The main speaker at the delegate's banquet tonight will be Dr. R. C. McCall, speech department head. The conference dinner will be held at the Osburn hotel at 6:30 p. m. Dr. Laurence C. Campbell, professor of journalism, will act as toastmaster, and the school of music will furnish musical numbers.

There will be five different series of adviser's and student's meetings during the two days of the convention, where such topics as high school sports, advertising, page make-up high school news beats, and photography will be discussed.

A students luncheon will be held for the delegates at noon today at John Straub dining hall, and one for the advisers will be at the Faculty club at the same time.

Warren C. Price, general chairman of the conference, believes that this year's delegation will be the largest ever registered for the annual event. The 193 delegates and 38 advisers began arriving on the campus last night and will be housed in various living organizations for the weekend.

Those who will be leading discussion groups are Mrs. Josephine Moore, University news bureau manager, Lyle N. Nelson, director of information at the University, Professor Carl C. Webb, field secretary of the Oregon Newspaper Publishers association, Dr. R. D. journalism, Dale Cooley, of Cooley Advertising Agency, Albert Curry, Eugene Register Guard reporter, Dr. Laurence R. Campbell, professor of journalism, and Dean Lobaugh, assistant superintendent of Eugene schools.

"The Future of Journalism" will be the topic of Frank Jenkins' speech at the closing meeting of the delegates tomorrow morning. Mr. Jenkins is publisher of the Herald and News, Klamath Falls, Oregon, and president of the Oregon News paper Publishers association.

Cards Due Monday

All open rushees must file preference cards in the office of the director of women's affairs by Monday noon, Mrs. Margaret Kopp, secretary, announced yesterday.

Wesley Sets Party

Wesley Foundation will hold a 'Splash Party" at the Men's Pool Friday Night, 8 to 10 p. m. All students are invited.

Following the swim party an open house will be held for dancing.

University Hour Slates Murder, Popular Vocals

Murder, popular vocals, and the possibility of an interview with Carol Brice, contralto who sang here last night, are included in the fist of entertainment offered by the "University Hour," presented by the University radio studios today at 4 p.m. on KOAC.

Due to Miss Brice's limited time and packed schedule, the studios reported they cannot be sure of getting the interview. Paul Ryman, of the studios, declared yesterday afternoon that he "sincerely hopes" to have the singer on the program.

Singer's Consent Needed

If Miss Brice consents to appear on the program, the interview will be handled by Nancy Peterson and start at 4.

Claire Lewis, senior music student, will handle the popular music part of the program, which starts at 4:15. Her vocals will be accompanied by Wayne Sherwood also a senior music student.

"Murder For Rent," a neat little mixup of murder, twins, public relations officers, and the military police is scheduled for the radio drama production starting at 4:30.

Burbee Directs Play

The play features Genneth Neal and Ruth Kilbourn and is directed by Gordon Burbee. The cast includes Bob Croisant, Martha Johnson, Bill Alley and Jean Deutsch-

Picture in the drama are three public relations officers who, being dissatisfied with their rooming house look for another place to live. A newspaper advertisement directs them to what is believed to be a beautiful house but turns out to be a broken down old joint.

Murder Occurs

A murder occurs at the house while the men are away and the long arm of the law immediately goes into action reaching for suspects.

To confuse things, two twins, one defunct and other trying to pose as the first one, are inserted and the resulting mixup keeps a tense drama going for a solid half

Seattle Game Requires Suits

Suits and heels are in order for University women attending the game in Seattle Saturday, Ann Fenwick, campus social chairman, has announced.

"Sheriff" Fogdall Fails to Win Post

By KEN METZLER

Vergil Fogdall, dean of men and and the city police. "Lane County Student's Committee" candidate for county sheriff, conceded the election to Sheriff C. A. (Tom) Swarts Thursday in a statement to the Emerald.

Fogdall received more than 40 write-in votes for sheriff as the result of a short rigorous campaign on the part of a senior speech student and a junior architecture student. (They requested their names be withheld.) The campaigners were backed up by some 20 paying members of the "committee."

House Support

The results of their efforts were entire living organizations reportedly voting en masse for their favored candidate.

It all started, the committee

The committee chairman got the idea Monday that Fogdall would be the logical opponent to incumbent C. A. Swarts who at the time was unopposed. Their attempts to advertise their candidate in the Emerald was refused, so they had 1000 campaign handbills printed in a Eugene shop.

The leaflets read, "The Lane County Student's Committee endorses Vergil Fogdall as a write-in candidate for Lane county sheriff."

Pass Bills Out

Two students then energetically set to work tacking the bills to posts, distributing them to living organizations, and circulating them in local restaurants and tav-
