

Vets May Lose NSLI Policies Via Expiration

G. I. insurance is approaching expiration dates for an increasing number of Oregon veterans, Donald C. Schworer, Veterans Administration representative at the U. of O., warned today.

Veterans must take action if they wish to keep their National Service Life insurance in force, Schworer stated. Expiring contracts may be renewed for a new five-year term, or converted to a permanent plan.

Original term insurance taken out while in service before the end of 1945 expires eight years after being issued. Many ex-GIs took out their insurance early in 1941, and these contracts are now expiring.

There is no grace period after the eighth anniversary of a G.I. term policy. Schworer said the VA is attempting to notify veterans who have term insurance in force two months ahead of expiration, but some of them are likely to be overlooked.

If the veteran fails to apply for renewal or conversion before his original insurance expires, a physical examination will be necessary in order to regain coverage at any later date.

Petitions Due For Play Day

Petitions for Play Day may now be turned in by women students to Bep McCourrey, WAA president at the Delta Gamma house. The annual event will hold its first meet on the Oregon campus April 2.

General chairman, and heads of registration, invitations, refreshments, clean-up, games and hostess committees are needed. Petitions are available at the dean's office in Emerald hall. They are due Thursday.

Girls from schools throughout Oregon will attend the event. They will participate in, such games as badminton, tennis, volleyball, softball, swimming and square dancing.

Reed college in Portland was host for the event last year.

WAA Petitions Due Thursday

Organizational ability is the main requirement needed for girls interested in heading the spring tennis intramural, according to Bep McCourrey, president of WAA.

Petitions, available at the dean's office in Emerald hall, may be turned in to Miss McCourrey at the Delta Gamma house until Thursday. Good playing ability is not essential, she said.
