

Ducklings Prepare For Weekend Tilts; Hunt, Clausen Pace Scoring

The Oregon Ducklings, back on the victory wagon again, are preparing for another pair of tough teams next Friday and Saturday when they tangle with Roseburg high and Portland's Frosh, respectively.

The frosh collected two more wins last weekend, bringing their season's record up to an 11-won 3-lost mark. The victims were Medford, Friday night, 44-36, and Marshfield, Saturday night, 54-49.

Marshfield's Pirates, short on height but long on ability and teamwork, appeared on their way to upending Don Kirsch's team early in the Saturday game and led at the first period mark, 14-13.

After that, however, Frosh Guard Ken Hunt, ex-Marshfield luminary, began working on his former mates with a vengeance and sank shots from all over the floor to lead the Ducklings to victory.

Hunt sank 19 points during the evening's festivities, while teammate Bob Gilbert was scoring 10. In Friday night's Medford game it was also Hunt who took scoring honors with 13, Center Clancy Hultgren getting 11.

IM Basketball Winners Confer

There will be an important meeting of all Intramural basketball league winners Friday, February 19, at 9 a. m. in the Men's PE Building. Each house is to send a team manager or representative to the meeting.

The list of winning teams is as follows: Theta Chi, Phi Delta Theta, Sigma Chi, Lambda Chi, Delta Tau Delta, McChesney Hall, Fizzeds, Phi Sigma Kappa, Alpha Tau Omega, Sigma Alpha Mu, Nestor Hall.

Sigma Chi Defeats Beta in Handball

In the only handball games played yesterday in the Intramural league Sigma Chi whitewashed Beta Theta Pi, 3-0.

Forward Bill Clausen, who has been a steady scorer as of late, is now tied for Duckling point-making laurels with Hunt, both of whom have 102 points.

Guard Bill Korpela, former Astorian, is holding down the number three spot with 73 points, while Jim Vranizan, who has missed several ball games, is next with 70.

Swimming Team Girds For Two Duel Meets

With Coach John Borchardt cracking the whip over them this past week, the Varsity Aquaducks have shown marked improvements in performances and it is well that they have for they are up for double duty this weekend against Idaho on Friday and Washington State on Saturday.

Leading the way on the improved list is Sophomore Louis Santos, who started out the year rather poorly as compared to his times as a yearling.

Santos to Press Leaders

However, Santos has now come down, has surpassed his best times for last year, and bids fair to give the best in the conference a rough race for sprints honors for the rest of the season.

Senior Bob Hiatt has also shown considerable improvement since the Husky meet in Seattle.

He looks as though he might show some of the class which made him such a highly rated distance swimmer in the pre-war days.

Meets Stiff Competition

He will face the two most improved swimmers in the ND this coming weekend when he meets Jim Farmer from Idaho and By Canning from Washington State on succeeding days.

The fine improvement of George Balch in the sprints has been nothing short of sensational.

Balch is a junior but lacks experience and water know-how.

Pushes Record

Also on the marked improvement list is Stan Hargraves who, during the past week, has been consistently pushing the ND record in the 180-yard individual medley, set by Earl Walter in the OSC meet earlier this year.

Yesterday in the men's pool George Moorhead finally hit his stride for the first time this season.

If this improvement continues along with the rest of the team the Ducks' future will look much brighter.

Nekota Shapes Up

Tom Nekota is also shaping up nicely in the sprint department and his improvement has meant new hope for the Ducks in their quest for some ND laurels.

Rod Harmon, Jim Stanley, Willie McCullough, Art Bayly and Earl Walter have also shown some improvement along with the general trend.

All of which, of course, gives the Aquaducks the better opportunity to upset the favored Cougars and Vandals.

Webfoot hopes for the coming San Francisco series this weekend took a turn for the better when regular guard Johnny Neeley showed up at practice yesterday in good shape.

The slim sophomore, who was able to play but little against Washington State, took part in light warm-up drills, along with the other regulars, during the brief session.

However, even with Neeley at his best, the Ducks will have a rough weekend ahead of them. The visiting Dons have lost only four games while winning 19, and they have met some-rough teams during the season.

The visitors boast a well-rounded club, paced by the scoring of forward Don Lofgran and pivotman Joe McNamee. The two regular guards, Rene Herrerias and Ross Guidice, are both good ball-handlers and fast.

The other starter, forward John Benington, ranks third in scoring and helps Lofgran and McNamee, both of the latter standing 6-foot 6, under the backboards.

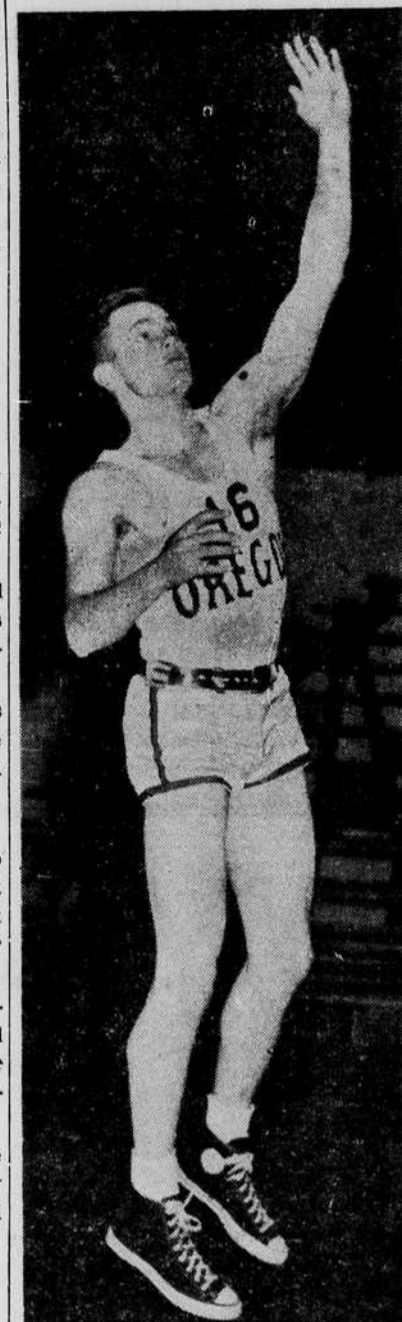

Coached by Pete Newell, the USF team has knocked over such opposition as California, Kansas State, North Carolina State, LaSalle, CNY (twice), Bradley, Santa Clara and St. Mary's.

Their only losses are to Bradley, in a return engagement last Friday, and three PCC Southern Division teams, Stanford, USC and UCLA.

The only previous meeting between the two quints was last year, when the Webfoots won out 48-46. However, every man from that USF squad is still around while the Webfoots have lost several of last season's stars.

Roger Wiley still remains as the top point producer of the Northern Division, tallying up 177 points in 12 games. His closest rival is Bill Vandenburg of Washington with 140 in 12 tilts.

Wiley's average per game of 14.8 is also high in the circuit. Trailing the Webfoot ace in this department is Eddie Gayda with 11.8, narrowly beating out Vandenburg who has 11.7.

CONTINUED IMPROVEMENT has marked the rise of Dale Warberg, 6 ft., 2 in., Duck sub forward, in the cage ranks, and the big fellow figures to give San Francisco quite a bit of trouble here this weekend.
