

IFC Elects Snyder, Arizona Phi Delt, President 1948-9

After some discussion over whether to hold next year's con- Fred Snyder, University of Arizona Phi Gamma Delta, was elected president of the Western Regional Interfraternity Council conference yesterday afternoon in a business meeting of the third annual conference on the Oregon campus.

Bob Thurston, Alpha Delta Phi from the University of British Columbia, was chosen vice president; Ray Shaaf, Tau Kappa Epsilon from Washington State College was named secretary, and Bob Stewart, San Diego State Kappa Sigma was elected treasurer.

ference in the northern or southern division of the western region, it was decided to hold next year's convention jointly in Moscow, and Pullman with the University of Idaho and Washington State College as hosts. In case this is not possible, the meeting will be held at the University of Arizona.

"We certainly want to thank the University of Oregon for its hospitality," said the newly elected president following the business meeting. He added that he had noticed the critical comments recently printed in The Emerald about snobbishness on the UO campus. From his visitor's standpoint at least, he has not found this true.

Among other resolutions passed yesterday, the WRIFC went on record favoring the removal of restrictive or discriminatory clauses, including those on race, religion, creed, and color.

No man is a fraternity man unless he lives up to the ideals of his ritual, Dr. Ulysses G. Dubach, dean of men emeritus of Oregon State college, told 120 guests and delegates at the IFC banquet last night in the Osburn hotel.

His talk, titled "What Fraternities Should Do and Be," stressed the Lippman belief that "our generation has an appointment with destiny." Fraternities must help assume this responsibility, he said.

Three goals fraternities should try to achieve, he continued, are to help create a new attitude toward virtue, to train their members in diligence, and to instill brotherly love through fraternity spirit.

Dubach emphatically denounced hazing as a fraternity policy. "I never saw fraternity get into a man through the seat of his pants," he said.

A member of Sigma Phi Epsilon, Dubach was dean of men at OSC for 24 years. At present he heads the political science department at Lewis and Clark university.

Today Concludes Meet

This morning's discussion groups and the Oregon-St. Mary's football game this afternoon will bring the conference to its close.

Deans and advisers of men will discuss "The Fraternity and the Institution" from 9 to 10:20 a. m.

Dean Harold Beatty of Fresno State College will lead the discussion, and R. H. Berg of USC and Raymond Powell of the College of Puget Sound will serve on the panel.

Final discussion will be the 10:30 "Grab-bag Session" for the topics which delegates think the program committee missed. The University of British Columbia will preside.

more than his share of secondary tackles.

Although he plays very little on offense, Holcomb has scored one touchdown on a punt return against Santa Clara.

Aiken is a veteran of two seasons at Nevada, and will earn an Oregon letter at left halfback. A good pass-receiver and tricky runner, Aiken has averaged more than four yards per try so far this year.

He's a high-stepper, and his shifty running style enables him to go for long gains around the ends. Aiken is certain to see plenty of action in the remaining four games.

Activity Ticket Due

A chance of attending the OSC game at Corvallis November 20 may be had by signing ticket no. 33 in the student athletic books and dropping it in a box in the Co-op, which will be there until Monday.

Monday night 1450 names will be drawn from the ballot box at a meeting of the executive council.

Oregonian Carrier Boys Guests at Game

Reserved seats at the St. Mary's game this afternoon will reward 150 carried boys of the Portland Oregonion for promptly meeting their September-October sales quota.

The carried-salesmen are making the trip by chartered buses. They will tour the campus and dine at John Straub hall following the game.

M. J. Frey, general manager of the Oregonian, will also attend the game. He will sit in the president's box.

Arrangements for the trip were made by Elving N. Anderson, senior in BA and of the circulation department of the Oregonian. This is the first time carriers from the Portland paper have come to an Oregon game. Several hundred were sent to the East-West game in San Francisco last New Year's.

Gen. Albert Brown To Inspect ROTC

Major General Albert E. Brown, commanding general of the Northern Military district, will be on the University campus for an informal inspection on Monday, November 1. General Brown is in command of all of the civilian components of the army in the four states of Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana, which includes the Officers' Reserve Corps and the
