

China High - Command Sends Fresh Armies To Battle of Suchow

NANKING, Nov. 17—(AP)—China's high command, asserting the communists already have lost 90,000 men, sent fresh armies into the battle of Suchow today.

The nightly communique of the defense ministry claimed more than half the communist veterans who mounted the major assault east of Suchow had been killed or wounded.

(On the other hand, the communist radio said nine government divisions were "wiped out", including the 63rd and 107th armies. That could be 90,000 men. Both sides are inclined to exaggerate casualties.)

Most Chinese sources doubted that the Suchow "victory" was all the newspapers said it was.

Agency Contradicts

The official Chinese Central News Agency contradicted its own earlier reports on one phase of the Suchow battle. It said communists were attacking the city from three sides—south, southwest and southeast. Fighting was reported in villages seven miles from the city limits.

Only yesterday Central News said the Reds were fleeing south of Suchow. But its latest dispatch credited the communists with mounting two divisions in that sector. It also told of a "furious battle" east of the city where the Reds supposedly had been routed.

But it appeared Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's forces in the opening phase of the fateful battle at least held their own with some of the best troops in the communist armies.

They did it with the surprise use of a tank column and all-out support from the air force. War planes flew shuttle from Nanking, 200 miles to the south, bombing and strafing.

Both sides are gathering strength for the second phase.

Afternoon newspapers said troops under Gen. Liu Ju-Ming, moving north from the Nanking area, had joined units attacking the communists who have encircled Suhsien, 50 miles south of Suchow.

This is a sensitive point. Suhsien lies on the railway connecting Suchow with Nanking. The communists are supposed to hold 30 miles of the line. The loss of Suhsien (which the communists say they have taken) would be a serious blow to government hopes of recovering the railway.

Campus Calendar

ISA WILL NOT meet again until after the Thanksgiving holiday.

NEWMAN CLUB executive meeting upstairs at the Side at 4.

YOUNG REPUBLICAN meeting in 101 Oregon at 6:45.

RUSSIAN CLUB meeting at Wesley house at 8.

YWCA Meet Slated Tonight

All YWCA members and their friends may attend the open membership meeting tonight from 6:30 to 7:30 at Gerlinger alumni room.

A new system to take the place of the annual recognition service, this open meeting will feature entertainment from the freshman, sophomore, and junior commissions. Freshman commission officers will be introduced, and Mrs. Gladys Lawther will talk informally.

The entertainment will center around the theme of campus queens, with each commission handling one phase of the idea. Laura Olson, president of the association, will be introduced in conjunction with this in the finale.

The worship committee, headed by Lou Weston, will explain the purpose of the YWCA and its functions.

Refreshments will be served and all members are urged to come.

Business Booms in 'PX'; Not a BA, Says Hageman

Few small businesses confined to a room seven by ten have a monthly gross income of $1200. Hageman's P-X located in Vet's dorm I has.

Carrying all of the commodities its name implies, the little store was started as a convenience to the students in the dorms with perhaps a little pecuniary interest on the part of owner-operator Grant Hageman; and he isn't even a B-A major.

Opened in the fall of 1947, "Hageman's" has done a thriving business in snacks for late evening chomping, in magazines, pocket books, tobacco, and lately, laundry and cleaning service. A seasoned veteran of the dorms can readily forecast hash on the common's menu by measuring the line in front of Hageman's. When there's hash the line is long.

Competition in advertising is rife between Hageman and his competitor, "Energetic" Tom Burbee in dorm II. Placards and posters adorn bulletin boards and bare walls throughout the dorms and the passageways in the commons.

That some of the P-X advertising is ingenious is well illustrated in one of the latest posters. When the new Esquire calendar came out this fall, Hageman notified his patrons of their availability thusly:

"Esquire calendars, small chintz size; 35c; large super, small; 50c.

Proprietor Hageman reports most of his sales in this item were of the large super size. Snob appeal?

Econ. Meeting Draws Professor

Dr. Zenon Szatrowski, associate professor of economics, will deliver a paper in Cleveland on December 30 at a joint conference of the Economics association, American Statistical association, and the Econometrics society, December 27-30.

"Oscillatory Models in Measuring Persistency Characteristics of Economic Time Series" will be the title of Dr. Szatrowski's paper. His idea is to extract information from the past behavior of time series which is useful in projecting cyclical patterns in the future. A time series, Dr. Szatrowski explained, is a series of production or price figures over a long period of time. His paper will be concerned with no particular period, but will be largely in a theoretical sense.

Information of this kind is very useful to the businessman in planning business and investment policies and inventory problems, and is of interest to the economist.

Dr. Szatrowski expects to address from 30 to 50 delegates in his group. About 2000 economists, statisticians, businessmen, and graduate students from all over the United States will attend the conference, he said.

Hageman not only has an agency for a downtown laundry and cleaner, but advertises above the Bendixes in the dorms that he has soap powder, bluing, and clothespins.

Two steady employees alternate with the owner in waiting on customers. Only one man can work between the shelf lined, refrigerator filled room and at most, two or three customers can crowd into the room with him.

At least one of these will be reading a comic or cheese-cake magazine. So far no one has been asked to refrain from the free reading privilege. Some of the issues of Sunshine and Health are a trifle dog-eared from casual glancing.

The P-X is open 27 hours a week. Eleven to one during the noon hour, 8:30 till 11 in the evening, and from 5 till 11 on Sunday evening when there is no evening meal served at the commons.

A junior, Hageman says he has no plans for disposing of his gold mine when he graduates. Probably it will be sold to some other enterprising student to carry on its service to dormitory men.

Children begin to be civilized about the time when they realize a person can get a square meal despite the use of table manners.
