Meet Votes UO From Publication

An office of student affairs decision to remove the University of Oregon from "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities" was approved unanimously by the executive council Monday night.

Executive council members favor some form of local recognition for outstanding service to the University to replace the "Who's Who" honor.

Council members decided that not enough recognition or prestige has been gained from the publication to warrant further submissions of the names of outstanding University of Oregon students.

A survey made of colleges and universities in "Who's Who" revealed that the University of Oregon was the only school in the Pacific Coast conference included in 1947. Oregon State college recently submitted candidates to be included in the 1948 edition.

Purdue is the only school in the Big Nine conference with students listed in the publication; Brown is the only Ivy League school submitting names for the 1947 edition. Several non-accredited colleges are listed according to Donald M. DuShane, director of student affairs.

Marriage Topic Of Royce Talk

Father James E. Royce, S.J., will lecture on "The Psychology of Christian Marriage" at a meeting of the Newman club, Sunday evening at 7:30 at the YWCA.

The talk will be the first of three to be presented and will take the place of the regular meeting to have been held next Tuesday night. Refreshments will be served. All interested students are invited to attend.

Father Royce is temporarily in Eugene to teach classes in psychology to student nurses at Sacred Heart hospital. He has studied at Gonzaga university, Catholic university in Washington, D. C., and at Loyola university in Chicago. He has taught at Gonzaga and Loyola, and also at Seattle university.

The topic for the following lecture will be "The Catholic Approach to Psychology."

Smiths Dominate New Pigger's Guide

Oh, to have a name like Smith has been the wish of nearly everyone sometime or other in his life, but according to the editors of the 1948-49 Pigger's Guide there are already too many Smiths in the world, or at least at the University.

Here is the plight of Editors Dorothy Orr and Lois Beamguard:

There are 73 persons now registered whose last name is Smith of which, to add to the confusion, there is a Donald K., a Donald L., and a Donald W.; a Gerald and a Gerald J.; and a Gordon J. and a Gordon W.

The "Smithery" goes on with Harold G. and Harold P., Howard

UO Student Hurt In Auto Accident

UO student Fred Whitlege was injured at 7:45 yesterday morning in an automobile accident which occurred at 15th and Villard.

Whitlege, driving west on 15th, collided with a car driven by Robert James of Eugene, who was heading south on Villard. In addition to damage done to the cars, both Whitlege and James received injuries.

The drivers were taken to Sacred Heart hospital, where they were released after treatment. Whitlege received head injuries, and James was injured in the head and back.

Pacific Storm Takes 7 Lives

SEATTLE, Nov. 16 — (AP)—A north Pacific storm today apparently claimed the lives of seven persons and sank three tugs. Other vessels were reported in trouble.

Three men were lost when a tug piled up on the rocks near Port San Juan, B. C., west of Vancouver Island. Five others of the crew made it to shore in a lifeboat.

Two men were missing from another tug which sank in Puget Sound. An unidentified woman drowned when she was lost overboard from the ferry, Princess Victoria en route from Vancouver to Victoria.

The seventh victim was a seaman who died of a heart attack as rubber guardsmen carried out with coast boats the hazardous rescue of the 11-man crew of a tug sinking off the mouth of the Columbia river.

A freighter which broke its tug at the same spot was adrift in the stormy seas with about 16 men aboard. There was danger it would go aground unless a coast guard cutter can reach it in time to put a line aboard.

A lightship off the northwestern tip of Washington lost its anchor and was forced to head for shelter, leaving the dangerous Cape Flattery area without a navigation aid.

Dunsany Libe Topic

Lord Dunsany and his plays will be the subject of the browsing room talk to be given today at 4 p.m. by Dr. R. H. Ernst, professor of English. Selections will be read from several of Lord Dunsany's plays. Everyone is invited to attend these weekly talks sponsored by the house librarians' organization.

N. and Howard W., Jack L. and Jack M., and Norma J. and Norma R.

The first names Robert and Richard led the group with four apiece, but top oddity honors went to the Richards when two men entered their names as Richard F. Smith.

Running a good second, but not crowding the leader, are the Johnsons, spelled with the s-o-n. They amassed a total of 52 while the Browns annexed third place with 36.

Leaving the realm of the similar names, here are some individual names which brought a good laugh. There is registered at the registrar's office a Case Beer and a

Administration Extends Final Week Through December 18

Amphibian Pageant

THOSE WHO ATTEND the first performance of the Amphibian pageant tonight will be taken from the present to the realms of the early Greeks where they will visit "Olympia," "Hades," and "The Kingdom Under the Sea."

"Greek Fantasy," will be presented in a three-act program both tonight and tomorrow night at 8 p.m. in the men's pool, Thirteenth and University. Tickets are selling at the Co-op for 50 cents.

The swimming show, an annual affair since 1943, was first held in the millrace, and then in the women's pool. Two years ago, because of the crowds, the scene changed to the men's pool, and this year, for the first time, two performances will be presented.

In 1947 the girls depicted an "Eve in Paris" with the pool decorated as a Paris night club, and last year, "Story Book Wonderland" was presented with scenes from "Candyland," "Moonland," and "Bubbleland."

Such themes as "Under the Big Drip," "A Sailor's Dream" (with a tropical island, a waterfall, and mermaids as the principal settings), "The Story of a Life Guardsman," and "Aqua Waves" (depicting incidents in the training of a WAVE) have been presented since '43.

This year the money from the tickets will go towards new settings, costumes, lights, and swimming suits for future productions of the organization.

Ed Act Movies at 7

"Playtown USA," an Educational Activities sponsored movie on the why and how of community or organization of a year-round, all-age recreation program, will be the first short to be shown in 207 Chapman at 7:00 and again at 8:45 tonight. Five other shorts will be shown and include "In and Around Capetown" and "Rescue From Shangri-la."

Gamma Alpha Apples on Sale

Carrying baskets heaped with shining red apples, Gamma Alpha Chi pledges will further the national professional women's advertising fraternity's annual apple sale today and tomorrow.

In addition to these co-ed street vendors, the society has set up booths in the Co-op, library, Friendly and Commerce halls, and the Side. Men's houses will be contacted during the lunch hour, and house frosh class presidents will lead sales in their own organizations.

"This year we have genuine Hood River apples," Leslie Tooze, chairman, announced yesterday. "The tasting committee has pronounced them big, juicy, luscious, and sweet—better than ever before."

Gamma Alpha Chi has made this apple sale an annual event each fall term.

Extension Nets Vets Day's Pay

The board of deans decided last week to officially extend the final examination period until Saturday, December 18, in an effort to secure for student veterans their complete GI checks for December.

This change in the fall term schedule has been submitted to the Veterans Administration in Portland by H. A. Bork, comptroller of the Oregon State system of higher education. No word has been received indicating that the VA has accepted or rejected this extension.

Under VA rulings, a veteran attending school will lose one day subsistence pay for each day he is on vacation over a maximum 15 days. The original fall term schedule provided for a 16-day vacation. Thus, vets would lose one day's pay.

Some veterans, who are low on eligibility, have cancelled their subsistence checks for the original vacation period and will apply this time to winter term. These students will not be affected by the acceptance or rejection by the VA of the board of dean decision, according to J. D. Kline, assistant registrar.

The deans decided that, since some examinations were scheduled for Saturday, the final-week schedule as printed in the catalogue and the class schedule did not reflect the true situation.

On December 18, examinations will be given in all courses not covered by the Monday-to-Friday schedule and in courses in which there are conflicts. These will include two courses in Secondary Education and Seminar in Audio-Visual, and a few courses in other schools.

The problem of the 16-day vacation was first called to the University's attention by the VA. At that time they suggested that some change in the schedule be made in order to give the veterans their complete checks.

The board of deans also discussed the extension of next fall term but dates for that term are now tentative.

Organizations Meet Faculty

The AWS Faculty fireside will be held this Sunday from 6:30 to 7:30 with groups of faculty members at each women's living organization. The main feature of this year's fireside is that faculty members will meet not only women of one living organization but others who may visit during this hour.

In this way students may talk with present or potential instructors without the heavy academic atmosphere of the classroom. Faculty members will have a better chance to become acquainted with their students.
