Political Assembly Tonight

University students will have the opportunity to hear the four major parties' stands at 7:50 p. m. tonight at the McArthur court student political assembly. Thursday and Friday sample ballots will be distributed to all students for an all-campus mock election on national and state issues.

Liquor, over the bar, deficiency fund bill, and the veterans' bonus, three measures on the Oregon ballot November 2, will be argued from both favorable and unfavorable viewpoints.

Following short talks on national candidates and issues by representatives from the Republican, Democrat, Socialist, and Progressive parties, an open discussion and question period will be held.

Next Clay Myers, members of the Oregon Young Republicans Federation executive board and president of the campus chapter, and Bob Davis, president of both the Lane county and the University Young Democrats, will discuss state politics, followed by another open discussion period.

Each Party Represented

Bob Miller, secretary of the Lane county Socialists, will speak for his party on the national scene. Roy Stauffer, president of the Young Progressives, will represent the Wallace party. John Chatt, delegate to the Democratic National convention, will present his party's national stand, and Nancy Peterson will carry the banner for the Republicans.

All of the speakers are students at the University. Warren Miller, graduate assistant in Political Science, will be moderator.

Purpose of the political assembly and the mock election, according to co-ordinating chairmen Bob Miller and Walt Freauff, is "to stir up student interest in politics and to give them another chance to hear every side in the coming election."

Lack of Curiosity Defeats Mixer Ad

Bravery is a just a lost art, apparently.

...Completely deserted in the midst of a throng of humanity in front of the Co-op yesterday was what purported to be a telescope, bearing the enticing inscription, "Free Look."

Apparently afraid of a practical joke, or of looking eager, or something, would-be free-lookers were staying away in droves.

Honest, though, it just advertises a YWCA mixer coming up this weekend.

SX Sweetheart Race Narrowed To Six Coeds

The light blue booklet also contains names of the house mothers from many living organizations, the various schools and the location of their main offices and other places of importance.

Do Our Coeds Like Bearing Dates?

By BUD HURST

(Emerald Special Writer)

NEWS ITEM—"Cornell university coeds are fed up with bearing dates, some of them claim." This writer set out to investigate the Webfoot attitude on this subject and here are the results.

The question asked was—"Do you like to go out on beer dates with the boys you meet?"

Answer No. 1. "I think that would be swell! When will you be by to pick me up?"

We re-phrased the question before asking it again. After revision it ran thus—"Do you think it is proper for girls to go out drinking beer with the boys they meet?"

Answer No. 1. "What's wrong with it? What are you trying to imply? Why the very idea! I'll have you know that I'd never think of such a thing. I think you're simply horrible. You get out of here and don't ever come again. The nerve of some people. "Why I never —." I went gaily off to buy some band-aids for the cut on my brow. Then I re-phrased the question.

Third revision. "Should boys buy beer for their dates?"

Answer No. 1. "I don't know how it would taste so I can't say. I've had beer with pretzels and potato chips but never with dates. I should think it would upset their stomach terrifically. They grow dates in Arabia, don't they? I was in Arabia once, just before the war when my father worked for the —." I ran to the nearest fishpond for a cool drink of water. Then I re-phrased the question.

Fourth revision. "Why do girls drink beer when they are out with boys?"

Answer No. 1. "Do they?"

"I referred her to the freshman counselor in Gerlinger hall for an invitation to the Smarty Party.

Then I beheld a beautiful blonde walking past the Side. I re-phrased the question.

Fifth revision. "Hey, baby, how about a quiet brew? Just you and me, whataya say?"

We will continue this topic tomorrow. Answer No. 5 was satisfactory.
