Warren Says Unity Necessity

Only a united American people can successfully tackle the "job ahead," G.O.P. vice-presidential candidate Earl Warren told 3000 listeners in McArthur court yesterday.

Choosing the party best able to achieve this unity is the main issue in the present campaign, he said.

The Republican party alone, he continued, offers the "best hope of real leadership" and "the greatest ability for coming to grips with the problems confronting us."

Hits Wallace

The Wallacites "strange alignment with communists in this country and their open aid and comfort to Soviet Russia" disqualifies them as contenders for serious consideration, he said.

Warren can see "no hope" in the Dixiecrat party with its entirely sectional cause. It is significant "only in that it is further proof of internal squabbling within the ranks of the present administration," he observed.

Democrats Split

"We can hardly look to what is left of the present administration because it has been unable to maintain leadership even within its own ranks," Warren said. He cited the failure of the 79th Democratic congress to put through a legislative program and the bolting Democrats in the 80th congress who voted with the Republicans on such issues as the Taft-Hartley act, as examples of the administration's internal split.

"It must be obvious to most Americans that under such circumstances the national administration is in no position either to come up with answers to our problems or put them through if the answers are found," he added.

Bitterness Absent

Calling attention to President Truman's "namecalling," Warren said, "On our side there is no bitterness in the campaign. We do not blame the administration for all the ills of our country."

"Neither party," he pointed out, "has any copyright on American principles, any patent on progress, or any proprietary interest in the advances we have made to date."

The California governor believes that America has grown great under the two party system and must continue to avoid the multi party system that "is blocking progress in so many European countries."

United Party

Emphasizing the unity of the Republican party under Tom Dewey, Warren repeated the G.O.P.'s platform promises, one "really" bipartisan foreign policy, an efficient and humane national administration, and development of natural resources and the West.

"We united on a platform and we united on a standard bearer. Within 24 hours after the conven-

Well, It Was Raining

Even though the weatherman says the skies will be clear for today's Oregon-USC football game in Multnomah Stadium, Nancy Bostwick isn't taking any chances on getting rained on. The 30,000 fans expected to fill the stadium today will probably take the same precaution. The crowd scene above was taken at last year's Oregon-Washington game. Webfoot Tackle Sam Nevills (at right) will see action on defense against the Trojans, and looks like he's ready to give them plenty of trouble. This game is expected to answer many questions about the 1948 PCC Rose Bowl nomination. Oregon will go into the contest as a 6-point favorite.

Webfoots Favored To Win Third Game From Southern Cal

Two high-powered football machines, both strong contenders for the Pacific Coast Conference Rose Bowl nomination, will swing into action today at 2 p. m. in Portland's Multnomah Stadium, when the University of Oregon Webfoots meet the mighty Trojans from Southern California.

Duck Coach Jim Aiken will send his Oregon team into this conference game as 6-point favorites to defeat USC. This is the first time in recent years that Oregon has been favored over the Trojans.

The two teams have played 14 football games, the Trojans winning 11 and Oregon only two. The 1939 game ended in a 7-7 tie. Oregon last fashioned a win in 1941, when USC was defeated 20-6. Total points scored favor the Trojans 366 to 82.

Ducks After Revenge

The Webfoots will be out to end USC domination this afternoon. Jeff Cravath's men have 40-0 and 43-0 wins on the records in 1942 and 1946, and revenge will be Oregon's first objective.

The starting lineup Aiken plans to use against USC won't be known until game time. Injuries to Johnny McKay and George Bell in the Idaho game marks these two first-string backs as unlikely, but they may start.

Lewis May Start

Woodley Lewis could be Aiken's choice at the vital left half spot, and Keith DeCoursey and DeWayne Johnson will be ready to relieve Bell at right halfback. Blasting Bob Sanders is a sure starter at fullback in the Duck T-formation.

If a strong Trojan line stops Oregon's ground attack, Duck Quarterback Norm Van Brocklin will have to rely on his valuable right arm for a victory. Leading passer in the PCC, Van Brocklin will have Ends Dan Garza and Dick Wilkins on the receiving end of his tosses.

Same Season Record

Each team has a 3-1 won and lost record going into today's game. The Webfoots have defeated Santa Barbara, Stanford, and Idaho, while USC has beaten Utah, Oregon State, and Rice.

Big Nine football teams accounted for both defeats. Oregon lost a 14-0 test to the Michigan Wolverines, while the Trojans were defeated by Ohio State, 21-0.

After winning nine of their last ten ball games, the Webfoots are working on another win streak. Both teams won games last Saturday, Oregon slipping by Idaho 15-8, and USC beating Rice 7-0.

Strong SC Pass Defense

Although favored to win today, Aiken's crew will be up against the strongest pass defense in the PCC. Jeff Cravath's unit has limited the opposition to a scant 83.8 yards per-game through the air. On the ground, the Trojans rank fifth in rushing defense.

In offensive statistics, the Ducks have an edge over SC. Oregon ranks third in total offense, with

Cravath

USC COACH JEFF CRAVATH has been in the football business since 1929, when he headed the football team at Denver university. He went to Southern Cal in 1933 as frosh coach, moving in as varsity mentor in 1942. Cravath's SC record stands at 41 won, 17 lost, and four tied. Cravath-coached Trojan varsity teams have scored 1135 points, to 629 for the opposition, winning the PCC title four times.

UO Teams Take SC in 1915, 1915

The first Oregon-USC football game was played in 1915 with the Webfoots winning 35-0. From that year until 1941, when Oregon won 20-6, the Trojans have managed to take every contest. USC's 53-0 margin in 1931 is the largest score made by either team.

The two schools have played 14 games, with Oregon winning two and Southern Cal 11. The 1939 contest resulted in a 7-7 tie.

Aiken

JIM AIKEN'S Oregon football teams have won 10 and lost 4 since his first year as Duck Grid boss. He started coaching college ball in 1936 at Akron university, going to Nevada in 1939. After eight years with the Wolfpack, Aiken came to Oregon in time for the 1947 season. His college teams have won 66 games, lost 36, and tied four, while his total coaching record, including high school teams, stands at 184 won, 51 lost, and six tied.
