

Handball Tourney Planned on Campus

An all-campus singles straight elimination handball tourney will highlight the post season action of physical education activities.

Jim Vitti, intramural sports manager, will sponsor and govern the playoff.

Participation is open to all students and faculty members on a voluntary basis. Houses will not be required to floor a team for the contest as in regular intramural competition.

The winner of two out of three matches will be permitted to advance toward the championship round.

The tournament will be completely separate from the intramural program. No gifts, prizes, awards, or I-M points will be given to the champions.

"This contest is being sponsored purely for the competitive spirit involved," Vitti said, "and it is hoped that he have a large number of applications for this all-round title."

Application can be made at the intramural office or to Vitti personally. All applications must be submitted before February 25 to facilitate matching.

Coffee Hour Tonight

All foreign students on the campus are invited to a coffee hour from 6:45 to 7:15 at the Zeta Tau Alpha house tonight, announced Marjorie Petersen and Amy Lou Ware, co-chairmen of the international affairs committee of the YWCA.

The meeting is held to make further plans for the International Festival and to plan ways for the foreign students to take part in the program, said the co-chairmen.

Stag lines

By Al Pietschman

The news about the German frauleins advertising their love on billboards probably comes as a great surprise to many on the campus. The new form of promotion is just a bit more obvious than methods that they used when Germany was first occupied by the Allies.

We can see such a situation on the campus. Ah, the Advertising Manager of the Emerald is swamped with lonely women—and men. No longer is the front page of prime importance, or even the gossip column.

Everyone turns to the want ads or the display ads first. Free love has come to the campus! It's been pretty cold around here, but as the saying goes, "It will be a cold day on the campus when that happens," and it isn't that cold, yet.

We would like to have some German student write a letter to one of these fraulein-advertising specialists and see what develops.

The Gamma Phis deserve a big "thank you" for the way they presented their argyles for judging the other day. They had an array of twelve or so and had they all laid out in spic and span order with the names of the girls written on paper displaying the woolens.

And we must say that they had some very colorful and eye-stopping sox on display.

The contest has snowballed to proportions larger than we expected, and thus another prize. Besides the four cartons of Chesterfields presented to the winner of the contest we offer this:

To the winner's living organization a pack of Chesterfields to every girl in the house.

Some girls and some women's living organization is going to be ahead. Who will it be? We tell in next Tuesday's Emerald.

Two Art Films Shown Tonight

Two films, "Old Places of Paris" and "Rodin," will be shown tonight in room 107 of the architecture building on the University campus at 7:30 p. m. An introductory talk by Professor R. L. Picard of the French department and Mrs. Marijane Appling, graduate assistant in sculpture, will be given.

This will be the first meeting of Tridimen, a society recently organized and approved by Sidney W. Little, Dean of the Arts and Architecture school, for the purpose of furthering the interests of progressive tendencies in contemporary sculpture and to promote the knowledge, understanding, and appreciation of sculpture in the school and community. Students and townspeople are invited to attend and participate in the activities of the group.

Assistants Needed For YW Booklet

Any girl interested in assisting with publication of a booklet for high school senior girls, sponsored by the upper-class commission of the YWCA, may petition at the Y bungalow by Friday noon, announced Mrs. Joan O'Neill Foulon, chairman of the commission.

Work is beginning immediately so the booklets can be mailed by the first of spring term, Mrs. Foulon said. People are needed for reporters, typists, and layout.

Seminars Planned

Two seminars for this week have been scheduled by science departments on campus.

Craig Hudson will speak at a physics seminar Thursday at 4 p. m. and Nancy Baughman and George Armen will speak at a biology seminar Friday at 4 p. m. Both seminars will be held in 105 Deady hall.

To win a reputation as a prophet one has only to predict trouble.

Pi Phis Lose 27-3 In WAA I-M Ball

Ending the game with a 24-point lead, Wiki-Wiki swept past Pi Beta Phi winning 27-3 in yesterday's WAA intramural basketball play.

Outstanding at a forward position was Dixie McCulloch, who bucketed 15 counters for the off-campus team. Also high in scoring was Viola Robbins with ten. The field goal of Jane Guynes and Janet Weatherall's free throw were the only points gained by the losers.

A score of 2-0 was given University house when Alpha hall failed to appear with a complete team.

In Monday's game, Hendricks hall came through with a close win over Delta Delta Delta, 13-11. Leading the Hendricks attack was Betty Simpson, who chalked up nine counters, with eight of the Tri Delt points being contributed by Janet Frye and Mary Penwarden.

Playing this afternoon will be Rebecca house and Alpha Delta Pi in the indoor gym, and Alpha Omicron Pi and Highland house in the outdoor gym.

Tri Delts Arrange Baby Sitting Plan

In order to increase their fun for campus scholarship award members of Delta Delta Delta have announced a baby-sitting service open to married students, faculty members, and Eugene townspeople. Each girl is donating a portion of her time.

Three scholarships were awarded to girls on the Oregon campus by the Tri Delts last year, and the hope to raise this number through this baby-tending service. The scholarships will be awarded at the Campus Sing during Junior Weekend.

Requests for sitters will be accepted by Gloria Stannard at 290
