and her court will attend the picnic and preside over the afternoon's entertainment. Robin Arkley will be prime minister.

Tickets are now on sale at the Co-op for mothers and guests, and are selling for 45 cents.

Tapping of Scabbard and Blade, Friars, Mortar Board, and Asklepiads will be featured during the picnic. Joe Ingram and his band are set to provide music for the afternoon's events.

Assisting Trudi Chernis, chairman, are Janet Beigel, decorations; Larry Davidson and Marjorie Petersen, food; Olga Yevtich, tickets; Dorothy Orr and Joe Labadie, cleanup.

to the use of the linotype and backshop composition when an agreement is reached with the union. But the handwriting is on the wall. These new instruments of the printing industry will, without any doubt, take a place alongside "hot metal" for newspaper publication.

Two newspapers, the Philadelphia Inquirer and the Miami Herald, have been granted permission to publish facsimile newspapers, which are radio productions of printed pages. Facsimile can use FM frequencies and many of the television sending and receiving principles. The goal of the facsimile inventors is a "printed paper in every home," but present costs of sensitized paper and the receiving set are out of range for the average family.

These are a few examples. Cold-metal proponents have selected their weapons. The longer printers stay off the job, anywhere, the more time these revolutionists will have to perfect these weapons for daily use.

Petitions Taken For ISA Ticket

Students interested in running for office on the Independent ticket may petition for any office, for which they are qualified. These petitions must be submitted to members of the organizational committee before 6 p.m. Thursday.

Positions open include number one and two of the ASUO, sophomore, junior, and senior representatives to the executive council of the ASUO, number one and number two of the sophomore, junior, and senior classes.

Petitioners must secure the regular petition forms available in the offices of the dean of men and women. Petitions must be signed by 20 Independent students and must be accompanied by an eligibility slip.

Candidates to run on the party ticket will be selected at the ISA nominating assembly from those who petition. The following people will receive petitions: Anne Goodman, Hendricks hall; Pat Lane, Highland house; Don Davis, Sigma hall; Bob Davis, Stan Ray hall; Wally Berning, McChesney hall.
