

DUCK TRACKS

By GLENN GILLESPIE

Our prediction accuracy percentage has slipped a few points after last week's upset-filled football weekend, but it's still hanging on at a fairly respectable .750.

Five of the seven games we picked managed to turn out right last Saturday, to bring the season total to 18 right, six wrong, and one tied.

After a look at this Saturday's schedule, we should retire from the forecasting field for good, but it's too much fun. We're still hoping for a perfect weekend, but with games like Oregon-USC, Stanford-UCLA, and Washington-WSC coming up, what chance do we have?

Last week's misses:

Washington-UCLA—This game, which the improved Huskies won in a breeze, 27-6, was the most surprising on the coast. Bert LaBrucherie's mighty Bruins are finally on the way down, after a fairly good season last year and the PCC title in 1946. Wonder if the Bruin student body and school publication will be after LaBrucherie's scalp again this year?

A strong Washington line and fine play by Marsh Dallas and Anse McCullough in the backfield contributed to the Bruin defeat. UCLA's next, game, against Stanford, should be a hair-raiser.

Stanford-UCLA Game Attracts Attention

Santa Clara-Stanford—The Indians fumbled their way to defeat by Santa Clara, 27-14. This wasn't really an upset, since the Broncos have a strong independent outfit, but 27-14 is quite a margin. Our guess is that Stanford is saving its stuff for a more important conference victory over UCLA this Saturday.

After a fair season last year, the Broncos are hitting the big time, with games ahead on their schedule against major teams like SMU, Michigan State, and Nevada.

Jim Aiken's Oregon Webfoots certainly stuck to their hot-cold cycle last week against Idaho. With everyone expecting a one-sided Duck victory, a 15-8 score isn't anything to boast about.

No excuses, but just a few ideas. Oregon didn't really have to be "up" for the Vandal game. An upset-win for Idaho wouldn't do, but an Oregon victory, by seven points or seventy, looks the same in conference standings. It's been a long time since the Webfoots have been on top.

When a team is really keyed for a game, they aren't the same, mentally or physically, for a while. With Southern Cal coming up this Saturday, the Ducks will have to play perfect ball to win.

And finally, it was Homecoming over in Moscow. That, coupled with the fact that Oregon is Mr. Big in the Northwest, gave the Vandals every right to put on a good show.

Aiken will undoubtedly put on the pressure this week in practice, and if the cycle runs true, the Ducks are set to burn up Multnomah stadium turf. . . .

California-Northwestern in Rose Bowl?

Things are shaping up, both here in the Pacific Coast Conference and back in the Big Nine. The California Bears, if they keep up their present pace, probably have the inside track to the Rose Bowl, with the Webfoots right behind. The Northwestern Wildcats look more like a Bowl team every week, and should end up as number two team in the Big Nine.

Northwestern's brilliant comeback against the Minnesota Gophers Saturday should just about turn the tide. Even if Michigan should whip the Wildcats, they couldn't go to the Rose Bowl twice in a row, so it's a setup for Bob Voight's Cats.

Ducklings Take Wild Game From UW Pups

Oregon's Freshman football team squeezed out a close one Friday night in Portland, beating the University of Washington Pups 25-24. Frosh End Jerry Leslie booted the game's only extra point for the Duckling win.

Bill Bowerman must have a fairly potent squad, especially in the backfield. Big Chuck Missfeldt, the javelin tosser from Milwaukee, scored twice from his fullback post, and little Tommy Edwards, left halfback from Klamath Falls, also scored two Duckling touchdowns.

Jim Calderwood, Frosh quarterback, seems to be a fine T-passer, and will bolster Aiken's varsity next year.

The Webfoots Frosh have a big game October 23 in Corvallis, with the OSC unsubsidized Rooks. This Civil War, junior style, is an important game every year, but won't attract many Oregon rooters because of Homecoming here on the campus.

By GEORGE WAGGONER

Six intramural touch football teams added high-scoring victories to the records in yesterday's games to begin the third week of IM action.

Campbell club ran roughshod over a strong Merrick hall team by a 31-0 margin. Sigma Alpha Epsilon blanked Cherney hall 33-0, a defending-champion Sigma Nu team downed the Legal Eagles 32-0, Phi Kappa Psi rolled over Wesley house 18-0, and Kappa Sigma nipped Tau Kappa Epsilon 6-0.

In the day's closest game, Delta Upsilon slipped by Beta Theta Pi, two first downs to one, in a scoreless battle.

Krause Leads Campbell

Mel Krause, a big wingback with an accurate passing arm, led the Campbell club squad to its 31-0 victory, as he pitched four touchdowns and ran for the other six points.

Clubbers Chuck Hoyder, Cece Clay, Henry Panian, and Jim Kaber were on the receiving end of Krause's pay-off tosses. Krause also tallied the only conversion.

Sigma Nu Over Eagles

Sigma Nu unleashed a powerful offensive as they rolled up a five-touchdown victory over the Legal Eagles. Rog Dick scored the first tally on a 20-yard run around end, and passed for two more scores, one to brother Ed Dick and the other to Kimsey.

Keith Welch scampered 45 yards for still another SN tally, and tossed a touchdown pass to Bob Anderson for the final counter.

SAE Blanks Cherney

Bud Helm sparked Sigma Alpha Epsilon to a 33-0 win over an outmanned Cherney hall squad. A tricky reverse pass play clicked for two SAE scores. Helm, Elgenholm, and Shultons worked the play the first time, and then Helm, Richey, and Coffey pulled the identical bit of razzle-dazzle.

The other SAE counters were scored on passes from Helm to Elgenholm and Jim Popp. Elgenholm pitched the final tally to Ron Dunn.

Phi Psis Down Wesley

Playing heads-up football, the Phi Kappa Psi crew scored an 18-0 victory over Wesley house. Cal Smith ran around end for one touchdown, and pitched to Keith Allen for another.

George Bartlett intercepted a Wesley pass to score the other Phi Psi tally.

Kappa Sigs Edge Tekes

Reedy Berg and Hendrickson teamed up to give Kappa Sigma a close 6-0 win over the Tekes. Both teams marched up and down the field, and neither outfit gained an advantage until Berg connected with a 6-point pass to Hendrickson.

Delta Upsilon Drops Betas

The boys from Delta Upsilon won a statistical victory over Beta Theta Pi, with two first downs to one for the Beta squad. Both teams threatened, but weren't able to push over a winning touchdown.

The next Oregon Frosh game is against the OSC Rooks October 23 in Corvallis.
