UWF Leaders Seek Goal of World Peace

One world or no world—a long life or none whatever, was the somber refrain sung by the United World Federalists in their meeting at the YWCA Wednesday evening.

H. F. Weiss, chairman of the World Student Federalists recently organized on the campus, introduced two speakers, G. W. Gregory, chairman of the downtown branch of United World Federalists, and Mrs. R. E. Plettenberg, secretary of the downtown branch.

Gregory made it clear that the UWF intends to work through the United Nations in order to achieve its goal, which is world peace. This can be accomplished, he asserted, by revising the constitution of the UN and delegating to it sufficient authority so it may forcibly prevent a belligerent nation from waging war.

Once peace is secured, a world constitution would be drawn up by all nations, including Russia. Gregory pointed out that the situation in world affairs is much the same as confronted the Founding Fathers when they discarded the inadequate

Articles of Confederation and framed the Constitution of the United States. He cited the progress of the peace movement in foreign lands and closed his speech by saying:

"You who want to work for world peace have the unique opportunity of achieving this end by joining the ranks of the United World Federalists."

On the political side of the movement, it was affirmed that 45 Representatives and 12 United States Senators are committed to action on behalf of the World Federalists. In the two years since the inception of UWF, it has established many offices throughout the nation, and has a number of eminent citizens working for its cause.

According to Weiss the world student federalists have nearly 10,000 student members in 300 college chapters. In the near future an effort will be made to determine the attitude of U. of O. students toward this organization. A speaker's bureau has already been established for the dissemination of information relative to the group.

UO, California Debate Teams Tangle Monday

Two Oregon students, Don Dimick and Jerry Miller, will debate the subject, "Resolved: That the federal government should adopt a policy of equalizing educational opportunity in tax supported schools by means of annual grants," with two University of California students next Monday night, January 31, 8 p.m., in room 3, Fenton hall.

California, represented by two of the following three students: Frederic L. Harvey, Jerome Lackner, and Franklin W. Walker, will take the affirmative and Oregon the negative.

Dimick, a resident of Corvallis, and Miller, who resides in Coos Bay, are both seniors and transfer students from Oregon State college, where they obtained debate experience. Both are also members of the University Symposium, a group organized to provide public speaking experience to its members. Dimick is majoring in speech and Miller in business administration.

Chairman of the debate will be Jack Miller, a graduate student. Miller is also manager of the Symposium group.

The University debate group has participated in two contests during the school year, a demonstration debate with Lewis and Clark college and another with students from British universities.

All interested students are invited to attend the debate.

Luncheon Speaker

Dr. K. D. McMilan will be the guest speaker at the Pre-Nursing Club's luncheon meeting Friday, February 4. He will speak on the Rh factor. All interested persons are invited to attend the meeting at 1347 Onyx.

Army Accepts 2nd Lieutenant Applications

now apply for direct appointments as second lieutenants in the regular army. Applications will be processed at one of six new screening centers opened January 24. The applications may be obtained at the University ROTC unit.

Eligibility requirements include: one year of commissioned service in the army, navy, marines or coast guard between December 7, 1941, and September 2, 1945; or equivalent service with the United States health service on wartime duty with the army or navy; or with the Coast and Geodetic Survey service under specified military authorization during the war.

Age limits are between 21 and 27 years, although in certain cases wartime and since December 31, 1947, will permit appointments of qualified individuals up to their 30th birthdays.

Applicants must also have a bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university, although applications will be accepted now from individuals who will be graduated prior to June 30, 1949. A waiver will be considered for applicants having 120 or more semester hours gained through attendance at an accredited institution, even though they have not received a degree.

Fuel Lack Hits UO

Conservation of electricity is also urged. Adverse weather conditions have been responsible for a critical electric-power shortage throughout the Pacific Northwest. Faculty members are urged to help conserve electricity on the campus by shutting off lights in classrooms, offices, and other rooms when they are not definitely needed and by using electrically-operated machinery as little as possible.
