

Alliance Between Civic

worked its will on us. Instead of the spiritual interpretation of her people's music which might have been expected, Miss Anderson was limited to such absorbing arias as "Chi Poi Sereno," "Ne Me Refuse Pas," and the jaw-breaking "Der Jungling Und Der Tod Und Der Erlkonig."

With a record like that, the department and the Civic Music association should take it easy and let something in English slip in now and then. But no! Look what our latest concert visitor, Miss Quartararo, had to offer: "C'est l'estase Langoureuse," "Il est doux, il est bon . . ." and so on to the end of the typewriter ribbon. It's too bad the Civic Music association doesn't take a second look at the small print on their contract with the department, and wonder whether it's worth it. They might remember, for example, how John Charles Thomas' singing in Italian was politely received here after bringing down the house in Corvallis with a few gems from Strauss, Rombers, Kern, Foster, and others who write for us to understand . . . and how the English encores always get the loudest cheers.

Footnote: At least, You who are in the department and Civic Music association, please translate the programs for we poor souls who are only working for bachelor of science degrees with no language.

Oregon's WSSF drive beginning Monday is the only official drive on the campus this year.

Money collected through WSSF in the United States is apportioned through headquarters in Geneva, Switzerland.
