

Critics Hail Casadesus, to Appear Here

Students will be admitted to the concert of Robert Casadesus, noted French pianist, by presentation of their registration cards next Monday evening at 8:15 p.m. in McArthur court.

Casadesus, whose performance will be fifth in the series sponsored by the Eugene and University Civic Music association, is in regular demand as soloist with all major orchestras, as guest artist of top radio programs and for concert appearances from coast to coast.

"I would walk a mile to hear him play practically anything at any time," wrote Virgil Thomson, New York Herald Tribune critic.

The pianist not only plays music, but has composed works of international reputation. His Concerto for Two Pianos has been played in this country with Casadesus and his wife, a pianist in her own right, by both the Cincinnati symphony and the Rochester Philharmonic.

From Our Mailbag

(Continued from page six) gives no credit for advancement within the bracket until the grade actually achieves "holly ground; therefore, the GPA is always behind the actual grade earned, and never accurate. This situation closely resembles the football method, wherein the final score of the game is often no indication of the statistics.

The solution should be, and is, as clear as the problem. Eliminate the literal grades, and simply transfer the numerical class percentages into the GPA. Then, if a student falls just short of a "B," give him what he deserves—a grade of 2.90. What could be more accurate, fairer, or simpler? Besides, it would give new impetus for study, the supposedly real reason for being here.

Look at it this way. If a man set out to make a million and only made $900,000 . . . should he be classed as a failure?

AN EXTREMIST

To the Editor:

A recent female writer ridicules college men for wanting to get married without first having enough material luxuries to offer as bribery. She can't understand how some girls are capable of making sacrifices of material comforts for love. Yes, it seems far beyond her, or above her. She also infers that a man marries so he can file a joint income tax return. I can only assume by her comment that she is not very mature.

She wants dates but no wedded bliss for years to come. That's easy to understand. She wants some fellow to spend his money and time on her, but it is too much of a sacrifice for her to give him the honor and privilege of supporting her the rest of his life.

Because of the "notorious duplicity of males," she must investigate them to "protect her honor and interests." What she means by honor, I don't know, but I think I know what interests means. From what I can judge of her letter, she is interested in the size of the prospective sucker's pocketbook.

It is too bad that extremists take more interest in expressing their views than persons with moderate opinions. Both this girl's letter and "Why Do Girls Come to Oregon?" are one-sided and do not fairly represent the majority of either male or female students at Oregon. Some people come here to gain knowledge, some to get married, some to increase their earning power. Most come here for a combination of at least two of these reasons. I can find nothing to be ashamed of in any of them.

Dr. Weiman Speaks In Browsing Room

Tonight's lecture-forum program presents a talk on Tonybee's "Study of History." The lecture, followed by audience participation will be given in the library "Browsing room" at 7:30. All students are invited to attend, said Miss Bernice Rise, head of circulation and readers' consultant.

Dr. Henry N. Wieman, visiting professor in the university philosophy department, will be tonight's speaker. The discussion leader is Dr. Frederick M. Hunter, ex-Chancellor of Oregon State System of Higher Education.

This will be the second in this term's series sponsored by the Association of Patrons and Friends of the University of Oregon Library. The ten subjects relate current trends and problems to great books in the fields of history, government, philosophy, literature, biography, and science, said Miss Rise.

Dr. Wieman has been appointed

Sluggish Scrimmage

(Continued from page four.) front line is Russ Parthemer, a 6-foot 3-inch transfer from Olympic Junior college, who has flashed briefly in several games this season.

Louie Soriano, a hot-shot guard, is listed as the top choice to join Opacich in back court, but he might be nosed out by Marcus Metzger, who sparkled for the Huskies in the PCC tourney in December. Soriano is a sophomore and paced the Washington frosh last year while Metzger is a non-lettermen reserve.

Oregana Pics Again

Oregana workers may have their pictures taken this afternoon at 2 in the Oregana office. Any student who has worked on the yearbook is welcome at that time.

to fill the vacancy left by the death of H. G. Townsend. He formerly taught at the University of Chicago. Since his resignation from the university in 1947, he has been living in retirement in southern California. Dr. Wieman will be in the philosophy department at Oregon on a temporary appointment until next June.
