JIM WALLACE

MARILYN TURNER

Wallace, Turner To Edit, Manage Alumni Organ

Jim Wallace and Marilyn Turner, both sophomores in journalism, have been appointed editor and business manager, respectively, of next year's Old Oregon, alumni magazine. Les Anderson, alumni director, made the appointments.

Anderson said, "Jim was chosen from many other applicants to fill the job of managing editor; his admirable efforts make him the logical choice for the editorship that will be made vacant by Bert Moore's graduation in June.

"Working with him will be Marilyn Turner as business manager. She has done a fine job as layout manager all this year. I am sure that this new team will continue to turn out top flight magazines in line with the prize winning Old Oregon magazines of the past."

Record Good

Besides being managing editor, Wallace has written feature articles for the magazine all year. He ton, George Bell, Hall Schick, Tom of the Emerald.

In regard to Wallace's appointment, Moore, editor of this year's Old Oregon, said, "I have been extremely fortunate in having Jim as managing editor. With his experience and the ability he has shown, I'm certain that next year's magazines will be better than ever before."

Other activities of the new editor include vice-president of the sophomore class and assistant editor of the Oregon housing section fall term. Wallace was recently tapped for membership in Sigma Delta Chi, men's journalism honorary, and Druids.

Congress Weakens Commies

Representatives Pass Mundt-Nixon With Heavy Vote

WASHINGTON, May 19—(UP)—The House today passed by a topheavy vote the Mundt-Nixon bill giving American Communist leaders the choice of breaking ties with Moscow or going to jail.

The final roll call vote was 319 to 58. It came after the house had shouted down all attempts to weaken the measure or to kill it by sending it back to the un-American activities committee.

Voting for the bill were 215 Republicans and 104 Democrats. Opposed were eight Republicans, 48 Democrats, and two American Labor party members.

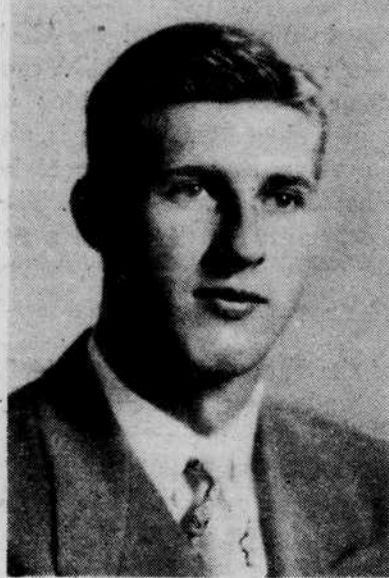

Restrictions Imposed

The bill, which now goes to the Senate, would surround the U.S. Communist party and its "front" organizations with some of the sternest restrictions ever imposed on a political group in this nation's history.

It was denounced, during four days of torrid floor debate, by a hopelessly outnumbered group of critics who charged that it is unconstitutional, that it will lead to "thought control," and that it will undermine the individual liberties of all Americans.

It was supported, with equal vigor, by Republican and Democratic congressmen who asserted the act is a carefully-drawn and badly-needed supplement to the government's legal arsenal against communist subversion.

Candidates Disclosed At Meeting

Allen, Henderson, Rasmussen Named As No. 1 Aspirants

ASA, ISA, and USA candidates for ASUO number one and two, executive council, and class positions were nominated last night in McArthur court before a crowd of about 900 students. Stan Williamson, ASUO president, was chairman of the meeting.

First candidate to speak was Bob Allen, USA, who declared he was "carrying the fight against irresponsible pressure groups to the student body."

"The philosophy of our party," the USA number one candidate said, "calls for the individual to become active in student affairs. If we students are to gain and maintain a position of real importance in the administration and control of student affairs, we must actively demonstrate that we are individually and collectively responsible people."

Miller Explains USA

Allen was introduced by Warren Miller, president of USA, who informed the audience just what USA is, and "what it is not." It is not a party of disgruntled office seekers, he contended, nor is it an organization of Greeks who hope to split the independents, or independents who wish to split the Greeks.

Platform of USA includes abolishment of social lines in politics, divorcement of student affairs from faculty control, and an incorporated student body.

Direct Primaries Is a Plank

Introduced by Jeanne Nunn as a candidate who "stands for what he believes is right," was the ISA candidate for number one ASUO position, Bob Henderson.

Open, direct primaries was the main plank of Henderson's platform. With such a system he hopes to bring the selection of candidates down to the individuals and away from machine politics.

"The nearly 1000 off-campus students, and the minority voices in the houses," Henderson declared, "as well as those students living on the campus and the majority voice

Cards Ready For Fall Term

Cards to be filled out by students to speed registration for fall term, 1948, will be available in the main corridor of Emerald hall today, tomorrow, and until noon Saturday.

Appointments for dates on which to pick up registration material during freshman week will be made for students after they submit the cards to the registrar's office. A notice of appointment will be sent each student during the summer, Registrar Curtis E. Avery stated.

The speed with which students may register for classes next fall, and priority for classes wanted depend on how soon the cards are picked up, filled out and returned, Avery said.

After Saturday, they may be secured in the office of the registrar.
