Thus then a soft comparison is made,
Of what is said and what was said before.
And you that bear this present day tirade,
Who listen and then long for days of yore,
There's nuttin' youse kin do!!

Political Parties To Present Views

A bird's eye view of the three political parties and the political situation on the campus will be given Wednesday from 6:30 to 7:30 at the YWCA, according to Clair Wiley, chairman of the public affairs committee of the YWCA.

Bob Davis, president of the ISA, Marie Lombard, secretary-treasurer of the LAGS, and Lou Weston, co-chairman of the finance committee of the USA, will present the purposes of their own party and explain what it tries to accomplish and its beliefs.

Although the meeting is mainly for the freshman commissions of the Y, all women are invited. "With freshman elections coming up soon, the freshmen will know for whom to vote if they understand the political picture better," said Miss Wiley.

A question period will follow the talks, but Miss Wiley stressed that the meeting will not be a forum, panel or discussion period.

Esther Williams, glamorous Hollywood star, was selected as "Miss Newsprint of 1948" by the Newspaper Managers association at their convention in Denver.

Academy of Science Elects State Officers

W. E. Milne, professor of mathematics at Oregon State college, was named president of the Oregon Academy of Science for the coming year at the closing business meeting of the group last Saturday on the Oregon campus.

Over 150 of the state's scientists registered Saturday morning for the seventh annual conference of the Academy, held at the University for the first time. F. L. Griffin, professor of mathematics at Reed college, was elected vice president of the organization, and will automatically become president in 1950.

Other new officers are F. A. Gilfillan, dean of the school of science, Oregon State college, secretary; and Lloyd W. Staples, associate professor of geology, University of Oregon, treasurer.

At the opening session of the Academy Friday night, Dr. Hobart H. Willard, professor of chemistry at the University of Michigan, spoke on the importance of analytical chemistry in his address, "Analytical Chemistry, Pathfinder of Progress."

Three outstanding Oregon scientists were honored by the Academy with a citation for their work. Those recognized were Dr. A. R. Moore, professor of physiology, University of Portland; Dean E. L. Packard, director of general research at Oregon State college, and F. L. Griffin, professor of mathematics at Reed college.

University President H. K. New-

burn gave the welcoming address to the Academy Saturday morning, after which the members attended sectional meetings of biology, chemistry, geology, geography, and mathematics. Fifty-two scientific papers were presented at that time.

Next year's meeting place will be announced later, according to academy officers.

Dr. Heilman came to Washington from Louisiana State university. He has also taught at the University of Maine and received his doctorate from Harvard on the subject of "The American Revolution in the English Novel."

You can help lock the door against cancer

Here is the story about a door that can be built to repel cancer, the deadly killer. The door locks only if two keys are turned. Science holds one key — your money can provide the other.

Your dollars support: cancer research which some day may find the causes and cure of the disease; an education program that teaches men and women how to recognize cancer in its early stages, when immediate treatment can save their lives.

Won't you help us lock the door? Give as generously as you can. Give more than before to guard those you love.
