

Homecoming Hostess Finalist Review

By ALICIA PETERS

With voting on the six finalists for Homecoming Hostess scheduled for next week, Oregon students would undoubtedly like to know a little about the girls chosen by the judges before casting their votes for the girl they would most like to see reign over the 1948-49 Homecoming.

VIRGINIA WALKER

The first finalist interviewed was Pi Beta Phi's grey-eyed candidate, Virginia Walker. Virginia is a senior this year, majoring in voice. To develop her voice has always been her ambition. She is a member of the Pi Phi trio, and last spring sang the role of Lucy in "The Beggar's Opera." After graduating this spring she plans to go to New York where she will continue her studies in voice at Julliard, with the idea—then "dream," as she puts it—of working into concert or opera work.

Virginia stands five feet six inches tall and weighs about 130 pounds. She has lived in Cleveland, Ohio, Los Angeles, and the past seven years in Portland where she attended Grant high school.

She likes tennis, swimming, and strawberries, and on the campus belongs to Orchesis and Phi Theta, music honorary.

RUTH MIHNOS

The second finalist is Ruth Mihnors from Delta Gamma, who, like, Virginia, stands five feet six inches tall and weighs 130 pounds.

Ruth is a sophomore this year and intently working on her major, speech correction, which, she says, involves many science courses and all the psychology courses.

While she is preparing herself to help people who have speech difficulties, she is looking forward to next summer when she plans to teach a class of diabetics about proper foods and other problems relating to them in her uncle's school at the Good Samaritan hospital in Portland.

Ruth has a stamp collection and a cup and saucer collection. She is particularly proud of one cup which has legs on it and is a hundred and fifty years old. She is also proud of her scrapbooks which contain souvenirs from her grade school, high school and her college days to date.

She likes all sports and likes to cook, chocolate cake being her specialty. Ruth is a resident of Portland where she attended Lincoln high school.

JANE HULL

The third finalist is Jane Hull, five feet five and one-half inches, 121 pounds. She represents Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Jane, a graduate of Stevens' junior college for women in Missouri, will graduate this spring from Oregon. Art and psychology are her two main fields of interest.

After graduation she and another girl, whom she met at Stevens, have hopeful plans of securing jobs on an ocean liner and traveling to South America or Europe.

Jane is a girl of many likes, enjoying swimming, horseback riding, volleyball, football, basketball and dancing. She likes both classical and popular music and plays popular music on the piano. She likes "trying" to play bridge, as she describes it.

Jane's home is at Agate Beach, Oregon, where, after attending the past first session of summer school, she spent the rest of the summer playing on the beach, and resting in preparation for a forthcoming good year at Oregon.

NORMA DUFFY

The fourth finalist is a third-term freshman, Norma Duffy, who represents Alpha Chi Omega.

Besides keeping up with a busy schedule of classes centered around her major, interior design, Norma works part time as a computer and stenographer in the statistical department. She belongs to Orchesis and is a member of the YWCA.

Norma loves to cook and gets expert tips on her culinary attempts from her father who is a chef and who, she says, samples everything she cooks. Another at-home pastime of Norma's is painting celluloid butterflies and designs on textiles.

Her home is in The Dalles, Oregon.

BARBARA LINK

Representing Chi Omega is the sixth candidate, Barbara Link, a sophomore from Oakland, California. Barbara is a long way from home, but likes the feeling of independence this entails, although she says she misses the occasional weekend visits home that other girls enjoy.

In height she is five feet four inches tall and weighs 122 pounds. Majoring in liberal arts at present, she plans to finish her studies in the field of psychology.

Red is her favorite color and she has made this the center of her color scheme for her room. Using red plaid at her windows and on her couch, she has worked out a Chinese scheme, adding touches of black with a little oriental-looking coffee table on which rests a black vase.

Knitting argyles is her hobby, and steak—"a nice expensive one"—and roller skating are among her favorites.

She belongs to Junior Orchesis and the YWCA.

NANCY CHAMBERLAIN

Nancy chamberlain is the fifth finalist, representing Kappa Alpha Theta.

A sophomore majoring in Spanish pre-education, Nancy is five feet seven inches tall and weighs 120 pounds. In connection with her major, she would like to go to Mexico and study Spanish there for a summer.

Nancy enjoys music greatly, particularly that of Carmen Caballero. Two of her favorite records are "String of Pearls" and "Someone to Watch Over Me." She likes to play the piano.

Her favorite comic strip is Dagwood, because, as she says, since it is so hard to follow the comics when a person is down at school, Dagwood is about the only one that is complete in each issue.

She loves angelfood cake, golfing and fishing, and is a devotee of commercial flying, after having taken several trips via the airlines.

Nancy's home is in Portland where she attended Grant high school.

Also on the schedule are morning worship services at 7:15 Monday through Friday in Gerlinger hall. The guest speakers will officiate. At noon each day in John Straub, Rev. Schroeder will lead forums which will correspond with the subject planned for the days activities. Additional forums will be held at 3 and 4 p.m. in Gerlinger hall.

To Be Guests

Various campus living organizations will have the speakers as dinner guests, with informal discussion following the meal. Speakers will also attend firesides designed to encourage discussion of the multiple topics to be dealt with during the week.

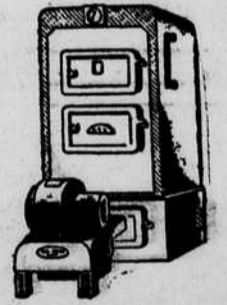

Over-all purpose of Religious Evaluation week is to start students thinking along religious lines, not only inwardly, but also in relation to the place of religion in the present social and political scene.

Program for the week is under the co-direction of Warren Webster, UO student, and Rev. David Seaman, adviser of Wesley house. The events are sponsored by the University religious council, which successfully staged a similar week last year.
