among University students. The students tended almost to the man to indicate strong support for V. Edwin Johnson, U of O grad and present Eugene councilman. One Eugene student asked, "Hawn's campaign manager said, A man would certainly be foolish if he believed the University and Eugene weren't interdependent." IT would be interesting to know what Hawn has said."

The president of one of the campus living organizations said, "I favor any candidate who favors the University. It looks to me like Johnson has the better chance of those two to be elected so I am throwing my support his way."

One of the prewar students looked at the Mill Race and remarked, "I remember when the 'Race' was one of the biggest scenic and recreational attractions in Eugene. If the students and townspeople want it back they are going to have to support Ed Johnson. Johnson is familiar with the ways of city government, he really wants the Mill Race, and he can expediate its return."

"Oregon grads are in a better position to workout University city problems," said one member of the basketball squad. "I believe we'll have better luck with Johnson as mayor than OSC alum, Hawn."

A campus politico express this opinion. "If Hawn, who has opposed city-campus legislation so often is elected the University just as well sell its property to be used for the city incenerator site."
