

City League Discusses Space Problem

"The overall problem of providing facilities and services for the increase in population that we have had in Oregon," will be the main problem for discussion when the League of Oregon Cities and the Oregon Finance Officers association hold a joint conference in Eugene, November 19 to 20, Herman Kehrli, political science instructor, and director of the Bureau of Municipal Research and Service, announced today.

"The last census estimate shows that Oregon's population has increased at a more rapid rate since 1940 than that of any other state and providing the services for these people is the key problem in Oregon today," Mr. Kehrli continued.

Due to lack of adequate facilities on the University campus, the conference will be held at the Osburn and Eugene hotels. Dr. Harry K. Newburn, president of the University of Oregon, will be the speaker at the conference banquet, Friday evening, November 19.

The conference itself, the first of its kind in Eugene since 1941, will consist of a series of roundtables on current city problems and activities. Special section meetings will be held on planning, zoning, building regulations, recreation, municipal law, and public works. State and federal representatives will be on hand to provide delegates with information on state highway needs, state hospitals and public health centers, the program of federal grants in aid for:

sewage disposal facilities, and the federal funds available for development of municipal airports through the Civil Aeronautics Authority.

This conference will be on an informal basis, Mr. Kehrli said, and will be devoted to discussion of mutual problems. He expects from 300 to 400 delegates from all over the state to attend.

The League of Oregon Cities is an organization of officials of incorporated cities in the state. The league, which has had its headquarters on the University campus since 1933, has a cooperative arrangement with the University of Oregon under which the Bureau of Municipal Research and Service acts as a reference and research advice for Oregon municipalities.

The Oregon Finance Officers association, the second organization attending the conference, is composed of city, school, county, and state finance officers for the discussion of mutual problems. It also carries on an educational program for its members in the state.

Sixty-six per cent of 250 students polled in Dr. Dull's classes voted for Dewey! Thomas got 8.4 per cent Wallace 2.4 per cent and President Truman 23.2 per cent.

Since there hasn't been any straw ballots taken on the campus thus far the above figures might be interesting to those students following the current campaign.

We understand that Mary Vranizan has a story to tell all her friends about the red nose she has and how she got it. Seems someone dropped a bottle on it or something. There were a lot of parties Saturday night, but were any that rough?

And gals, if you're looking for silverware, you will find the very finest at Carl Greve's in Portland. A variety of patterns ready for your inspection.

Russ Newland of SF suggests that in the event that Cal and Oregon tie in the conference play, that there be a playoff. What a game that would make, and it'd give us a chance to see the Golden Bears in action.

Paul B. Williamson ought to get together with the A.P. in Oregon's national rating. He has us 31st and AP has pushed us up to 14th. Williamson has never been very well liked in these parts anyway, and he isn't increasing his popularity now either.

We extend a "welcome" to all the IFC delegates and hope they enjoy their stay at Oregon. The rally and dance Friday night will be one of the highlights of their busy visit on the quad. Saturday they will see the game with the houses they are staying with.

Sophomores will soon begin growing whiskers—ah the gals will love these days. We're anxious to see what Chi O Janet Swint thinks of them!
