

YWCA Offers Summer Groups

Marcia Summers, junior in liberal arts, has been accepted to attend one of the summer projects sponsored by the National Intercollegiate Christian council.

She will attend the New York college summer service group, beginning about June 22 and lasting seven weeks. The students work 30 hours a week in settlements, unions and other agencies and study economic, social and religious problems.

Laura Olson and Nancy Peterson, president and vice-president of the campus YWCA respectively, will attend the president's school of the Y at the Pacific School of Religions in Berkeley, California. Officers and cabinet members of the Y enroll for six semester hours' credit, preparing for next year's leadership. The school will be from June 21 to July 30.

Other summer projects sponsored by the NICC include five students-in-industry projects, two seminars on the life of Jesus, a Washington student citizenship seminar, the New York college summer service group, two SCA leadership seminars, three president's schools, three meet-your-government seminars, and two united nations seminars.

Students interested in attending any of these sessions may inquire at the YWCA.

Graduation Details For Seniors Ready

Graduation information for seniors will be available at room 8, Friendly hall, beginning June 1, according to Les Anderson, alumni secretary.

This will also include commencement tickets and instruction for the ceremonies. Anderson said each graduate will probably be limited to three tickets, because of the unusually large class.

Questionnaires that will entitle each member of the class to complimentary one year alumni membership will also be at the alumni office next month.
