Might also mention that the fact that he was a Washington State man and I was from Oregon did not keep him from doing everything possible to help me find out what made KGW tick.

The battle of the airlines has been raging hot and heavy the past few weeks. CBS has started to try and build up its list of star performers by raiding the NBC stable of radio artists. So far Jack Benny has been the only one who definitely will transfer his loyalties and his talents to CBS. There is no way of telling how many others will follow his example, but with CBS being so carefree with the cash it seems quite likely that there are others who will want to make the change.

At this point only the big comedy shows usually aired in the evenings have been mentioned. It would sure be nice to see someone with cash use some of it to build up stronger daytime programs. Some of the atrocities that are foisted off on poor helpless housewives these days should go the way of all trash. Namely: to the city dump.

Milton Berle's rendition of "The Sweetheart of Sigmund Freud" last Wednesday was priceless. Berle's comic abilities are worthy of more comment than there is time for today so more of him at a later date.

Jobs Open for Science Majors

Graduate and undergraduate students will be interviewed Monday, November 29 by a representative of the Arabian American Oil company, the graduate placement service announced yesterday.

J. B. McComb, supervisor of Employment for Arabian American, will conduct interviews in the placement office, 216 Emerald, from 9 a. m. till noon. Students interested in employment with this concern should contact the office immediately for appointment, according to Mrs. Marian Sheckler, placement secretary.

Openings exist in both Saudi Arabia and San Francisco. The

University Hour Bills Hallock Mail Interview

A radio interview by mail with Disk Jockey Ted Hallock of station KPOJ in Portland will feature the "University Hour" presentation of the radio studios this afternoon at 4 on KOAC.

Hallock graduated from the University last year and started work on station KUGN as program director. From there he took a job as assistant editor of "Downbeat" magazine covering Chicago as a reporter and photographer.

Last July he started as disk jockey on KPOJ and is now heard afternoons on the program "Spins and Needles."

While at the University he was on the executive council and a member of Sigma Delta Chi, national journalism honorary. During the war he was a captain in the air force.

The interview was made by Jack Vaughn, who mailed questions to Hallock and received his answers by recording. Vaughn then recorded his questions and Hallock's answers on tape.

Starting at 4:15, the second part of the program, "Something for You," will feature popular music by Curt Finch and his five-piece combo.

"Telegram From Heaven," a radio drama about young married life, is scheduled for 4:30. It stars Anne McGeorge and Hal Larsen as the youthful couple and is directed by Irv Steinbock.

Included in the cast are Elvin Oestreich, Milt Reiter, Ray Deslires, and Bob Ruan. Announcer is Jim Blue.

The program portrays the conflicts arising from the depression marriage of two young people. Money troubles predominate and it is necessary to scrimp and save every penny. Nat (Larsen) turns dreamer due to lack of work and Babe (Miss McGeorge) starts a 12 dollar a week job in a bargain basement.

Attempting to shake Nat out of his dreamer state of mind, Babe sends a false "telegram from Heaven" offering a job. This adds even more differences, including a conflict to end conflicts.

company is interested in applicants having a technical background who will be granted degrees in science. Applicants may be married or single, experienced or not.

Class to Survey Portland Social Units, Institutes

Thirty students from a class in social work and welfare will spend a day in Portland to survey social welfare institutions and facilities, Jack R. Parsons, assistant professor of sociology and social work, announced today.

At the offices of the Council of Social Agencies in Portland, the students will listen to a talk on the organization and purposes of the council, and on the community chest. They will see a social service exchange in action, the referral center, information bureau and research division.

Lunch at Berg's

From there they will go to a luncheon at Berg's Chalet with the Professional Education committee of the American Association of Social Workers. There they will meet with Practicing social workers and hear a talk on the purpose of the association and its program, Parsons said.

Splitting up into sections of three or four in the afternoon, the students will visit such varied social work institutions as the Fruit and Flower Day nursery, Catholic charities, the Mental Health association, Neighborhood house, the Boys' and Girls' Aid society, the YWCA, the Child Guidance clinic, and the Urban league.

Talk by Ernest Jaqua

Following their afternoon tour, the students will hear a talk by Ernest Jaqua, president of the Portland Council of Social Agencies, on the place of the lay individual in social work.

The purpose of the field trip, Prof. Parsons said, will be to acquaint students with organizations that the social worker will encounter and to further initiate them into the field of social work.

they pointed out that each would be a "natural baliwick for true champions."

The text of the telegram sent to the Miami Herald:

"Oregon Webfoots were outvoted, not outplayed. 1948 Rose Bowl has two second place teams. California a political choice. Urge look at record. Oregon offered playoff game to California and was refused. Respectfully suggest Orange Bowl officials consider the real Coast champions, Oregon."

The second telegram was sent to the New Orleans Times-Picayune:

"Oregon Webfoots played football, not politics. Were out voted, not outplayed. 1948 Rose Bowl has two second place teams. Bears refused playoff game with Webfoots. Respectfully suggest Sugar Bowl officials consider the real Coast champions, Oregon."
