

Onthanks Lists 50 Positions

Offering possible immediate employment to qualifying Oregon students, the Graduate Placement Service now lists over 50 positions to be filled.

Men's sales jobs are offered by drug, paper and cellulose, business machine, insurance, and automotive supply firms. A manufacturer's representative, an investment counselor, a soft drink ad and salesman, and a sportswear representative are also wanted.

More technical jobs are open to an automotive engineer to represent an oil company, junior petroleum engineers, and architectural, scientific, professional, and administrative workers for civil service jobs. Other civil service exams coming up cover jobs for mathematicians, physicists, geologists, clerks, nurses, biologists, printer-proofreaders, and x-ray technicians. A railroad company want a service clerk in the traffic department.

Civil service wants women for jobs in many fields. A bookkeeper-typist, a combination secretary and editor of a house organ, and a campus information worker could also be Oregon students' jobs.

A male or female reporter, interested in photography is wanted at Coos Bay.

Any student interested in these and other positions should contact the Placement Service, urges Karl Onthank, placement director.
