

Student Manned Eugene Six Shows Good Promise

OSC-Husky Crucials Coming Up

OREGON STATE COLLEGE, Corvallis, Jan. 26—Two old basketball rivals, Washington and Oregon State, collide in a two-game series vital to both here Friday and Saturday nights.

To stay in the northern division race the defending cham-

CLIFF CRANDALL

Champion Huskies need a sweep at Corvallis as they already have three defeats against them. But here's where the argument comes in. Oregon State also needs two victories to remain close on the heels of undefeated Washington State.

The result probably will be another of the typical dog-eat-dog, thrill packed Beaver-Husky series.

Washington closed in on the second-place Orange by edging Oregon twice at Seattle last weekend by 44-43 and 47-44 counts.

This gives the Huskies three wins against three losses. Oregon State has been idle since trouncing Idaho twice the first of last week and still has a 3-1 record.

Split First Series

The initial series between the Beavers and Huskies was a stand-off with Slat's Gill's men winning the first, 52-50; and losing the second, 54-43.

Biggest problem confronting the Orange is how to stop Sam White, All-Coast Husky forward who poured in 28 in the first meeting of the two clubs. Another dangerous Husky threat is big Bill Vandenberg.

He led his mates to their twin wins over Oregon with 36 counters for two nights after scoring 21 in the first series with Oregon State.

Newton Spearheads Redwings; Sport Was Vetoed by School

By Jim Hoffer

The Eugene Redwings, since their initial ice hockey encounter at the local arena several weeks ago, have shown the Eugene sporting public that not only is hockey a spectator sport supreme but that the team packs a wallop so necessary for a winning aggregation.

Hockey is little known in this area and it was played only informally last year with two local combinations: the Redwings and the Oregon Quacks, which was composed completely of University of Oregon students.

They played a good game but lacked the polish needed to draw crowds and the gate receipts proved this fact.

School Nixed Game

Several months ago the University was approached on the subject of hockey as a recognized sport and after several conferences with Athletic Director Leo Harris it was decided that the sport would not be a sound proposition as far as the University was concerned.

This was due largely to the lack of funds set aside for an expanding program and the fact that the arena seats only 600 plus spectators, far less than would be necessary to seat students and a paying public.

So instead of dropping hockey the student skaters merged with the Eugene Redwings and now make up over half the team.

Good Calibre Hockey

In their appearances at the local arena so far this season they have proven to consistently capacity crowds that they definitely know what the game is all about, and what with the season just getting under way they are almost assured of a financial success in the game.

Since U. of O. students haven't got a team of their own to support they have been coming out to see students play on what might be called a representative team from all practical angles.

Along this line the management of the ice arena, at the request of these student players, has agreed to admit student dates on one ticket to facilitate their seeing the boys play.

Newton A Jewel

That the Redwings are not strictly sponsored by the University doesn't prevent them being representative of the same team that would be on the ice if the school did. This, coupled with the fact that the boys are playing a flashy brand of hockey, makes things pretty appetizing.

The standout player is Roger Newton, for already this season he has tallied three goals in one game for the coveted "hat trick" and his form is excellent.

Sprinkling of Canadians

To complete the roster add townies Tom Ferris, Dick and Tommy Gillespie, who make up one line and are all ex-Canadians; Gene Thiesen, the team's smallest player and a speed-demon on skates; Bob Potter, another sturdy defenseman; and high-schooler Joe Worth, who can keep up with the best of them.

The Redwings skate on local ice as members of the Oregon Hockey League every Sunday night at 8 and believe me they present a show which must be seen to be fully appreciated.

Alpha Xi Delta Wins in WAA

Though the half-time score showed only a two point lead, Alpha Xi Delta surged ahead in the third and fourth periods to down Gamma hall 39-22 in the outstanding game of yesterday's WAA intramural play.

Leading Alpha Xi Delta in scoring was Nelda Vogel who was responsible for more than half of their points.

Sinks 20

This tall forward sank 20 counters, followed by Janet Hart who collected 10. Elain Doo was high scorer for the losing team, also chalking up 10.

Sailing past a less-experienced squad Rebec house came through with a 23-4 win over Alpha Chi Omega.

Watts Goes For 12

Scoring 12 points for the winning team was Ruth Watts while Norma Duffy made all the points for the Alpha Chi's.

On today's schedule are Zeta Tau Alpha against Hendricks hall and Highland house against Pi Beta Phi.

Soph Petitions Due

Students interested in working on the Emerald's feature staff have been requested to attend a meeting tonight at 7 p. m. in the shack.

McChesney, Phi Kappas Beta Victors in IM

THURSDAY'S SCHEDULE

- 3:50 Court 40 Legal Eagles B vs Sigma Phi Epsilon B
- 3:50 Court 43 McChesney B vs. Phi Kappa Psi B
- 4:35 Court 40 Sherry Ross vs Sigma Alpha Epsilon B
- 4:35 Court 43 Sigma Hall B vs. Lambda Chi Alpha B
- 5:15 Court 40 Campbell Club B vs Kappa Sigma B
- 5:15 Court 43 Merrick B vs. Pi Kappa Alpha B

Two fraternity B teams and one Vets Dorm A team came out on top in yesterday afternoon's intramural basketball play. The Beta B's had little trouble with Cherney Hall as they won 29-2, Phi Kappa Sigma downed the Nestor B team 15-8, and McChesney A's defeated the Legal Eagles 38-22.

The first contest of the day was tighter than a Scotchman during the first half, as the Legal Eagles held a 9-7 lead over McChesney thanks mainly to the sharp shooting of Bobby Reynolds.

Bergstrom Stroms

The second half was a horse of a different color, however, as McChesney, the only undefeated dorm team, fast broke the lawyers into submission.

Bert Bergstrom was the big gun in the dormer's attack and his dazzling tip-ins and phenomenal shooting netted him 13 points. Reynolds also got 13 for the Eagles.

The Beta B's had things a little easier against Cherney Hall and rang up a 13-1 halftime margin.

Beta Dominates

The second half was almost a repeat performance as the Mill Race lads controlled both backboards and dominated scoring again.

Dale Brueger was the leader in the winner's attack, playing a fine floor game and scoring more than his share of points.

Don Schade and Frank Loennig carried the Cherney scoring burden with one point apiece.

Phi Kappas Roll

The Phi Kapp B's, inspired by Jim Cassell and Tom Juza, roared into a 12-7 lead at the rest stop but apparently used up all of their point-producing prowess in that half as they managed but three points to Nestor's one in the third and fourth periods.

Cassell sank 6 points for Phi Kappa Sigma while Pat Hanna kept the Vets dormer's offense in motion.

Discovery that there are 14 Reds in the state department was not made by examination of the department's policies.

Joe DiMaggio Talks Turkey

NEW YORK, Jan. 26—(AP)—Joe DiMaggio met with his New York Yankee bosses today to talk about his 1949 pay but they didn't get together on terms.

After receiving an offer, the slugging outfielder asked time to think it over.
