

Naval Officer Plans Interview Of UO Students

Lt. Commander L. W. Fischer of Naval Officers Procurement will be in Eugene today and tomorrow to interview UO students for the naval flight training program.

Fischer will be available from 8 to 5 today in room 204, Emerald Hall. He will be at the Navy Recruiting Station, U. S. Post Office building tomorrow from 8 to 1. Applicants unable to take either of these opportunities for an interview may get blanks at Mr. Onthank's office, Emerald hall.

Flight Training Open

There are two flight training programs open to UO men. One is for college graduates; it involves application for Ensign in the Navy. Age limit is from 18 to 25. Applicants may be either married or single.

Only unmarried men may apply for the second division, the Naval Aviation Cadet program. Required are two years of college education.

Information Furnished

Lt. Commander Fischer will also be able to furnish information regarding commissions in the Regular Navy.

"There are many men—particularly in such fields as medicine, dentistry, and engineering—who, having completed certain educational requirements, are now eligible for Naval commissions."

UO ROTC Class Inspected By Army Brass

The University R. O. T. C. unit was inspected in class and at drill Thursday by Major General Albert E. Brown, commander of the Civilian Army units of the Northern Military district, and two of his chief aides.

Colonel Wahl, deputy commander of the district, and Lt. Colonel Weyrick, Plans and Training officer, were the two officers who accompanied the General of Military Science and Tactics, announced that the three expressed satisfaction at the progress that had been made in the University unit.

Suits Furnished For WAA Night

Both men's and women's suits will be furnished for swimming at the WAA co-recreation tonight from 7 until 10 p. m. in Gerlinger, but only a few caps are available, according to Janice Neeley, chairman.

Also on the program, which is open to all, will be volleyball, badminton, shuffleboard, ping-pong, and square dancing. Belle Daris

Peanut Pushing Republican Sad

Among the Republicans on the campus who are not too happy with the results of Tuesday's election is Louis W. Schuele, junior in business administration.

Schuele was so certain of Republican victory, that he volunteered to push a peanut with his nose from his room in Merrick nose from his room in Merrick hall to Oregon hall, in case Dewey was defeated.

Shortly afterward today, accompanied by cheering crowds, Schuele pushed the peanut the length of vets dorm past the libe, across the quad, and so to Oregon hall.

Pinned to his back was a sign reading, "I voted for President (?) Dewey."

willing to supply their views and experiences for the knowledge of the American people.

But Erika Mann also interviewed officials, ranging in importance from local chiefs to ex-president Eduard Benes and the late Foreign Minister Jan Masaryk, of Czechoslovakia.

In Poland, she toured the concentration camps. In the Warsaw Ghetto, she witnessed the exhumation of hundreds of bodies of Jewish victims. She was taken through the extermination camp at Auschwitz, Poland, where she saw what she described as "lakes of human hair, mountains of human ashes". Concerning these things, Miss Mann says "the silent language of tens of thousands of human remnants is one of the most terrifying object-lessons of the ravages of fascism."

In Breslau, Erika Mann was advised to reduce the speed of her car to 15 miles per hour, in order that the vibrations set up might not cause the tottering ruins to fall up on her. "In comparison with Breslau," she says, "even Dresden, queen of wrecked habitations, seems handsomely preserved."

On a brighter plane, Miss Mann saw the famous International Children's Village in Switzerland, where war orphans of every nationality and political ideology are given a home and education in the atmosphere of internationalism.

Says Miss Mann, "Taught by instructors from their own localities in their own tongues, these children are growing up in a world-state of their own. Their success at living together is a practical demonstration of the true principles of democracy, a beacon for the future."

Erika Mann has been correspondent for Liberty Magazine, the London Evening Standard and the New York Herald Tribune. She has contributed articles to the Atlantic Monthly, Vogue, The Nation, Coronet, and Mademoiselle. She is successful as radio news analyst and playwright, and is the author of "School for Barbarians" and "The Lights Do Down."

Deputies Fired For Disloyalty To Sheriff Pratt

By Associated Press

Six deputies were fired yesterday by Sheriff Martin T. Pratt, who accused them of working for the election of his Democratic opponent.

The discharged men included the veteran Holgar Christoffersen, who had served as chief of the criminal division in the sheriff's office for 31 years.

Sheriff Pratt, who is leading M. L. Elliott in a close race, charged that the six men had violated civil service regulations by campaigning for Elliott.

The deputies all denied Pratt's charge, and announced they would carry their case to the civil service commission. Besides Christoffersen, the discharged men include W. S. Whiting, office manager; Capt. M. L. Tillman; Capt. J. E. Stanley; Deputy J. D. McMillan; and Assistant Jailer Paul Hinkley.

Girls Pose For Pictures Today

Gamma hall and Pi Beta Phi members will have pictures taken today for the 1949 Oregon at Kennell-Ellis studio. Members of Ordes and Sigma Kappa are on the schedule for Saturday.

Next week's list includes Alpha hall, Delta Zeta, and Rebec house, November 8; Gerlinger hall, Zeta Tau Alpha, and Alpha Gamma Delta, November 9.

All students who have not had individual pictures taken previously for the 1949 Oregon will be able to do so alphabetically November 10 through 13.

This includes off-campus students, seniors, or any others who want their pictures taken over.

Schedule for the last four days is:

November 10—Students with last names beginning with A to G.
November 11—H to M.
November 12—N to S.
November 13—T to Z.

Advertising Group Taps 14 New Girls

Golda Wickham's Condition Better

The condition of Mrs. Golda Wickham, director of women's affairs, was described as "improving" by her secretary, Mrs. Margaret Kopp, yesterday. Mrs. Wickham has been hospitalized since Monday, and is still allowed no visitors.

When interviewed today, Mrs. Kopp said that Mrs. Wickham, who had not been able to vote because of her illness, was "thunderstruck" by the presidential election returns.

"Mrs. Wickham has been very busy lately. She drives herself harder than anyone else," commented Mrs. Kopp.

Mrs. Kopp and Mrs. Edith Jacobs, who is training under Mrs. Wickham's guidance to be a girls' counselor, will fulfill the director's counseling and advising duties until she returns.

Nation Wide Bridge Contest Approved

The bridge-by-mail contest has now been officially approved by the educational activities department of the University, according to Dick Williams, director. Any couple who would like to enter the tournament should see him.

Three hundred twenty five colleges have received invitations to the 1948 intercollegiate tournament and any undergraduate of an officially entered school may compete for the title and silver trophy.

The preliminary round will be played by mail in February, and the sixteen final contestants will play off in Chicago, at the Drake hotel, as guests of the committee in charge.

spirit of Mr. Dewey, who graciously conceded the victory to the president. Shee, too, has the gambler's itch and the sportsman's composure.

But above all, England admires the American people, who wouldn't be hoodwinked by newspapers or Gallup polls. It takes a great deal of independence of thought to refuse to join the bandwagon.

The Americans have shown that they are much more politically conscious than Europeans had ever thought they were. The elections have done a great deal to dispel the doubts in the minds of many in Europe about America's lead in world politics.
