

Boice Has Lead In Male Animal

By PAT KING

Because he "likes to eat too well" Charles Boice, who plays a leading role in the coming University theater production, "The Male Animal," to be presented May 21, 22, 26, 27, 28, and 29, decided that he isn't going to try to make history via the stage.

Graduating from the University before the war Boice returned last spring term to work on his master degree.

"After I get my master's, I'd like to teach a while and do work on the side such as research, writing, and further study," he said. "Little theater and amateur drama groups are expanding all over the country and a new field in the theory of drama is opening up."

While in the navy for four years, most of which was spent in the South Pacific, the closest he came to the theater was behind a movie projection camera. After the war he spent a couple of years in Los Angeles, San Francisco, and New York.

Sponsor at Omega hall, Boice was seen in his first production of the year as the irate Mr. Stanley, unwilling host to "The Man Who Came to Dinner."

As "whirling Joe Ferguson" in "The Male Animal," Chuck is a big, happy-go-lucky, former all-American football star. Returning to the campus for the first time in ten years for the homecoming game with Michigan, Joe meets the current football hero (LaVorn Taylor) and his former girl friend (Pat Laxton) who is now married to Professor Turner (Bill Tassock).

In the play, Midwestern is supposed to have a surprise play to use against Michigan, which director Gilbert T. Williams and members of the cast have worked out. "We're curious to know if it would really work," Chuck remarked.

"Thurber has some catchy dialogue which is more difficult to play than a person would at first realize," he explained. "But it's a good college story in which students will recognize a lot of events. Many of the sidelights are close to happenings on the Oregon campus."

Tickets for the show are now on sale in Johnson hall from 10 a. m.

tions number one and two; and yelling.

Students who intend to nominate candidates for the number one ASUO position will appear on the stage. They, and their candidates, will be allowed a total of 10 minutes to speak.

The ASUO position number two nominee, and the person speaking on the nominees' behalf, will be allowed a total of four minutes speaking time.

Nominations for the executive council positions and class officers will be accepted from the floor. Nominees for the executive council will walk on the stage, but nominees for class officers may just stand from their place in the audience.

Short silks or suits are in order for candidates for ASUO number one and two, and executive council nominees, according to Williamson. Candidates for class officers may wear campus clothes.

to noon and from 1 to 5 p. m.

Other members of the cast include: Carolyn Parker as Pat Stanley, Gordon Ericksen as Ed Keller, Dick Monnie as Dean Damon, Virginia Woods as Mrs. Damon, Pat White as Cleota, Donna Mary Brennan as Mrs. Keller, and Cris McCarroll as Nutsy Miller.

UO Symphony Closes Season

The University symphony orchestra, conducted by Dr. Edmund Cykier, will present its last concert of the school year tomorrow night at 8:15 in the music school auditorium.

Guest soloist with the orchestra will be Bertram Haigh, from the Minneapolis symphony orchestra, who will play Mozart's Concerto in E flat for horn. Haigh is holding a horn clinic this week for high school students.

Faculty members soloing with the 65-piece orchestra are George Hopkins, Robert Hord, and Wade Parks, who will play a Bach concerto originally written for three pianos. The composition has never been played at a music school performance before.

George Boughton will play Dvorak's Concerto in A minor for violin and orchestra.

The University orchestra has played for Midsummer Night's Dream, the Douglas Memorial concert and has given one other concert during the year.

Registering Plan

stated, students will be given opportunity to complete registration for classes according to the speed with which they return the special enrollment cards. The change is for the convenience of old students, especially, he said, and early appointments will be given those who return their cards early.

Cards which are not complete when returned will be invalid. The registrar made a plea to students to fill out the cards "legibly" and encouraged them to return them quickly for priority in classes next year.

He stressed the fact that the cards are for fall term, not for summer sessions.

Besides limiting enrollment lines such as occurred last fall, the appointment system (a return to a procedure used in fall term of 1947) will enable the University to know the approximate demands to be made on various departments and schools next fall and will help with planning classrooms, instructors, registration materials, veteran procedure, etc.

The return to an appointment system resulted because registrants were not "distributed evenly" during enrollment last year as they had been in previous years, Avery stated.

The new cards will be available in the Emerald hall corridor Thursday, Friday, and until noon Saturday and may be picked up at the registrar's office after that time. Supplies for an entire living organization may be obtained by a house representative.

Freshman week for 1948-49 will begin Sunday, September 12, and registration will continue from September 13-18. Classes will start Monday, September 20.

Registration for summer session will begin Tuesday, June 15, and classes will meet beginning June 16.

Wallace Decries Parley Refusal

San Francisco, May 18—(UP)—Henry A. Wallace charged tonight that United States' refusal to open talks with Russia "is an answer calculated to continue the cold war."

Speaking before an overflow audience in the Cow Palace, the third-party presidential candidate said the state department's insistence on settling the East-West dispute through the United Nations was side-stepping the main issue.

He charged that Secretary of State George C. Marshall's answer to Premier Josef Stalin's overture was "not satisfactory."

Them that talks most does least.
