

Ducks Ready for Blackbirds

Long Island Team Looks Impressive During Workout

Clair Bee's Long Island team rolled into McArthur court yesterday and went through an impressive workout in preparation for tonight's game with Oregon's Webfoots. The Ducks worked earlier, but were dressed by the time the New Yorkers arrived.

The Blackbirds are carrying 17 players, their entire squad, but had to leave their trainer and manager at home. This will be their first game on a trip that will cover the country.

Long Island will be the favorites in tonight's game, boasting a height and experience edge over the Ducks. Their offense is built around smooth ball-handling, quick moving plays and long set shots, which is their speciality.

The starting lineup Bee is expected to use will have Dick Feurtado, 6-feet 3-inches, Jack French, 6-feet 4-inches, and Tom Murtha, 6-feet 6-inches in the front line with Sam Tolkoft and Nat Miller, both under 5-foot 10 handling the back court duties.

Though Bee might well use the whole squad, Lou Lipman, the leading scorer, Herb Scherer, LeRoy Smith and Sherman White will definitely see action. Scherer and White both tower six inches above the six foot mark.

John Warren is expected to use his regular combination of Will Urban and Jim Bartelt at the forward positions, Roger Wiley handling the pivot spot, and Johnny Neeley and Paul Sowers taking care of the guard posts. Also expected to see considerable action is Bob Amacher, the 6-foot 8-inch forward-center, whose height will be invaluable against the tall invaders.

LIU put on quite a show during their workout, running through several drills where the emphasis was strictly on ball-handling. They were also dropping in their long shots, mostly two-handers from behind the key, with amazing constancy.

Game time will be eight o'clock, following the preliminary game between the Oregon Frosh and a highly-touted Cottage Grove five starting at 6:15. The Ducklings will be gunning for their seventh win in eight starts.

Hoop action was limited to the "B" league as the Legal Eagles thumped the Sig Eps 21-9, McChesney beat Phi Kappa Psi 14-11, SAE blasted Sherry Ross 31-10, Kappa Sigma flattened Campbell club 32-16, and Pi Kappa Alpha beat out Merrick hall 20-16. Lambda Chi Alpha annexed a forfeit win when Sigma hall failed to appear at game-time.

Kappa Sigma's stellar pigskinners, Norm Van Brocklin, Bob Anderson, and George Bell, proved they could play basketball also as they spearheaded their team to an easy 32-to-16 triumph over Campbell club.

It was "Moose" Anderson who provided the scoring punch to the Kappa Sig quintet by pumping in 17 markers to capture high point honors. He was also a tower of strength under the hoop as he gathered in numerous rebounds.

Van Brocklin and Bell, although not as effective at producing points, were instrumental in bringing the ball down court and setting up the plays.

Bob Coughlin, Campbell guard, cast off with several long shots and racked up eight points to supply the only Clubber threat.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon, propelled by Jim Popp, Dave Gibson, and Scotty Adams, rambled over Sherry Ross hall to chalk up a 31-to-10 victory.

Gibson led the SAE attack throughout the first half as he dropped in 8 counters. Then Popp and Adams took over the offensive chores as they hit the hemp for ten and eight points respectively.

The Legal Eagles won the verdict handily as they trounced the Sig Eps five 21-9.

The rangy Lawyers moved out into an early command and were never headed. However, a sustained spree rally late in the second quarter brought the count up 7-5, Eagles' favor, at halftime.

The second half turned into a battle royal on the floor with the rugged style of play bringing a total of 16 fouls.

Bob MacDonald won high man honors for the Lawyers with five markers.
